WAYSIDE GLEANINGS

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Crispettes.
Crispettes are delicious.
Nitrogene, the great blood purifier.
Crispettes are sold by Pease & Mays.
Air-tight Trilby heaters at Maier & Benton's.

Max Pracht is in the hospital at Portland, recovering from a severe attack of pleurisy.

Crispettes will be eaten by everybody, and are only five cents a package at Pease & Mays.

Two hoboes were up before Recorder Sinnott this morning, one being fined $5 and the other $10.

Martin Spellman, section boss on the O. R. & N., cured of sciatica in ten minutes by Dr. Mullinix. sp-20-1w

The Wasco warehouse is being filled with wheat, and still it comes in as fast as men and trucks can store it.

Justice of the Peace Fillon is moving his office and also his stock of machinery to the Hood barn on Second street.

The Regulator last night brought up a load of sheep, on their way home from the summer ranges back of Stevenson.

If you do not know what Crispettes are, we would advise you to invest five cents and find out. You will never regret it, and you will want more. Pease & Mays sell them.

The Commercial Club is having its rooms re-modeled, and among other improvements a porch erected over the new entrance, which is the center of the building on Washington street.

The 8-year-old son of Louis Camini, while playing with a cider press yesterday, allowed one of his hands to get caught in the cog, and as a result several bones in his fingers were broken.

The board of equalization will meet the first Monday in October, at which time all who are dissatisfied with their assessment, will be given the opportunity to correct any error. s7-d&wtf.

A dispatch from Olympia, Saturday, states that the state commissioners will go to Lyle, Klickitat county, October 6th, to investigate the advisability of selling shorelands there, and of fixing the price.

Just received by The Dalles Com. Co., new mackerel, whole codfish, smoked herring, white fish, salmon bellies, pickle pig pork, hams and breakfast bacon. New stock of nuts. Your orders will receive prompt attention.

The Independence city council is proposing to license nearly all kinds of business at from $10 to $25, those now in business being given free licenses. The point aimed at seems to be that businesses of many kinds have been so overdone as to be unprofitable for all concerned, and the ordinance would deter others from coming in to set up business except in a permanent way and where there was a real good opening.

The Good Intent Society of the Methodist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Wm. Michell Wednesday afternoon. All ladies of the congregation, and particularly members of the society, are requested to be present.

The first rehearsal of the opera "Pinafore," which will be given in the early part of October, was held Saturday night at the residence of Mrs. Schenck. Judging from the manifest enthusiasm, Dalles people are to have a treat.

Deputy Sheriff Kelly, who has been looking after the prairie chickens on his ranch, presented a number of his friends with a brace of birds each, but they have not received them yet, owing to the person by whom they were sent failing to show up.

The regular overland train, due from Portland at 1 o'clock, passed through this morning about 8:30, having been delayed at Troutdale. The switch had been left open and the train ran into it, derailing several of the cars. No serious damage was done.

Joaquin Miller says he knows a Klondike miner who owns 200 tons of gold. Something may safely be allowed for Joaquin's poetical way of expressing things, but 200 tons is too much to permit even Mr. Miller without violating his poetical license.

Rev. J. B. Lister, state corresponding secretary for the Christian church, who was to have been here last week, will arrive this evening on the boat and will speak in the Christian church of this city on a very interesting theme. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The city council met Saturday night in the matter of granting permission to Captain Hosford to use the foot of Union street for landing his steamboats, the matter was referred to the judiciary committee. The committee on electric lights reported progress, verbally, and not being ready to report finally, was given further time.

Mr. U. S. Jones died at Dufur Saturday. Some time ago he injured one of his legs, an acute case of blood poisoning resulting. Finally this reached such a stage that amputation became necessary, and the operation was performed by Dr. Dietrich Saturday morning. Mr. Jones did not survive the shock, dying some four or five hours after the operation.

Fen Batty had an experience in hunting yesterday that afforded his companion much amusement. A big jack rabbit broke cover and lit out for the elsewhere, when Fen let go a charge of shot, knocking it over. When he went to pick it up, it was a bigger squirrel, shot all to pieces, and not a rabbit in sight. The rabbit had lodged into a hole and the squirrel had popped out just in time to lose his life.

A son of John Hendricks of McMinnville, about 18 years old, went out to kill a chicken with a pistol last Sunday.

The cartridge failing to explode, the boy unhinged the pistol. The cartridge then exploded, being defective and slow of fire, the cap striking the boy in front of and just above the eye, and the ball passing out through the barrel of the pistol. A doctor dressed the wound, which he thinks will not prove a serious one to the eyesight.

Some vandal, presumably drunk, since a sober man would hardly indulge in such things, destroyed the wind gauge placed by Mr. Brooks upon the D. P. & A. N. wharf. The instrument was government property, Mr. Brooks kindly volunteering to look after it. All statistics of weather are valuable, and the wretch who deliberately destroyed the wind gauge should be stood in its place for twenty-four hours when the thermometer is below zero and a Walla Walla chinook blowing.

