WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The Rev. Orlando Osborne will preach at the Calvary Baptist church this evening, at 8 o'clock. All are invited.

From 426 acres of land near Kingsley, belonging to M. A. Moody, sixty tons of hay were cut, and more than 9,000 bushels of grain have been threshed this season.

The hose team has begun practicing for the tournament and by that time will be in condition to give all competitors a lively race.

If a fellow could can up a few hundred gallons of this weather and ship it to the Klondike next winter, it ought to sell readily for a dollar a can.

The weather clerk, with utter disregard for everything and everybody, has ordered up weather for tomorrow which he classes as fair and warmer.

Doctor Hollister says Maloney "has a fighting chance for his life." That's the chance Dan is looking for, and he will therefore probably get well.

Mr. Larkin Weaver, who has resided here for a year or more, and who has been sick for some time, was taken to Arlington not long ago by his mother, in hope of benefiting his health. He rallied for a short time, but Thursday passed away. He leaves besides his wife, one little daughter.

The engine for the Columbia Southern railroad arrived here today and this afternoon it pulled out for Biggs, carrying Superintendent Lytle and others. Two miles of the iron is in place, and it is expected that the road will be finished by September or at least during the first few days of that month.

This was the hottest day of the year, Mr. Brooks, the local weather observer, reporting his thermometer as registering 195 degrees in the shade. A remarkable thing about it is that there is but little difference between the heat in the shade and that in the sun, the thermometer only going up to 108 when exposed to its full rays. And yet, in spite of this, Fague has ordered warmer weather for tomorrow.

Oats and wheat are as high as a man's head on Indian farms on the reservation in the Klamath-agency division, and there are about 700 acres of it, says the Klamath Falls Republican. The oats will yield fifty bushels to the acre, and wheat forty, and there is not an unpromising acre among the whole 700. This information is furnished us by George Hurn, the Klamath agency farmer, who was in town yesterday. Crops at Yainax are reported poor, which is, no doubt, through lack of proper cultivation.

We Correct It Gladly.

A few days ago we took occasion to comment upon an article appearing in the Spokesman-Review concerning the loss by fire of all her property by Mrs. M. J. Delaney at Farmington, and an appeal for aid following thereon. Our criticism bore hardly on Mrs. Delaney's children, and it seems unjust.

We have just received a letter from Mr. E. P. Lorris, one of her sons-in-law, giving an account of the whole matter, which puts it in an entirely different light. It seems that Mrs. Delaney is of a very self-reliant and independent character, a type of the early pioneer; that the article in the Spokesman-Review was published without her knowledge or consent or that of her relatives, and that Mr. Dorris, as well as her other sons-in-law and daughters, were at all times willing and anxious to have her make her home with them, and that her self-reliant spirit had heretofore prevented her doing so.

The letter to the Spokesman Review was written by one who knew nothing of the circumstances and was a piece of unwarranted meddling that has only served to make Mrs. Delaney and her relatives feel badly. Of course we knew nothing of the circumstances, but commented upon the conditions as stated in the Review.

From Mr. Dorris' letter we learn that the deepest affection exists between the children and their mother, and that our criticism wounded her as much as her relatives. We can only add again that we were commenting upon the conditions as they appeared from Mr. Garrett's article, and certainly had no intention of adding one drop to Mrs. Delaney's cup of sorrow.

We are pleased indeed to make this correction, and more than pleased to know that one case of reported filial ingratitude is baseless.

L. Skibbe's Body Found.

The body of Mr. Skibbe, father of F. W. L. Skibbe, was found this morning in the canyon between Bruen's and Crawford's places. His gun was lying by a rock a short distance above him, and it is supposed that he sat down on the rock to rest and that he had an attack of heart disease. The gun was loaded, and there were no signs of violence on the body.

The inquest will be held this evening, but as there was no one near at the time of his death, no further facts are liable to be disclosed.

