The Dalles Daily Chronicle.

THURSDAY - SEPTEMBER 2, 1897

NOTICE.

All persons having claims against The Dalles National Bank, of The Dalles, Oregon, must present the same to H. S. Wilson, receiver, with the legal proof thereof, within three months from the date hereof, or they may be disallowed. Washington, D. C., June 5, 1897.

JAMES H. ECKELS,
Comptroller.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

For rent—New house, just finished. Five rooms; everything modern. Apply to W. A. Johnston. s2-tf.

There was a light rain last night, but up to date there has not been sufficient to do any injury to the crops.

The Elite candy factory is being enlarged, and in the near future will sell bread and cakes, as well as confectionaries, ice cream, etc. 2-tf

Pacific Circle, W. O. W., will hold a short business session before the social Friday evening, at 8 o'clock sharp. By order of Guardian Neighbor Ella Cushing.

Hop pickers are in demand in the Willamette valley, 40 cents per box being the price offered by many, though some are offering only 35 and a few 30 cents. It is not probable the latter will get help at less than the higher prices offered.

Rev. W. C. Curtis arrived on the Regulator last evening, having spent his vacation—the most of it—at Astoria and the neighboring beaches. He will be at the church meeting as usual this evening, and Sunday morning will administer the communion.

Mr. Curtis reports that our friend, Balle Johnson is recovering finely from the injury which he sustained July 4th, which threatened the total loss of his right thumb. The indications now are that he will have a good thumb of it yet, upon which THE CHRONICLE and many friends congratulate him.

Perry Pennington, who resides about six miles north of Eugene, and who owns a hopyard in that vicinity, met with a serious accident Sunday. He was getting down some hop boxes from a loft, when he fell and the box came down also and struck him on the right side, breaking a rib and forcing a splinter from it into his right lung. It is a serious injury.

Adam Kutzman is at the Obarr house with his right arm broken midway between the elbow and wrist. He was working on a threshing machine yesterday about ten miles southeast of The Dalles, when a brace or something of that kind broke loose and was whirled round, striking him on the arm with the result mentioned. Dr. Logan reduced the fracture, and tomorrow Mr. Kutzman will leave on the boat, to return to his wife and babies at Bull Run, Clackamas county. He had been on this side of the mountains about a month working in the harvest fields.

The fourth of July was not celebrated here because it was intended to make a grand occasion of the firemen's tournament. Now that has fallen through, is the annual fair to go scattering into elsewhere down the same road? It looks like it, for so far no steps have been taken towards advertising it. Well, Thanksgiving is coming, and so is Christmas, and our citizens can keep those occasions at home.

Recently a small boy ate buttercups and as a result died. Since then there has been published a list of poisonous wild flowers, popularly considered harmless, but certain to be fatal if eaten by a careless person or ignorant child. These flowers are buttercups, celandine, wood anemone, daffodils, narcissus, lily, snowdrop, jonquil, wild hyacinth, monk's hood, foxglove, nightshade, briony, mezerone and henbane.

The firm of Mays & Crowe are certainly progressive and wide awake. The Pickaninny band which the firm brought here, furnished the Dalles people a really good evening's entertainment and two matinees, and these were all free. It was an expensive bit of advertising, but the firm knows the merits of the goods advertised and wants the public to do the same. Their big store was crowded on each of the occasions, and it takes a crowd to fill it.

Mr. W. K. Wheelock arrived in the city this morning. Mr. Wheelock is a partner of Dan A. Stuart, and was the manager of the great Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight at Carson City. Mr. Wheelock is personally superintending the veriscope production on the coast, and reports the business phenomenal, the opera houses being packed with ladies and gentlemen even during the extreme hot weather. After this tour of the coast Mr. Wheelock takes this same outfit to Paris, France. Admission 50 cents, reserved seats 75, children 25 cents.

The cost of sending wheat from Portland to England by ship is now nearly twice what it was at this time last year. The large crop this year and the exaggerated claims as to its magnitude have led ship owners to believe that the competition this year would be among the shippers to get ships in place of among the ships to get cargoes and accordingly they advanced their charges. Possibly they may find that they put up their rates too high, for already two steamers, with a carrying capacity of about 500,000 bushels, have been chartered to carry wheat from Portland to Europe. It is quite possible that there are other tramp steamers that are ready to take wheat to Europe at present rates and if there are many such the sailing vessels will have to come down in their charges.

For Sale.

Lots A, B, K and L, block 30; A B, block 72; A, B, C, D, E and F, block 82, and A, B, C, D and E, block 25. Apply to Wm. SHACKELFORD.

CONCERNING TITLES.

In America They Are Only Conveniences, Handles to Jugs, Balis to Buckets.