The Pacific Gum Co. of Portland advertises for six girls to chew gum at the Portland fair. We give the company the benefit of this advertisement in hopes that some of the Dalles girls will be found ornamenting the front benches in that chewing contest. It will require a large mouth, developed muscles and steady stroke to get away with the job, and certainly The Dalles can furnish the full supply, provided Cascade Locks does not compete. There is one girl down there that when she gives her maxillae a twist the cows all sneak away into the woods and drop their "cuds."

Hoppicking is nearly finished in the Chehalis valley. It is impossible as yet to determine what the crop is likely to be, suffice it to say that growers whose yards were well sprayed and properly cared for are all feeling very well satisfied with the way their yards are turning out, says the Chehalis Bee. Picking will last another week in some of the yards, and by that time it will be possible to size up the crop pretty closely. The splendid weather for the last 10 days has been most favorable for harvesting crop, and loss from mould will not be nearly as bad as was feared. In a few small yards where spraying was neglected there has been much heavier losses. Growers are putting up a fine sample as a rule.

A peculiar-looking resident of the deep was found Saturday by H. P. Score, keeper of the light station at Point Wilson, and, in the absence of a more fitting name, the object is called a sea serpent. The monster was found stranded on the beach near the lighthouse, where it had been tossed by a heavy wave. It is nine feet long, the thickest part of its body being 27 inches in circumference. The head is large and shaped like an alligator's. Two horns 30 inches in length protrude from the head. The animal, if animal it may be called, has massive jaws with large teeth, has no legs or fins, and is of pale green color. Lightkeeper Score killed the animal by shooting it with a pistol. He towed it to the light station, where it is now an object of curiosity to many persons. Nothing similar to it has ever been seen in the waters of the Pacific Northwest.

AN OLD-TIME FRIEND.

The Chronicle Editor Meets One of Twenty-Five Years Ago.

This morning we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. George A. Ladd of Sparta, who is on his way home from Portland. Twenty-five years ago Mr. Ladd, with his father, owned and operated the saw-mill at St. Helens. This property they sold and moved to Eastern Oregon, where for a quarter of a century George has wooed the fickle goddess of Fortune by venturing into the mining business. He was at one time part owner of the now famous Bonanza, has made and lost money and has the everlasting faith of yet striking it rich that sustains all true miners.

It has been nearly twenty-five years since we saw George, but he is the same self-reliant, genial gentleman, whom nothing can keep down. In those days, at St. Helens, Tom McBride was wrestling with "Parsons on Contracts," "Greenleaf on Evidence," and that sort of thing, while the present senator was studying human nature and getting an insight into politics. The Giltners were also at St. Helens in those days, and as we look at our own round form in the mirror, we cannot but feel that St. Helens produced some really great and good men.

Mr. Ladd is engaged in quartz-mining near Sparta, and has some properties that will yet make him a bleated capitalist.

The Waltz to Go.

The American society of the Professors of Dancing, has decided that the waltz must go.

Of course it must, everybody knows that, and it will commence to go just as soon as the thermometers get settled down to business. The beauty of the waltz is that when it gets to going it keeps whirling round and round, and it is a continuous round of pleasure too. The professors of dancing might as well try to dam the Amazon with faint praise, solve the mystery of Andrees' pigeons, make truth true even at the bottom of a well, or sort fact and fiction from a fall crop of Klondike stories. Yes, the waltz must go, and when it does most of us will be anxious enough to detain it, that we will all attempt to trip it.

One of the Luckiest.

Another of the argonauts, also a Swede, carries his dust, as many did, to the express office. He wanted to send it to the "government at San Francisco." Asked if he knew how much he had, he said: "I tank I have twenty thousand five hunder dollar." When his sack was put on the scales the clerk told him he had nearer $42,500, and his eye brightened at the news.—C. A. Snowden in Harper's Weekly.

Company & Attention—Orders No. 10.

The officers and members of Company G will report at their armory on Saturday, September 25, 1897, at 7:30 p. m. sharp, fully uniformed and equipped for company drill and quarterly inspection. By order of

A. L. REESE,
Capt. Commanding.

Taxpayers Attention.

This is my last and final call to you, as the county court has issued an imperative order.

By virtue of a warrant to me directed, issued by the clerk of the county court of the state of Oregon for the county of Wasco, commanding me to collect the delinquent county, state and other taxes, I will, on the 1st day of October, 1897, without further notice, levy upon and sell all property upon which taxes remain unpaid.

T. J. DRIVER,
Sheriff.

1,000,000 PEOPLE

IN the United States now enjoying food cooked in the MAJESTIC affirm that the half has not been said in its praise. The manufacturers of this Range pledge themselves that all parts of the MAJESTIC except the firebox and the new series Nos. 201 to 212, are made of steel and malleable iron, and purchasers are assured that it is as good and as honest as skilled labor and money can produce. If the parts now in malleable iron were (as in other so-called steel ranges) made of cast iron, the price could be greatly reduced; but the MAJESTIC is not made with a view to furnishing extra parts for repairs.
