PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. A. F. Higby of Lyle is in the city. C. W. Haight came in from Cow canyon yesterday.

Mr. O. C. Nelson, foreman of the Goldendale Agriculturist, is in the city. Mr. H. Herbring left for the East yesterday on his regular annual purchasing

Mr. F. A. Van Norden, who has been at the seaside for a month or more, arrived home last night.

Miss Laura Wilson of Hood River, who has been visiting here for several days, returned home this morning.

Mr. Nolin came in from Dufur this morning and reports a rainfall there last night sufficient to stop the headers.

Collingswood of Pennsylvania, who have been visiting the Misses Lang for a few days, left on the boat this morning for

J. L. Cowan, agent at the Warm Springs, arrived in yesterday. He re-ports the roads as being in fine condi-tion, and the rainfall out as far as the agency only sufficient to lay the dust.

William Dial and family, who have been visiting at the home of Dial's sister in Dayton, Or., came home with enthusiastic impressions of the Willamette valley, says the East Oregonian. Mr. Dial brought back a specimen of Klondike grub in the shape of a cigar box half full of dried potatoes. These resemble a job lot of deceased worms more than anything else, but are a convenient food for prospectors, nevertheless. All they need is boiling, when they swell up quicker than a newlymade -congressman, and mashed potatoes cling lovingly to the beard of a Klondike miner when he finishes his humble meal. Other vegetables besides spuds are dried at Dayton, where three dryers are in constant operation, day and night. Onions, cabbage and carrots, as well as all kinds of truit, are handled. A bushel of potatoes makes seven pounds of dried food, which retails at 18 to 25 cents per pound. It takes twelve hours to complete the process, and eight cents a pound is charged for drying them. Onions dry out from one and one-half to two pounds to the bushel, and bring $1.50 to $2 to the pound. The industry is a new one, and bids fair to develop into large pro-

KISSING THE BOOK.

English People Just Learning the Scotch Form of Oath Is Admissible.

With reference to the question asked in parliament as to "kissing the book," a legal correspondent writes in the London Telegraph that of late it has been particularly noticeable that many witnesses prefer the Scotch form of taking the oath-by holding up the right hand and repeating after the judge or clerk the solemn words. It is only now that people are becoming cognizant of the fact that they need not "kiss the book." The clause in the oaths act of 1888, by which the Scotch form is admissible, was not inserted to meet a religious difficulty, but on medical grounds. Many persons have properly an objection to touching with their lips a volume which has been thumbed by scores of unknown perons and may contain the germs of dis-ease. "Kissing the book" is really no essential part of the old-fashioned oath, and the Scottish method, if universally adopted, would defeat the cun-Mrs. J. W. A story is told of a Glasgow bailie on the occasion of a witness being sworn before him. "Hold up your right arm," commanded the lineal descendant of Bailie Nicol Jarvie. "I canna dae't," said the wit-"Why not?" "Got shot in that airm." "Then hold up your left." Canna dae that either-got shot in the ither airm, too." "Then hold up your leg," responded the irate magistrate; "no man can be sworn in this court without holding up something."

TELL A WOMAN BY HER PURSE.

Things That Nearly Always Indicate

Owner's Character and Condition. It has been stated, perhaps by detec tives, that the age and a great knowledge of the whole character of a woman can be gained from the contents of her pocketbook, says the Chicago Times-

The business woman always has a number of receipted bills and a quantity of eash in her pocketbook, while the mother of a family usually has many unreceipted bills, little cash, and the sides bursting with samples and bargain advertisements. The average young lady has a favorite poem stowed away in a corner and invariably a souvenir of something bordering on the superstitious. For instance, while the writer was in a State street jeweler's store the other morning a tortoise shell portmonnaie was found on the floor. It contained 85 cents, and, far back in a secret pocket, a poem entitled "Soul for Soul." It began:

Oh, eyes that pierce me through and through
And draw my very soul away,
Your sunshine may not fill my life

Nor turn my darkness into day. Next to that piece of sentiment was a small card with the young lady's name and weight printed upon it. On the reverse side of the card was a date with the words: "If the sun shines three days after this, you will have good luck for nine days." About noontime, a beautiful little brunette, all

LONG HAIR A DISGRACE.

In Corea It Is Indicative of Social Ostracism or Mental Humility.

The wearing of long hair in Corea is indicative of social disgrace or mental humility, and marks either the penitent or the outcast. The custom of wearing the hair long by these classes has aroused the commercial spirit in certain speculative natives, and they have set about the labor of supplying the world with hair shaved from the heads of their fellow-countrymen.

When the Mongolian faker desires to punish himself for a sin-real or fancied, it makes no difference-he allows his hair and nails to grow. In the same countries the criminal is obliged to let his hair grow, because the true oriental despises long hair, and the wearing of it is a certain sign of peni-

Now, of recent years the Coreans have learned to put these extraordinary growths of hair-that is, after they are cut off-to some commercial use. They have established factories for the manufacture of mats, horse blankets, sadcare that would be given them by con- dle blankers, halters and even whole sets of harness, all from human hair.

A carpet factory, in which carpet is made from human bair, is also located at Seoul. In this connection it may be apropos to mention the famous "prayer of the shah of Persia. It was made in Corea more than a century ago. It is three feet square and bordered with diamonds and pearls, and is considered of almost fabulous value.