The Arlington Record finds fault with the title of "Colonel" worn by E. W. Enos. The Record must have been asleep for lo! these many years. Has it not heard of Col. L. L. Hawkins of Portland? Has it not seen a member of our own pencil pushing fraternity suddenly promoted from "Jim" to Col. Eddy? Does it not know that titles for an American indicate no more than they do for an American book? Does it not know that two-thirds of our lawyers are "Judges," and two-thirds of the judges are not lawyers?

What is a title anyway? In this country it is often but a nickname, placed before the surname for convenience and euphony, just as a handle is placed on a jug or a bail on a pot. Col. Enos is easier than Mr. E. W. and it somehow fits the dignity of the old gentleman, just as "Col." sounds better than "Jim" when speaking of an official gentleman. Outside of this every day convenience, titles are no good anyway, but if used in full become a nuisance. For instance, Lieutenant Smith gets brevetted captain for meritorious services, and afterwards in the absence of the Commissary of Subsistence is detailed to the position. Lieutenant Smith is married, of course, to a most charming woman. Being charming she likes to let her friends enjoy her company and their own, and so gives a social function. Her title then to be punctilious would be "Mrs. Lieutenant and Brevet Captain, and Acting Assistant Commissary of Subsistence Smith." It is obvious that the purpose of the title would now be lost, and that the title itself would be cumbersome. The handle would be too large for the jug.

It is wise therefore to consider titles not for what they mean, but as a sort of handle to the official umbrella, the button which we may push, the door bell which we may ring in approaching our fellow beings. What would our handsome young Oregonian, Robert Miller, be without the arabesque decoration of "Col. Bob?"

The olden times, the days of chivalry and courtesy, was generous of titles military and judicial, and Colonels, Majors, Captains, Generals and Judges were as thick in societies upper crust, as flies around a molasses barrel in the sunny South.

The title fits our old friend Enos like a sixteen-button kid glove does a society girl's hand, and he sustains it with dignity, aplomb and all that sort of thing.

University Cief Club.

The entertainments which Dalles talent furnishes are of such a high standard of excellence, that our citizens have become exacting, and often hesitate to attend those given by traveling concert companies for fear of being disappointed. Any one who may have gone to the entertainment given by the University Cief Club at the Methodist church last night, with such an expectation, was certainly disappointed, but most pleasantly. The four young ladies composing the club have exceptionally fine voices, and each number rendered was a gem in itself, so much so that it would be impossible to select any one as the best, for the severest critic could find no flaw in the melody. The solo by Miss Rose Manning, "Good Bye Sweet Day," was beautiful, the young lady possessing a rich contralto voice, and showing the very best of cultivation.

Miss Caghran as an electionist has the art so thoroughly mastered that you lose sight of the art and see only the character represented. She is particularly good in dialect selections, and as she gave a representation of the gossipy old woman, one began to feel uneasy for fear they might be the next to come under the tongue lash.

These young ladies are traveling in the interest of the university at Tacoma, having spent their vacation giving concerts.

Funeral of Lewis D. Ainsworth.

The funeral of the late Lewis D. Ainsworth took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence of G. W. Rowland, corner of Fifth and Laughlin streets. The services were simple, and the sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. Wood. The choir, Mrs. Varney, Miss Georgia Sampson, Dr. Doane and Mr. C. J. Crandall, sang "Come Unto Me" and "Herein Is Love." The interment took place in Sunset cemetery with the usual ceremonies.

Lewis D. Ainsworth was a young man of fine attainments, of kindly and generous disposition, upright, honest and honorable, and being what he was, he had few if any acquaintances who were not called by the nearer and dearer term of friends. Had he been granted health, his career would have been one that would have honored him and his, but at the threshold of active life disease closed all the gateways, all hope for achievement, and forced him to give up all aspirations almost before they budded. Uncomplainingly he passed away, but he left the impress of his character on all who knew him.

At the Vogt Tonight.

Do not forget the veriscope tonight. The celebrated contest between Corbett and Fitzsimmons will be shown upon the canvas as perfectly as though it were the real battle. Every motion, every blow is shown, and besides this the surging crowd around the platform makes an interesting part of the picture. More than 140,000 photographs are thrown upon the screen at the rate of forty a second. The papers of Eastern Oregon where these pictures have been shown, speak in the highest terms of the excellence of the mechanism by which the slides are handled, and the perfectness of the illusion. As one of them says it is not a picture you see, but the actual contest.

IN the United States now enjoying food cooked in the MAJESTIC affirm that the half has not been said in its praise. The manufacturers of this Range pledge themselves that all parts of the MAJESTIC except the firebox and the new series Nos. 201 to 212, are made of steel and malleable iron, and purchasers are assured that it is as good and as honest as skilled labor and money can produce. If the parts now in malleable iron were (as in other so-called steel ranges) made of cast iron, the price could be greatly reduced; but the MAJESTIC is not made with a view to furnishing extra parts for repairs.
