

Successful Prospecting Expedition of Six Oakland Women.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Six Oakland women have returned from a search for gold mines in the mountains of Shasta county. For two weeks they tramped in bloomers over hills, through canyons, fording creeks, braving all the hardships incidental to a prospector's life. They have seven placer and quartz mines located.

The women were Mrs. May Mauvais, Mrs. Martha D. Hume, Mrs. Alma Haden, Mrs. J. Huges, Mrs. Etta Demoy and Mrs. Lila Herron. They left Oakland, each one fully equipped with miners' outfits. They returned with hundreds of ore samples and gold they had panned from placer claims.

GREASING THE ELEPHANTS.

Rhinoceros, Too, Coated Twice a Year with Neatsfoot Oil.

Twice a year the elephants and the rhinoceros in the Central park menagerie get a coating of neatsfoot oil, which is thoroughly rubbed in with the palm of the hand, says the New York Sun. The oiling and the manipulation cleanses the skin, remove the dead skin and open the pores, freshen the animals up and improve their health, and they seem to like the process. The oiling is done only in the spring and summer; if done in winter the animals would likely take cold from it. The rhinoceros at the park is in good condition and lively and rather frisky for so big a brute. Sometimes it steps about with a step that is very much like a dancing step and likely to surprise one who sees it for the first time and has been accustomed to regard the rhinoceros as an animal always slow and lumbering in its movements. When the rhinoceros' cage is cleaned out, which is done daily, the keeper first attracts the great creature to one side with a tempting mess of food. Then he slips a noose of rope over the animal's horn and settles it down around the neck and makes the other end fast around a bar or two of the elephant's cage adjoining. This is done to keep the rhinoceros from pitching into the keeper if it should take a notion. The same precaution is taken when the rhinoceros is oiled. The elephants, however, kneel at the word of command. It is not necessary to plant a ladder against them in order to reach the upper part of their sides in rubbing in the oil.

CHARACTER IN THE HAIR.

Students of the Subject Claim Much Merit in the Theory.

It is a pretty hard thing to conceal one's true character nowadays. A new fad is hair reading, and this is said to "give us away" in an unpleasantly accurate manner. The new science is not fully developed yet, but its devotees have already discovered many interesting facts and are constantly searching for more, says an exchange.

Fine hair is said to denote gentle birth, and the amount of care the hair shows will determine the mode of life. It is also claimed that the closer the ends of the hair cling together, that is, naturally, without artificial force, the greater is the intellectuality the owner possesses. A tendency to curl denotes inherent grace and a poetic nature. Straight hair is the sign of a firm, positive and practical disposition. Such bad qualities as treachery and jealousy are generally found in people with black, lusterless hair. The lighter the hair the more sensitive and "touchy" the owner generally is. Brown hair must be a very desirable thing to possess, for the hair readers say it is always found on people having a high degree common sense, good judgment and reason. Red hair is a sign of honesty and also of cleverness. Nothing whatever is said about freaks of temper as an accompaniment to red hair. It may therefore be safe to conclude that another popular idea has been dissolved by the searchlight of science and investigation.

PROVERBS AGAINST WOMEN.

The Feminine Sex Arouses Satire During All Ages.

A proverb is defined by the learned Dr. Ray as "an instructive sentence or comment and pithy saying in which more is generally designed than expressed, famous for its peculiarity and elegance, and therefore adopted by the learned as well as the vulgar, by which 'tis distinguished authority," says the Philadelphia Press. A large majority of proverbs are of a satirical character and are leveled against women. We find, curiously enough, that the severest reflections upon the feminine sex emanate from those nations which have the reputation of being particularly gallant, notably the Spanish, Portuguese and Italian. Widows are invariably made the butt of ridicule, wives are dismissed with scant courtesy and maidens are treated by proverb makers as though they were worthy of constant suspicion only.

"A spaniel, a woman and a walnut tree—The more they're beaten the better still they'll be."

"He that marries a widow and three children marries four thieves."

"He that loseth his wife and a farthing hath a great loss of his farthing."

"A dead wife is the best goods in a man's house."

"Wedding and wintering lame both man and beast."

"It is good to marry late or never."

With the close of the Presidential Campaign THE TRIBUNE recognizes the fact that the American people are now anxious to give their attention to home and business interests. To meet this condition, politics will have far less space and prominence, until another State or National occasion demands a renewal of the fight for the principles for which THE TRIBUNE has labored from its inception to the present day, and won its greatest victories.

Every possible effort will be put forth, and money freely spent, to make THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE pre-eminently a National Family Newspaper, interesting, instructive, entertaining and indispensable to each member of the family.

We furnish "The Chronicle" and N. Y. Weekly Tribune one year for only $1.75.
