WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is fair and cooler.

Watch for the celebrated Pickinny Band, date and time later.

Posters for the firemen's tournament are out and are being distributed.

Dr. Sutherland, writing to a friend here, stated that he would leave New York for Toronto today, would leave that point for home on the 24th and would arrive here on the 29th.

The Hood River box factory is running nights, days and Sundays to fill orders. Mr. W. J. Smith, its rustling proprietor, has a fine plant, turns out first-class work, and is therefore kept busy.

It is estimated that Kansas will produce 60,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, or one-tenth of the entire yield of the United States. With this at a dollar a bushel, it is not at all strange that Kansassers have quit howling calamity.

John Busch, the boy who killed Horace Cadle at a dance on Beaver creek, Crook county, two weeks ago, has been captured and jailed at Prineville. He waived examination and was held without bonds to await the action of the grand jury.

At Hood River it is reported that some very rich gold-bearing quartz has been found on Lewis river, near its source, by a prospector grub-staked by Bert Rankin of White Salmon. The specimens sent in are said to show quantities of coarse gold.

The following is the score for last week at the Commercial Club alleys: Monday, VanNorden, 44; Tuesday, T. J. Seufert, 46; Wednesday, M. A. Robinson, 48; Thursday, Robinson, 46; Friday, Vic. Schmidt, 16; Saturday, Mrs. J. S. Fish, 37.

Mr. Peter Staack, proprietor of the warm springs at Wind mountain, or Collins landing, was in the city last night, and tells us quite a number of campers are now at his place. It is really one of the most delightful camping places on the river, and promises to be in the near future one of the most popular.

Rodney Stiles, who was working for Henry Gilpin, driving the team that operated the derrick with a thrasher, while at work Saturday a short distance from town, met with an accident that caused his death. While hauling a big fork full of grain up to the derrick wagon, the double trees broke and one end of them struck Stiles in the stomach. He lived but a few hours after the accident.

Yesterday the weather was somewhat cooler than for the preceding week, but still there were none complaining of the cold. However, this will now be changed. That fervid petition of ours reached Mr. Pague yesterday, and presumably to avoid a repetition of the dose, he this morning telegraphed that the weather tomorrow would be cooler.

F. W. Redmond, of McMinnville, made an assignment Monday. Jacob Wortman was made assignee. The liabilities, as far as ascertained, approximate $10,000, with assets considerably below that figure. The failure was a great surprise to most people, who supposed that Redmond was doing a safe but conservative business.

Umatilla county will send an extensive exhibit of her fruits, cereals, vegetables and manufactured products to the Spokane fruit fair in October. This much has been determined by the Pendleton Commercial Association and Milton Bureau of Immigration, both organizations having become interested in the matter.

The deck hands on the river steamers have perfected a sort of union and a strike, if it can be called that, is inaugurated. The crews of five of the O. R. & N. boats quit Saturday. Of the White Collar line, two boats, the Ocean Wave and Bailey Gatzert, were abandoned. The crews of the Ruth and Potter have also quit. The hands demand a raise from $35, which they claim is too little, to $40 per month.

Youth and old age joined fortunes, or misfortunes, at the courthouse in Eugene Friday afternoon. About 3 o'clock Clerk Jennings was called upon to issue a license to Peter Weaver, aged 60, and Carrie Kesterman, aged 16. The girl is an orphan and her aunt and guardian gave her consent to the marriage. Mr. Weaver is a well-to-do farmer at Pleasant Hill. They were married at once by Elder A. C. Jennings and departed for home.

A party of seventeen Dalles people went up Mill creek yesterday in Ward & Robinson's wagonette, and spent the day under the trees, wading in the creek and having as cool a time generally as they could. Those composing the party were, W. A. Johnston and family, Mark Long and family, M. T. Nolan and family, Mrs. R. T. Conroy and son, Miss Carrie Donlon, Miss Lizzie Farmer, Messrs. Roger Sinnott, Thornton and Robinson.

The O. R. & N. is doing considerable work for the purpose of getting some of the kinks out of the track. At Mosier the heaviest work is being done and there is quite a plant there. At this place a new line has been surveyed that will run straight from Union street to the bank on the west side of Mill creek, about 100 feet north of the present cut.

A new cut will be made carrying the road to a connection with the old line, a few hundred feet west of Mill creek.

