All persons having claims against The Dalles National Bank, of The Dalles, Oregon, must present the same to H. S. Wilson, receiver, with the legal proof thereof, within three months from the date hereof, or they may be disallowed. Washington, D. C., June 5, 1897. JAMES H. ECKELS, Comptroller.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is fair and warmer.

The grand council of the Redmen is in session here, holding its first meeting this morning.

The big green-coated watermelon is abundant, filling for The Dalles' small boy a long felt want.

The O. R. & N. is having the depot painted, a piece of work that has been needed for several years.

The examination of the men charged with robbing the Indians is still going on before Justice Filloon. It will probably be completed today.

The salmon run is far from good, but still much better than it was a week or two ago. Seufert's wheel No. 5, caught six tons a day or so since, and makes a catch of a few tons every night.

The Elite Candy factory has just put in a fine new soda fountain, and is prepared to furnish its customers soda-ice cream as well as soda, with the most delicious flavoring. Try one of its milk shakes. 2-16-tf

Last night a ladies' gold watch was raffled off at the Umatilla house. There were two hundred tickets in two series, the watch being valued at $100. Harry Liebe had a ticket that cost him 5 cents and it is unnecessary to add he won the watch.

The Woman's Relief Corps will give a social next Saturday evening at Schanno's Hall. A good program is being arranged. Refreshments will be served. Admission fifteen cents. As this is purely a charitable organization let there be a good attendance.

Judd Fish telephoned down from Cloud Cap today at noon, that the party arrived there last night at 11 o'clock, and most of its members made the ascent of the mountain today. Judd has no Clondyke fever and didn't care to sample mountain climbing by tackling Mt. Hood.

Mr. Fen Batty will not go to the Clondyke, at least until next spring. Not that he has changed his mind, but simply because he could not get passage on the Elder, and he very sensibly declines to start a week or two later. There are quite a number of our people who will go in the spring unless reports at that time are discouraging.

We know nothing about the merits of the Pendleton Tribune squabble, but we do know that McMann through the columns of the Pendleton Republican is yelping like a whole drove of Coyotes of a winter night. With all the concentrated and accumulated load of woes, which he sings of, one would think he would go gunning with a cannon for his enemies.

The Bonanza mine in the Greenhorn district, 50 miles west of Baker City, was sold Saturday for $750,000. Two years ago it could have been bought for $100,000, and five years ago its owners offered it to the storekeepers of Baker City for their indebtedness, about $30,000. The mine has $3,000,000 worth of ore in sight, and why its owners parted with it, is a mystery.

A feat in upper river navigation hitherto unaccomplished, was the trip of the Gypsy, from Corvallis up to the Wilhelm warehouse, Monroe, says the Corvallis Times. This is said to be the latest in the season that a boat ever passed up the river so far. It was made possible by the late work of the Mathjoms in building winddams where the river channel has hitherto been too shallow. The Gypsy brought down 60 bags of wool and 125 barrels of flour.

The reports from Skamania county's mines are not flattering. There seems to be from all accounts considerable bodies of ore, but it does not appear to carry much precious metal. Every report that we have heard expresses the opinion that ore is to get richer as the depth is reached, but this is an open question. Ore is just as likely to turn poorer as to get richer, and if there is no pay in the top the chances are against the mines being a success. The Cascade range is a hard lot anyhow, difficult to prospect, spotted and disappointing.

The contractors for the government lighthouse at Westport have the foundation for the keeper's house about completed. The stonecutters will finish their work cutting the stone for the lighthouse by the middle of the week. The framework for the large water tank is up. The foundation for the foghorn station is about completed. A large force is at work clearing the ground and erecting the necessary buildings. On the lighthouse itself excavation work has been commenced, and the stone is almost ready for the builders. The work is being done in a thorough manner.

Donald Macleay Dead.

Donald Macleay, of the firm of Corbett & Macleay, died at Portland, Monday morning at 12:45. He had been sick for some time, and the result was not unexpected. He was born in Scotland, in 1834, going to Canada in 1850, and coming to the Pacific coast in 1861. He leaves one son and three daughters, two of the latter being married. On the occasion of queen's jubilee, Mr. Macleay presented the city of Portland 100 acres of land in the outskirts of the city which will be improved and named Macleay Park.

Bicycle accidents on Belmont are constant, and some of them are amusing beyond description. Edward Hanson, who lives at East Twenty-Eighth, relates an amusing accident which occurred the other evening. He has some cows, and he sent a boy across Belmont street with one. The animal walked rather slowly in spite of the efforts of the boy, who saw a scorcher bearing down on her a short distance east. The rider had his head down and was riding at the rate of about 10 miles an hour. When within a yard or so of the cow he raised his head and saw her, but it was then too late to stop or turn to one side, and he dashed against the side of the animal. The shock nearly knocked the cow down, but the rider went on the cow's back and the wheel under. The animal gave a bellow and with a wild plunge lifted the scorcher off her back and dashed across the street, while the wheelman picked himself up somewhat dazed, but not much hurt. His wheel was somewhat damaged.—Telegram.

A Distinguished Visitor From Michigan.

Rev. C. H. Maxson, pastor of the Michigan Avenue Baptist church, the leading Baptist church of Saginaw, Michigan, occupied Rev. O. D. Taylor's pulpit last Sunday, preaching an able and interesting sermon to a highly appreciative congregation. Mr. Taylor induced the speaker in a few appropriate words, making touching reference to the generous kindness which Mr. Maxson had extended towards him at a time when almost a stranger and in trouble in Mr. Maxson's city, he needed substantial sympathy and help. Mr. Maxson took for his text the last clause of the 32d verse of the 11th chapter of Genesis, "And Terah died in Haran;" and from the incident of the patriarch's death while he tarried in Haran, without ever seeing the land of Canaan towards which he had at one time directed his steps, the speaker drew some impressive analogies of the numerous earthly objects that hinder or retard or turn aside men from the path that leads to the Heavenly Canaan and to God.

Mr. Maxson is a young man of very pronounced ability, and his sermon was regarded as a great treat by those who had the pleasure of hearing him. The gentleman was taking a short summer vacation, and left here Monday morning for a trip to the Yellowstone National Park.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Dick Gorman and Leo Schanno went to Moffat Springs this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. McArthur went to Hood River on the Baker this morning.

C. E. Bayard and wife went to Hoqd River this morning for a week or two's outing.

Henry Blackman, of the revenue service, was a passenger on the 8:30 train this morning.

Mr. John Parrott leaves in the morning for Portland, and will be one of those who start on the Elder for the Clondyke.

Misses Edna, Grace and Hattie Glenn were passengers on the Baker this morning, going for a day on the river and returning tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mitchell, Misses Rose, Annette and Myrtle Mitchell, Miss Louise Ruch and Misses Cora and May Wells, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, went to Hood River on the delayed train passing through here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. They go by private conveyance to Mount Hood today to remain two or three days. Some of the young ladies may make the ascent of the mountain. If so, when they get to the top the line of demarcation between the angels of this world and those of the other will be so closely drawn that a common mortal put on oath couldn't tell which to classify them with.
