THE KLONDIKE.

Perhaps the best editorial comment that can be made on the Klondike is contained in the following dispatch from Victoria, under date of the 25th:

More good news has come from the Klondike by the steamer City of Topeka, which arrived tonight, leaving Juneau just after the arrival there of Joe Birch, James McKay and Archie Shelp, who made the trip from Dawson City to Dyea in twenty days. They did not come any further than Juneau, but intend to go back to the mines. They had a pretty rough trip, having to paddle and tow their boat up rivers.

In conversation with one of the passengers who came down on the Topeka, Shelp spoke very highly of the Stewart and Indian river districts, although there has been no sensational finds. From $10 to $15 per pan is being taken out of these rivers.

Close upon $2,000,000 in dust has gone down on the river steamers, the owners intending to take the steamer Portland at St. Michaels.

Gold passed at $17 an ounce at Dawson City.

Shelp gives the following list of Juneau men who struck it rich: Dick Law, $100,000; J. Smith, $50,000; Joe Brant, $30,000; Cornelius Edwards, $25,000; Whipple, $10,000. Henry Ash, who left on the last boat for San Francisco, $100,000. An old man, who a few months ago was cutting wood around Juneau, $60,000. Oscar Ashby and W. Leak refused $150,000 for their claims.

About a dozen men who went north within the last few weeks, intending to go to the mines, came back on the Topeka, and they say many will follow them.

Two surveyors have been sent out to try and find a better route for the Skaguay trail, and if they succeed, the men have promised to go to work on it.

Among those who threw up the sponge and came back to civilization were Sam Brown of Seattle and William Albert. Mr. Niles, an attorney of Los Angeles, also came back, but he is going to make another trial, this time by the Stickeen river route. Chief Factor Hall, of the Hudson's Bay Company, who also came down on the boat, having been to Cassiar, reports the route a splendid one.

A GOOD POINTER.

The Klondike is apt to have an anti climax. Instead of closing the season with a brass band and whole lots of hilarity, it looks now as though the curtain would be rung down on as mild a mining boom as even the far-off Arctic circle could engender. The schooner Colman has returned from St. Michaels, near, or really at the mouth of the Yukon, bringing just four Klondikers, and these four and those waiting at St. Michaels to come down on the Portland had from 5,000 to 15,000 each. There were twelve men at St. Michaels waiting for the Portland, and another steamer was expected from Dawson City. The men coming out say that no clean-ups have been made this summer. Hence it is impossible to say what the production is, but it certainly does not prove exciting to see men coming out satisfied with $5,000 when it takes $1,000 and a year's hardship and work to get it. The steamers have been on too long, and if the wild boom was to be continued communication should have been shut off a month ago.

We size it up that there are good placers in Alaska, but that the stories have been grossly exaggerated in the interest of the transportation companies. There are millions in Alaska, but those millions have been there for thousands of years, and are not going to get away this winter. Those who want to go to Alaska to tackle the gold mines can go next spring, or ten years from next spring, and then find plenty of ground that has never been prospected.

The craze is being fostered by the transportation companies, and those who bite at their bait are simply suckers. The millions the Portland was to bring down have not yet materialized, and it is extremely doubtful whether they will.

The St. Louis Star says: "The spectacle of a lot of men being examined as to their ability to sweep out a school building is one of the things that makes all civil service ideas appear ridiculous." This is no more ridiculous than a civil service commission in a city in this state requiring laboring men to pass an examination as to their ability to labor. If there is good in civil service, there is also much humbug, and is open to many objections.
