BRANDING SEALS.

When the United States government takes a corporation under its fostering care, there are no lengths to which it will not go to look after its interests. This is illustrated in its dealings with the Union and Central Pacific railroads, and, perhaps, more forcibly shown in the matter of the Alaska Commercial Co. For years it has patrolled the northwest seas, it has kept American citizens off them, has been on the verge of war with England, and has now a big bill of damages to pay for holding up Canadian vessels, all in the interests of this Commercial Co., to which it turned over the seal herds of Alaskan waters.

The company has made millions, but still the government is not satisfied, but seeking where it might do more for this piratical corporation, has undertaken to brand the female seals so that the employes of the company could tell at a glance the sex of the seals they were pursuing. This would make it much more convenient for the company and might put off the day when the extermination of the seals is an accomplished fact.

Professor David Starr Jordan has just returned from Behring sea, whither he went with a branding iron and a fat salary, paid by the people, to make the struggle for existence of the Alaska Commercial Co. somewhat less hard.

Roswell P. Flower, ex-governor of New York, delivered an address before the New York State Grange recently, in which he took the ground that "trusts" were a blessing to the people, and "combines" the rock upon which all prosperity is built. The ex-governor's views can hardly be called impartial, since he is interested in a few trusts and combines to a considerable extent. For instance, he is a stockholder and director in the Brooklyn Heights Railway Company, the Kingston & Pembroke Railroad, Danbury and Norfolk Railroad, Folger-Hammond Gold Mine Co., Chicago Gas Co., Walker Manufacturing Co., and, it is said, "there are others." It is not at all astonishing, therefore, that Flower, making money out of these combinations, should consider them a blessing—to him—and should fail to see how any trust or combination that put money in his pocket was not a good thing for the people, especially as he placed his hand on his heart and smiled down on his audience as he remarked, "We are the people."

At the convention of Negroes at Perry, Indian Territory, strong resolutions were passed demanding that congress grant pensions to ex-slaves, their wives and children. They declared that they had been in slavery 240 years, and they demand heavy pensions. As the war which took the Negroes out of slavery cost the people in the neighborhood of $4,000,000,000, or about $1000 for each Negro freed, and besides this the life of one white man for every five Negroes in the United States, the inference would be that the Negro had already received enough, without demanding that the descendants of the soldiers who gave him his freedom should be taxed to reward him for furnishing the opportunity.

General Weyler cables to the New York World to the effect that Evangelina Cisneros has not yet been tried, and consequently no sentence has been passed or approved by him. And then this butcher of women and children adds: "I answer the World with the frankness and truth that characterizes all my acts." The last statement makes it perfectly plain that the World's scoop on that information was not worth what it cost. Weyler, who had a war-information factory as a part, and most formidable part, of his army, talking about frankness and truth, will cause old Munchausen to hunt up Ananias on the other side of the Styx that they may weep together.

In discussing the matter of federal appointments in this state, the Pendleton Tribune says: "In the distribution of federal places of any importance in the past nothing of any importance has ever fallen to any one who lived further east in Oregon than The Dalles." Without going into the past, we call our contemporary's attention to the fact that the present U. S. marshal is from its own town.

Associate Justice Stephen J. Field, of the United States supreme court, has now been on the bench longer than Chief Justice Marshall, having been appointed by Lincoln in 1863. Justice Fields still hangs on to his position, saying he prefers to wear out rather than rust out. This is nice for Fields, but tough on the country, which needs the services of a live man, rather than a moribund relic.

CATARRH

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write to me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of E. F. Coe, deceased, by virtue of an order of the County Court of the State of Oregon for Wasco County, will, on Saturday, the 4th day of September, 1897, at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m. sell to the highest bidder, the following described personal property belonging to the estate of E. F. Coe, deceased, to-wit: Thirty shares of the capital stock in the Hood River Townsite Company, a corporation, said shares being of the par value of $100 each. The sale will take place at the court house, Dalles City, and the terms of sale will be one-half cash, balance on time at 8 per cent.

The Hood River Townsite Company has a capital stock of $10,000, divided into 100 shares of the par value of $100 each. It owns about 375 lots in the town of Hood River, valued at from $50 to $200 each, all in the town of Hood River Proper, and many of them near the business portion of the town and destined to become very valuable soon. The dividends of the company have already exceeded the amount of its capital stock, and in the near future its present holdings will be worth several times the amount.

For further information, address the administrator, H. C. COE, Administrator of the estate of E. F. Coe, deceased. a20-td
