A carload of fresh salmon will be shipped from Senfert's tonight going to New York. This will be the fourth car shipped this fall.

Anyone wishing premium catalogues of the district fair can procure them at the CHRONICLE office, as there is a large number on hand.

Two cars of cattle were shipped to Troutdale last night, and four more were received at the stock yards today and will go out tonight.

It will take two weeks yet for the Palouse farmers to finish harvesting, but then the Palouse fellows never think harvest is over until their header beds fill with snow.

Miss Laura Thompson, who has been in Portland for a year or more, has accepted a position as stenographer for Mays & Crowe, and will enter upon her duties Monday.

The city council meets tomorrow night, an adjourned session, to consider matters left over from the regular session, and some new matters that have come up since that time.

Mr. Harry Morse, who for a time was in charge of the shoe department for A. M. Williams & Co., is at present in charge of the store of the Geiser Mercantile Co. at Bonanza, Baker county.

At the East End everything is lively, but everything is wheat. The Wasco warehouse has an immensity of it, and more coming, and every sheltered nook and corner is being filled with the golden grain.

A. M. Williams & Co. have secured the services of Mr. A. L. Gude of Los Angeles, Calif., to take charge of their shoe department. Mr. Gude, who arrived in the city last night, is a competent shoe man, understands his business thoroughly, and will no doubt make a success of his present undertaking.

The board of equalization will meet the first Monday in October, at which time all who are dissatisfied with their assessment, will be given the opportunity to correct any error. s7-d&wtf.

Col. Sinnott, who has for some time been suffering from hernia, went to Portland this morning on the Spokane flyer, and will be treated at St. Vincent's hospital. Mrs. Sinnott accompanied him.

We are requested to say that Worthy Matron Madaline B. Conking, of the Eastern Star, will be in the city this evening, and all members of the order are requested to be at the Chapter room this evening at 8 o'clock to meet her.

Missionary efforts among the cannibals of the New Hebrides show promising results, the Rev. John Paton, stationed there, reporting 1122 converts during the last year, the correction of their dietary habits being complete and possibly permanent.

One million and fifty thousand dollars' worth of wheat was the output of the soil in Whitman county last week. There is no better gold-producing soil anywhere than this soil of the Northwest; but no special hardship attends money making here.

Conductor Rice was somewhat bruised in the wreck near Arlington last night. The wreck was caused by a broken axle and Mr. Rice was thrown from one side of the car to the other as it bumped along over the ties. His injuries are only bruises and these will soon heal.

The delayed overland train passed here at noon today, and among its other passengers had the detail of twenty-five regular soldiers, who will leave Portland by the next steamer for St. Michaels, Alaska. The men were selected for the service, and are a hardy, fine looking lot, apparently capable of standing lots of hardship.

The west-bound passenger trains, due here from from Baker City and Spokane at an early hour this morning, passed through about 11 o'clock, having been detained by a freight train two miles the other side of Arlington. The freight, which was an extra in charge of Conductor Rice, in some way got two cars and the caboose off the track. The damage was trifling.

The salmon run is better than the average fall run, both in quantity and quality. Senfert Bros. have shipped four carloads of fresh fish to New York, and besides these their cannery is running to its utmost capacity. Yesterday thirty-five tons were put up. At Taffe's place everything is pushing, and yesterday one wheel captured twenty-eight tons of as good fall salmon as ever came out of the Columbia.

"Grant Ledford, a young man engaged in herding sheep for J. H. Sherar, near White river, while attending to his duties carries a small rifle for the purpose of killing coyotes and game. Monday, when stopping for a few moments as the sheep grazed, he set the butt of the gun on a log, when he slipped and the hammer striking the log, was discharged. Ledford had hold of the gun with his left hand clasped over the muzzle. The result was that the little finger was shot entirely off and two or three others badly injured. He was forced to walk from White river to Tygh, a distance of twenty-eight miles, to get his wound attended to.

W. D. Hoffman, one of the largest sheep-owners of Diamond, Harney county, has been in Huntington for the last week, looking after the sale of his wool, and was successful, through the efforts of the O. C. Company, in selling his entire clip of 70,000 pounds to J. Koshland & Co. of Boston, for the handsome price of 12 1/2 cents, being the highest price wool has been sold for this season at any point east of The Dalles.

