BREVET CAPITALISTS.

Baker and Grant counties, like all other mining countries, are cursed with that class of animals known as "mining experts." The true mining man, who knows something of ore, has a knowledge gathered while pounding a drill in the depths of a mine, is a benefit to every mining camp; but the fellow who travels around in a buckboard, getting opinions on everything in the country, is as much of a curse as the potato blight, the coddling moth, San Jose scale, or things of that kind to other pursuits. He is the pest of the mines, provided, like all other pests, abundantly. As a general proposition, he is a tin-horn expert, a half-blanket capitalist, whose stock in trade is gall; whose name is legion. He is a pestilence and a famine, a delusion and snare, a disgrace to the mining business, bringing it into disrepute from his association with it. Instead of options he should get tar and feathers, and lots of them.

Secretary Alger is said to be devoting considerable time to perfecting arrangements for getting supplies into Dawson City this winter. One inventor has an engine constructed for running on the ice, and it is thought this can be made to work on the Yukon. If the ice were smooth this would probably do, but the Yukon in freezing has a style similar to the Columbia, the lower portion freezing from floating ice, which makes the surface far from a level plain to travel over. If people will be so crazy as to rush into such places, they must abide by the consequences. Of course humanity cannot stand back and permit them to starve without making some effort for their relief; but if these gold-crazed fanatics set a task for the charitable that the latter cannot perform, and do it deliberately and with premeditation, they can have no fault to find when beset by starvation.

Clarence King, formerly chief of the United States geological survey, says: "The time is not far distant when a man can start out of Denver and travel to Klondike, stopping every night at a mining camp. Already two American stamp mills are pounding away on the borders of the Straits of Magellan, and the day is approaching when a chain of mining camps will extend from Cape Horn to St. Michaels. I believe we are about to enter upon a century which will open up vast resources, and will be the grandest the earth has ever known. Before the end of the twentieth century the traveler will enter a sleeping car at Chicago bound via Behring Straits for St. Petersburg, and the dream of Governor Gilpin will be realized."

Many returning gold-hunters from the Yukon declare that privation, sickness, starvation, scurvy and death will be the leading features of life among the thousands who attempt to winter in that region. One need not be a prophet, nor the son of a prophet, in order to make and give a standing or probability to this prediction. A little knowledge of the facts of the situation and an ordinary ability to reason from cause to effect, are all that is required in the premises.

Few people realize that Oregon has some fine silver mines, but such is the case. The Monumental is a well-known mine, that had whole lots of silver, but somehow never panned. Recently, though, some very rich silver ore has been discovered. A shipment of ore from Woodley, on the Grande Ronde river, was made recently to the Tacoma smelter that yielded thirteen ounces to the ton.

And now comes a report that Professor Andree's balloon has passed over the village of Antzifrowskoje, in the province of Ineniziskowoz. We don't doubt it at all, for any balloon that had any self-respect would pass over that place as it would avoid a Klondiker. It is a wonder the balloon did not get punctured on some of the high points of those names.

The Oregon Press Association meets at Baker City October 18th, and holds its session for three days. Baker is a wide awake town, and our brethren can rest assured that they will be entertained not "un-awares." Baker City, having lots of angels of her own, recognizes the article in the guise of an editor, and will make him think he is at home.

The campaign has been formally opened in Ohio, Hanna and Foraker appearing on the same platform. The battle promises to be a very hot one, but the Republican leaders are confident of success.

"My boy came home from school one day with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain," says Mr. E. J. Schall, with Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo.
