Can prompt surgical aid save the life of a man stabbed through the heart? It has always been held that any attempt to operate directly upon the heart was worse than foolish, and that to sew up a lesion in the heart proper without killing the patient would be absolutely impossible, says an exchange. Yet Dr. Rehe of Frankfurt, Germany, at a meeting of the surgical congress in Berlin recently, reported a successful operation of the kind—the first in the history of surgery—and produced his patient living before the assembled scientists to attest its truth. Describing the case, Dr. Rehe said the man had been stabbed in the right side of the heart. He was conveyed with great haste to a hospital and taken directly to the operating room. The surgeon laid bare the heart in a few seconds and found a wound in the right side of the organ. He sewed up the orifice and applied general treatment for arresting hemorrhage. The heart worked violently during the operation, but the commotion of the organ gradually subsided, and in due time the wound healed and the patient recovered.

It may not be generally known that the American citizen who "grub-stakes" a man to prospect and work mines on shares in the Klondike country has only the personal honor of the prospector to depend upon. On the 28th day of last June the Canadian government put into effect "an act to restrict the importation and employment of aliens," and this law is directly applicable to the "grubstaking" system. By its provisions all contracts or agreements, express or implied, made between any person or company and any alien to perform labor or service in Canada, previous to the arrival in Canada of the person whose labor is so contracted for, shall be void and of no effect. Which means that if the grub-staked pilgrim from the United States desires to deal honestly with the person or persons who staked him he can do so without fear of being overhauled by the Canadian authorities.

The election in New York City is to be a hotly-contested one, and no one can foresee its results. Greater New York has about 520,000 voters, and between the two old parties they are pretty evenly divided. In 1896 McKinley had 283,119 votes, Bryan 225,616, Palmer 9,965. In 1892 Cleveland had 294,679, Harrison 181,813. In 1894 the Republican vote was 224,000, Democratic 209,000, and Independent Democrat 19,000. In 1895 the vote in state officers was Republican 185,000, Democratic 237,000. It will be seen from this that the vote is a fluctuating one and contains a strong element of independent voters, who hold the balance of power.

Mrs. L. C. Howland, whose husband is going to the Klondike, has conceived the idea of taking a schoolhouse ready built, and going along with him to teach the young Alaskan how to read and write. The schoolhouse will be warm and comfortable, and stoves and furniture will be taken for it. There may be plenty of school children at Dawson City, but it does seem "funny" to see a portable schoolhouse packed off to a mining excitement.

The miners at Skaguay have perfected a sort of organization, and are now going at the task of opening the trail in a systematic manner. The trail was declared closed, and a thousand men went to work to put it in shape. It is expected that the trail would be made passable in ten days from the time the men began work on it, and that many will be enabled to get into the mines who, without this concerted action, would have had to remain at Skaguay all winter. The Rosalie, which made the return trip a day or so ago, brings word that nearly 10,000 people will winter at Skaguay.

Having built a great naval dry-dock at Port Royal, the government will now proceed to dredge a channel from the sea so that the ships of the new navy can reach it. This is a wise precaution, because the approaches to the dock by land are not practicable for our naval vessels, unless they are taken to pieces. After we have dredged a channel to the dry-dock at Port Royal and have succeeded in pumping the water out of the dry-dock at Brooklyn, it will not be necessary, as it is now, to send our naval vessels to Halifax to be dry-docked by the kindly favor of Great Britain.—New York World.

Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write to me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.