Mr. Skibbe went hunting Sunday, and not returning in the evening a search was begun for him, resulting in finding his body as stated.

DAN MALONEY SHOT.

Attacked Jack Prah! the Second Time, and the Latter Shot to Kill.

Yesterday afternoon about 3:45 three pistol shots, fired in quick succession, drew a crowd to the corner of Court and First streets, where it was learned that Dan Maloney had been shot by a young fellow 21 years of age, named Jack Prah! Maloney was taken into a room back of the Baldwin saloon, and Dr. Hollister was called to attend to his injuries. An examination disclosed that one bullet had struck him about two inches below the left nipple, ranging downwards. The wound is identical with that that killed President Garfield. He was taken to a room in the Bettingen building, where he is being cared for. Dr. Hollister informs us that the bullet probably lodged in the right kidney. His pulse has been at 130 all night, but he shows wonderful vitality and has a fighting chance for his life.

The trouble, it seems, began at Canby Prairie, Wash., last 4th of July over a horse race, and was renewed yesterday by Maloney when he ran across Prah! words leading to blows, the latter being given by Maloney, who struck Prah! This being over, Maloney again ran across Prah! at the Baldwin corner and knocked him down. As Prah! got up he picked up a rock and warned Maloney not to come any nearer. The latter continued to advance when Prah! pulled his pistol and fired, with the results stated.

After the shooting, Prah! walked up Court street to the Wiseman corner, followed closely by Constable Hill, who called upon him to surrender. Prah! replied that if he was an officer he would do so, and Dick Gorman, who was looking out of the window from Bennett's office, and who knew Prah!, called out to him to surrender that Hill was an officer. Prah! threw his pistol down and walked quietly to the city jail. The pistol was a new one purchased yesterday after the first trouble, from Mays & Crowe. It is a 38, Ivor-Johnson Arms & Cycle Co. Works of Pittsburg, Pa. make, and is of the hammerless style. Prah! at the jail seemed somewhat excited, but very wisely refused to make any statement concerning the affair.

BIG DAY AT ASTORIA.

The Annual Regatta Began There Today With a Grand Marine Parade.

A dispatch from Astoria yesterday says:

The opening ceremonies of the fourth annual regatta, Friday morning, promise to be the most brilliant in the history of Astoria's regattas, and the whole affair will probably excel anything of the kind ever seen on the Northwest coast.

In the morning will take place the marine parade, participated in by all the boats on the river, steam and sailing vessels, conducting the queen of the carnival and her maids from the lower harbor at Flavel past the city water front, counter-march from Upper Town back to the grandstand, where the queen will disembark with her court attendants, be coronated and ascend the throne on the grandstand. The mayor and city officials will then be presented, and in his address the mayor will hand to the queen the golden keys of the city, closing the morning exercises.

During the marine procession and the coronation ceremonies, which are in charge of Professor J. N. Beggs, a chorus of 300 voices with the band will render appropriate music.

A large number of entries have been made today for all the principal races, and a special race has been arranged for Monday. The grand ball of the carnival will be held Friday night, and will be a brilliant affair. The queen of the carnival will preside, and it is already assured that a large attendance will be present.

The sports on land in the afternoon of Friday will be of the most interesting character. Foot races, baseball, Indian races and other events will fill every minute. The transportation companies, particularly the O. R. & N. and White Collar lines, have made themselves specially popular with the people by their liberal donations to the fund, as well as extensive advertising of the events.

Drowned in the John Day.

Sunday morning, August 8th, Fred Heidtman, aged about 18 years, was drowned in the John Day river about two miles below the mouth of Service creek. In company with two other boys he rode his horse across a small channel of the river to an island and all three went in swimming. None of them could swim but a little, but they undertook to swim from the island to the main shore. Heidtman gave out in the middle of the stream, and though the other boys, who had gotten across, made a gallant effort to save him, he sank in ten feet of water. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. C. Heidtman. The body was recovered in a few hours and interred at Fossil.
