More "Unwritten Law."

About a year ago W. S. Kimes shot and seriously injured Benjamin Hall, turnkey of the jail at Parkersburg, W. Va., because Hall had alienated the affections of Mrs. Kimes. Kimes confessed and said he regretted that he had not killed his victim. Judge Jackson gave him a sentence of twenty-four hours in jail and a fine of $100 and costs, and then concurred in a petition signed by many citizens pleading for the remission of the fine. Governor Atkinson on August 10th gave notice that he would remit the fine. The governor said ;

"This is a remarkable case. The only regret in the matter is that Kimes did not kill Hall. He ought to have done of the same time that the cattle should so. He tried to do so, but his pistol missed fire. He shot the scoundrel tour times, but unfortunately did not kill him. Every man who has a soul in his body will agree with me that he ought apprehended and imprisoned for life. If fat cattle, steers, cows, sheep, goats, the prosecuting attorney of Wood county does his duty he will see that the scoundrel is prosecuted and imprisoned for breaking up Kimes' home. I remit this fine and costs with more pleasure than any word the English language furnishes me to express. Kimes did what every spanned Wall street, and it was thrown man would have done under the circumstances, except that he should have and continued open every Saturday folpracticed with a revolver or double-bar- lowing for three years. At the expirareled shotgun, so that when he made tion of three years market day was the attempt he would have brought Hall down.

"A villain like Hall is unfit to live in a civilized community, I repeat again. I remit this fine and costs with the greatest pleasure."

Since Kimes' release he has been employed at Wheeling, going to Parkersburg occasionally to see his children. Hall is living with Mrs. Kimes, and every visit the husband makes there the wife endeavors to have the police arrest &c." Afterward the Broadway market him for failure to pay his fine.

OLD NEW YORK MARKETS.

They Did Things Differently in Town

Three Hundred Years Ago. It is more than 300 years since the authorities of New Amsterdam resolved "to erect a meat market and cover it with tiles, to have a block boughttherein, and to leave the key with Andries, the baker, who shall have temporary charge thereof." This was the pioneer New York market, established on the green in what is now Battery park, and it was resolved by the authorities be hitched "beside the churchyard, where some stakes were fixed "on Broadway, a little above Morris street. For a few years this was the only market in New York, but the local reformers of the time, insisting presumably upon a change, it was determined to open a "Hall is still at large. He ought to be fair or market for the sale of "store and hogs, bucks, and such like," and to that end stalls were built. This market was opened on October 20 of each year, and was kept open until the last day of November. Twenty years later a market was opened on what was called "the water side," near the bridge which open to the public on March 24, 1677. changed to Wednesday, and in 1683 another step in advance was taken. There were three market days in each week-Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. But the precipitate zeal and energy of the old Dutch inhabitants could not be restrained even by the conservative burgomasters, and so in 1684 it was ordered that thereafter "fish shall be brought for sale to the dock opposite the City hall and may also be sold in the house that Long Mary formerly lived in-likewise herbs, fruits, roots, house was leased out to Henry Crossfor it for seven years a rental of one pound per annum, and keep it in good repair.

As the city of New Amsterdam was at that time somewhat short of funds, a plan was adopted, which, in these days,. would never obtain the favor of M. Mouchot believed that this heat the board of estimate and apportionket should be built and kept in repair this manner a two-story building was erected by the neighbors at the foot of the city on that side of the town until the establishment by the neighbors of a market at the foot of Wall street, to corn and meal," and also "slaves stood point. In 1735 these primitive market arrangements were done away with and the present system, since enlarged and improved, superseded it. The city now Some time ago an officer of artillery receives in a year in market rents $285, called upon Sir John Adye at Simla for |000, exclusive of vault rents and market a certificate of his being alive, as with- permits. The whole public revenue out this he had found it impossible to from this source is about $300,000 a draw some pay and allowances due to year, and Comptroller Fitch has in-
