MR. BECKER'S GENIUS.

Mr. Becker of Albany, Oregon, is on his way to the Klondike, leaving on the Elder yesterday. There is nothing remarkable in the fact that Mr. Becker has gone Klondike crazy, along with a large contingent unrestrained by the walls of the asylum building; but Mr. Becker had an original idea, which he has undertaken to put in practice. He read of the dizzy heights and perpendicular climb of Chilcoot pass, and at once began to investigate the matter with a view to overcoming its difficulties. His versatile mind at once suggested the much-abused goat as the animal par excellence for the job. He reasoned that the goat as a climber can't be beaten, and consequently that he ought to be able to stand the climb of Chilcoot pass. The Borean blasts that sweep over the Chilcoot would toy vainly with the flowing whiskers of those old timers; and what more appropriate animal to face the Arctic circle than these descendants of old Capricornus, into which the sun itself enters at the winter solstice.

And so Mr. Becker sailed away for Nature's cold storage vault, on the Elder, carrying with him ten Billys and Nannys, each provided with a pretty little pack saddle. Each animal is expected to carry fifty pounds of freight and to live on icebergs, moss, or any old thing. Of course it is only an experiment, but Mr. Becker deserves to succeed, and we hope he will. When he gets into Dawson City with his novel pack train he can at least lay claim to having brought some specimens of Oregon's best butter.

The injunction issued by Judge Jackson against the striking miners is not what the first newspaper reports indicated. According to these the injunction was to prevent the striking miners assembling or talking to those who were at work. The full text of the injunction, printed in the dispatches yesterday, puts a different light upon it. The first injunction would have been monstrous, but as issued it is all right. The injunction is simply to prevent the striking miners from assembling on the property of the company that seeks to employ them, and to prevent them interfering with the company's employees while on their way to or from their work, the employees living on the company's ground. No fault can be found with this, for the company has a right to say who shall and who shall not enter upon its premises. The strikers themselves recognize this and have obeyed the commands of the sheriff. The motion for a permanent injunction is set down for hearing at the United States courtroom at Wheeling, Virginia, on September 20th. In the meanwhile the temporary injunction has been granted to take effect upon the filing of a proper bond.

Probably the worst feature of the Klondike craze is that some of the bedlamites can't loosen their safety valves, except in alleged poetry. A sensible public can look on undismayed as the crowd surges towards the gang planks of the steamers. It can read the Aladdin-like tales of suddenly-acquired wealth and never bat an envious eye; but poetry, Gad zooks! has it come to this? The quivering air of August, with the mercury up to 106, fairly shivers at some of these doggerel verses. Perhaps the worst production of the kind that has appeared in print is that of J. B. Chapman, M. D., that appears in the Seattle P. I. After reading it one involuntarily wishes the doctor a speedy voyage and a long stay, and hopes that he may take his poem with him to Alaska and practice on it. Some of the lines in the thing would start a thaw in January.

Stewart of Nevada says it is useless to longer advocate free coinage of silver. Stewart is like the applicant for the country school, who in response to the question as to whether he taught that the world was round or flat, replied that he could teach it either way. He has always been a trickster and a trimmer, caring nothing for principles, and having an eye single for Stewart's advancement. He is a brainy fellow, and had his talents not taken him into the profession of the law and politics, he would have made an equal success in some other of the criminal lines. He sees that the silver issue is dead, and that in order to hold his position he must trim ship and take another tack. He is bold and prefers to lead rather than to follow, and this alone accounts for his sudden change of front.

Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.
In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write to me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy always affords prompt relief. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured with local applications; as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.