B. S. Lowe brought into town today a big porcupine, which his 12-year-old boy caught about a month ago. The boy had gone to the pasture after a horse, and finding the irritable porcupine, managed to drive it home and into a box. The animal has been confined so long and teased so much, that it has lost all its quills by fighting its tormentors. It proved to be quite a curiosity to many, it being in a box with a wire netting nailed over it, so that it could be seen plainly.

A bona fide spook is now sojourning in Astoria, according to the statements of several persons. The apparition was first noticed by a young man residing in West Astoria. While talking to a young lady the vision, which is described as being a woman seven feet in height, enveloped in a white robe and wearing a bonnet, appeared. The man attempted to interview her, but she jumped over a railing into the river and disappeared. Last evening Thomas Traskker, another West Astorian, met the spook. As before, she jumped into the river. The spook, or lady, walked out of No. 3 engine house last night and frightened two persons half to death.

John Clark, who owns the Baker City-Baisley-Elkhorn stage line, tells a curious incident, which happened at the other end of the line, says the Baker City Republican. The stage team was hitched in the barn for the night. Some time after one of the horses got loose from his fastenings, and, going to the further end of the barn, where there was a sack of oats leaning against a barrel of the same grain, the horse picked up the sack of oats, with his teeth, carried it to its mate, and, placing it in front of him, went back and satisfied his own hunger from the barrel. There can be no mistake about this, says Mr. Clark, for the oats were spilled all along the line of travel from the barrel to the horse that was hitched.

Cats and Rats.

Here it is a sort of perpetual motion affair. A firm of moneyed men in New York have bought a piece of land and will stock it with 1,000 black cats and 5,000 rats. It is estimated that the cats will increase to 35,000 in a year or two, and black cat skins are worth $1. The rats will multiply five times as fast as the cats, and the rats will be caught, skinned and the hides sold to kid glove manufacturers, while their carcasses will feed the cats. On the other hand, the carcasses of the skinned cats will be fed to the rats. This is one of the best self-supporting schemes we ever heard of and there is a gold mine in it. The cats will be allowed to increase until the 100,000 limit is reached, when the income will be enormous, as no feed will be necessary after the first year.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

It is a Question of Finances and of Finances Only.

It is quite certain that The Dalles is not to have electric lights for its streets this winter. The income of the city will not justify it, and the charter practically prohibits the creation of debt. Instead of being a surplus for the year, a close computation shows that the expenditures have exceeded the income by a few dollars. The only way to have street lights is to pay for them by a special tax, and this property owners will not consent to.

It is a bad state of affairs; but The Dalles has a condition confronting it and must deny itself many things in order to get out of debt. A sinking fund must be provided to meet the payment of bonds, and this may, and probably will, require a trifling advance in the tax rate. In conversation with City Treasurer Crandall this morning he stated that there was no place where expenses could be reduced, unless it was by reducing the treasurer's salary, which is now $20 per month. He says he is no Pennoyer, but if it is necessary for the salvation of the city, he can stand a reduction of one-half and throw off the other. The city's income will run it so long as expenses are not increased; but that is all it will do.

The only solution of the matter we see is that those who object to darkness will have to go home early.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Bertha Burkhardt of Portland is in the city, the guest of Mrs. Liebe.

Mr. S. P. M. Briggs is down from Arlington today.

Mrs. Middlewart and daughter were in the city today from Husbands Landing.

Miss Botorff came up on the train last night, and is at her accustomed place as milliner at Mrs. Briggs' millinery store.

City Recorder Sinnott went to Portland today, accompanying his father. He will return tomorrow.

Mr. W. C. Weigel of Omaha came down on the delayed train this morning, and will visit with his parents and brothers in this city.

1,000,000 PEOPLE

IN the United States now enjoying food cooked in the MAJESTIC affirm that the half has not been said in its praise. The manufacturers of this Range pledge themselves that all parts of the MAJESTIC except the firebox and the new series Nos. 201 to 212, are made of steel and malleable iron, and purchasers are assured that it is as good and as honest as skilled labor and money can produce. If the parts now in malleable iron were (as in other so-called steel ranges) made of cast iron, the price could be greatly reduced; but the MAJESTIC is not made with a view to furnishing extra parts for repairs.