Hon. E. L. Smith and several others from Hood River left last week for a trip to the Cispus river, in Washington. A man named Stump is reported to have found some very rich float quartz on that stream about twenty miles above the mouth of McCoy creek. There seems to be a quite well defined mineral belt running across the Cascades, north of St. Helens and Adams. As indicated by the Chicago and Samson mines, north of St. Helens, the undeveloped fields of McCoy creek and the Cispus, and the paying properties on the Swank.

Senator McBride and ex-Senator Mitchell arrived in Portland from Washington Saturday night. Senator McBride is in good health. To an Oregonian reporter he stated that in accordance with custom, Congressmen Ellis and Tongue would meet with him in the near future and, if possible, agree upon the recommendations for federal appointments in the state. This is a bit of news that will be very gratifying to about one-fourth of Oregon's male population. In the interest of the farmers these recommendations should be made so the unsuccessful could go to work.

Col. Pat Donan, the versatile writer, editor of the Utahian, promoter of all kinds of enterprises, and all-around genius, is in the city. The Colonel is known from Maine to California and from the lakes to the gulf. Newspaper men recognize Pat Donan in the first ten lines of one of his articles, and use the scissors without hesitancy, knowing that whatever it is they are swiping, it is good. Donan is the genuine advance agent of prosperity, for Fortune follows in his wake. As violets indicate spring, or ripening harvests summer, so does the presence of this literary bird of passage foretell a business boom. May he come often and stay long.

The fruit growers of Hood River have decided to hold a fruit fair this fall. A permanent organization for that purpose consists of the following officials: J. W. Morton, president; Henry Prigge, vice president; H. C. Bateham, secretary; N. C. Evans, treasurer. The executive committee consists of the duly elected officers and five additional names—Dr. J. F. Watt, A. H. Jewett, W. A. Slingerland, Mrs. E. J. Smith and Mrs. O. L. Stranahan. Mount Hood, White Salmon, Mosier and other fruit-growing sections of the Columbia will be invited to join with Hood River in her exhibition of the world-famous Oregon apples.

J. E. Lathrop, who left Oregon for Klondike a few weeks ago, writes from Dyea under date of August 13th as follows: "I just came from Chief Indian Johnson's tent where we made a contract to have our freight carted over from here, twenty-three miles to Lake Lindeman, at 28 cents per pound, and if he keeps his contract, I am to give him my gold watch for keeping it. That's the agreement. Chief Johnson evidently wants that gold watch pretty badly. It was a lesson in avarice, cupidity and childish fancy, to see Indian Johnson lunge forward, grasp the gold watch and suddenly promise to do what he had for one hour's time been declaring was impossible. Freight at 28 cents a pound, $560 a ton, and a gold watch thrown in as part of the contract! Such is life on the Alaskan frontier."

Mrs. Bolton Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bolton was found dead in her bed this morning. About three weeks ago while camping at the Meadows, she was stricken with paralysis, and while she appeared to be rapidly recovering from this, it was realized that a second stroke might carry her off at any moment. This is probably what happened during the night and death was perhaps instantaneous, as she seemed very cheerful at bedtime, insisting that no one sleep in the room.

Mrs. Bolton, who was aged 67, came to Oregon in 1849, and has resided near The Dalles nearly ever since that time. She was a devoted Christian woman, having been an active member of the Methodist church for years, and finding her greatest enjoyment in attending its services and in the society of Christian people. Of a lively, cheerful disposition, she was loved by her young friends, as well as those of her own age. Her husband, Daniel Bolton, died some eight or nine years ago.

She leaves four children living, Mrs. Ella McFarland of Seattle, Zenas of North Yakima, Simeon of this city, and Wilbur of Antelope.

A Runaway.

Fred. W. Wilson had an experience yesterday with a livery horse that was neither pleasant nor profitable. He had hired the animal with buggy attached, of Ward & Robertson, for the purpose of driving out to the head of 15-Mile creek, and when out about four miles, while going up a hill, Mr. Wilson got out to stretch his limbs and also rest the horse. He walked beside the animal, holding the lines in his hands, and incidentally put out one hand and touched the horse. The animal was evidently not accustomed to petting and at once made a lunge, jerked the lines from Fritz' hands and ran away. The buggy was utterly demoralized, and the horse finally stopped running, being persuaded thereto by the kindly assistance of a barbed wire fence. The horse was unhurt, but $40 worth of buggy has vanished. The visit to 15-Mile did not materialize, and the reason Fritz did not walk home was because a farmer gave him a ride.
