no attention to them particularly, but sure and effetive.-Chicago Record. after we had gone about 50 miles I saw that one of them was handcuffed. He was well-dressed, and at first I thought he did not look like a criminal, but soon saw lines that betokened cunning duplicity and a lack of morality generally. I became so interested that my gaze attracted the attention of one of the officers having him in charge, and he said: "You seem to be studying the man I have there. Did you ever see him before?' I told him I had not, but I was a physiognomist, and was studying the criminal lines in the face. He prevailed upon me to make a report on the man's character, which was greeted with laughter from the prisoner as well as the officers. Then they explained that he was of irreproachable character, and in a prank had tried on the cuffs, which belonged to the officer, and the key being lost, could not get them off. Then the criminal lines in the face all disap-

WAR BALLOONS.

Many of Them Used During the Siege of Paris.

An Excellent Method of Getting Within the Enemy's Lines-Ballooning Has Since Become an Important Branch of Military Study.

The last big European war taught the French more about ballooning they would otherwise have than learned in a generation. At the begin ning of the war the government rejected many proposals from balloon makers to construct a number of war balloons, but when they were shut up in Paris they giadly turned to the balloon to help them. They turned all their disused stations into balloon factories, and sought the services of the few experienced aeronauts then available for the teaching of the use and management of the balloon to the people. During four months 66 balloons left Paris, of which number only three have never been accounted for. This is remarkable when it is rememkered that no lights were allowed in the night ascensions, and the balloons could only be sent up under cover of darkness

One hundred and sixty persons, including Gambetta, were carried safely over the Prussian lines, and 2,500,000 letters were sent. The balloons also took with them pigeons, which were sent back to Paris with letters and dispatches. The messages were written and photographed down very small on exceedingly thin paper. This was rolled up, inserted in a quill and attached to the tail feathers of the pigeon. When it was received in Paris the photograph was put under a microscope and the message read. One of the balloons, the Ville d'Orleans, left Paris at 11 o'clock at night, and arrived near Christiana, Norway, 15 hours later, having crossed the North ea in its remarkable voyage. Most of the aeronauts were sailors, who were shosen because of their familiarity with the management and steering of boats at sea, and they proved very capable. During the entire siege balloons formed the only means of communication with the outside world for the imprisoned inhabitants, and nothing could have taken their place.

Since then ballooning has been made an important branch of military study. and the course through which the ballooning corps has to pass is becoming daily more scientific and severe. The war balloon must be compact, always ready for action, and very strong. It is not large enough for two. It is always captive-that is, it is secured to the earth by a cable. It is seldom emptied of its gas, and is, therefore, always ready for action at a moment's notice. The equipment of a balloon corps, besides the balloon itself, consists essentially of two wagons, one large and heavy, somewhat resembling a lumber truck, and the other considerably smaller. The former is used to fasten the balloon to, and is provided with large reels containing about 2,000 yards of twisted wire rope. The smaller wagon is filled with iron pipes containing gas, and is technically called the "tube wagon."

At the word of command the balloon, always inflated, is released, and bounds upward to the height of several hundred feet, uncoiling the rope after it. The officer in the car takes up with him maps of the surrounding country and a field glass. The position and arrangement of the enemy are marked down on the maps with different colored A Man's Character Cannot Always Be pencils, indicating cavalry, infantry, etc. These marked maps are then "I used to be a strong believer in phy- placed in a leather bag, which is atsiognomy," said R. Each apart ment in the wall is large enough to admit one coffin, and is rented for $1 per month. The poor people are buried in the ground without the formality of a coffin, though one is usually rented in which the body is conveyed to the grave. As there are not graves enough to go round, whenever a new one is needed a previous tenant must be dis turbed, and this likewise happens when a tenant's rent is not promptly paid in advance. The body is then removed from its place in the mausoleum or exhumed, as the case may be, and the bones are thrown into the basement be-

PLANTS THAT GO INTO A TRANCE Eastern Man Invents a Plan for Arresting

A curious exhibit is made at the Me chanies' fair. It is nothing more nor less than a display of "mummfied" plants. It requires a label to inform the people that they are dead, says the Boston Transcript, for the plants appear exactly as if alive and growing. They are not made of wax, or of cloth, but are genuine plants that have grown in the earth until they have reached a good state of development, when, by their being treated to a certain injection, the growth is arrested. Then comes the strange part, for the plants so treated do not droop and die, the leaves remain fresh and bright, and the plant stands erect. It is, moreover, impervious to heat and cold, and noth ing seems able to destroy its strange repose. The most striking part of the exhibit is a collection of large paims used for decorating. These plants are noted for being very tender and susceptible to almost every influence Those on exhibition have been dead for six months, yet not even when the leaves are carefully examined would the fact be suspected. The exhibit promises to create much interest among visitors to the fair, as the many advantages of having plants thus impervious to all conditions can be readily seen. The credit of providing the exhibit belongs to a New Hampshire man, who discovered the process of treating

"I located the meanest mon in the world a few days ago," said a traveling man, according to the Washington "I stopped at a small Virginia town, and, the hotel being crowded, had to sleep in the room with another man. JUCCESS OF THREE SISTENS Reverses in Fortune Induce Them to Open a Lunch Room. The city of Cincinnati pos striking example of what can be done by woman's pluck when accompanied by practical common sense. Twelve years ago the Misses Stewart, three young women who had been reared in wealth, were by business failures thrown upon their own resources.

They secured a room in a business block and established a lunch-room, where they made a specialty of home cookery. Most of the work they did with their own hands, and the excellence of their supplies soon created a demand. The little lunch-room became a success, and at the end of five years, when the great Chamber of Commerce building was put up and there was to be a large restaurant connected with it, the Misses Stewart boldly applied for it. They were backed by many of the best business men of the city, who had known them in their days of wealth and been impressed by their ability as business women. Their bid was accepted, the Misses Stewart assumed charge of the "Glencairn" lunch-room. and have conducted it without a break or a failure for the last seven years.

The clientele is very large. For rent and services alone the yearly expenses are $10,000. The prices charged for food are very reasonable, yet the sisters not only paid all expenses, but live in comfort and are becoming wealthy. They have never lost social position by going into business, and during their entire career have never had to borrow a dollar.

POISONED AIR.

What Produces Discomfort in a Crowded Room.

A very important investigation into the nature of the substances contained in air expired by human beings, says the London Graphic, has just been completed by two prominent men of science in America, Dr. J. S. Billings and Dr S. Weir Mitchell. As a result of their extended researches they declare that "the discomfort produced by crowded, ill-ventilated rooms, in persons not accustomed to them, is not the clerk said the man was a horse due to the excess of carbonic acid, nor buyer, and it would be made all right, to bacteria, nor in most cases to dust so I took the train to a town about of any kind. ## THE FIRST BATTLE

THE FIRST BATTLE is an interesting story of the great political struggle of 1896, its most important events and the many issues involved: a logical treatise on Bi-metallism as uttered by eminent exponents, including the part taken by Hon. W. J. Bryan in the silver agitation prior to the Democratic National Convention, and during the campaign; the best examples of his wonderful oratory, the most noteworthy incidents of his famous tour, a careful review of the political situation, a discussion of the election returns and the significance thereof, and the future possibilities of Bi-metallism as a political issue.
