TIME FOR INTERVENTION.

Spain can imagine now how England felt in the last years of the eighteenth century, when the American colonies were slipping from her grasp. The prospect of the pacification of Cuba by the force of arms must be a gloomy one from Madrid. The Spanish army is constantly losing instead of gaining. Provinces which Weyler declared pacified some months ago are again overrun by rebels, who do not hesitate to raid the very suburbs of the capital itself. The soldiers are decreasing from sickness and death on field and in hospital, and additional reinforcements can hardly be expected from Spain. What justification can there be for a continuation of the war. Cuba can never be subjugated by Spain. We doubt if civilization will allow it. But one result can come in the end, and the sooner it comes the better for humanity. England, one of the most powerful nations in the world, could not subdue the revolting colonists; how can dying Spain hope to quell the Cubans?

It is our duty to seek a termination of the slaughter. The people of America are unanimous on that point. The government would be sustained in any action it would take towards ending the war. The president would be supported in any offers of intervention. There need be no fear of war as a result. It would be madness for Spain, and America is never the aggressor in conflict. The hot southern race might bragadocio for a while, but that would be all. Civilization would sanction any effort to put a stop to the butchery, and humanity would applaud.

The ability of the people comprising Greater New York to govern themselves is undergoing a test. The mayoralty contest, which is to be decided next month, will determine, if by choice, the people prefer the corruption of Tammany, the arrogance of Platt's bossism, the fanatical theories of Henry George, or an honest, clean, impartial administration such as Seth Low can and will give them should he be elected mayor. Members of the great national political parties should not let their party fealty blind them to the fact that as far as municipal matters in New York are concerned, both the Democratic and Republican organization are open to severest criticism. Tammany is more aggressive, bolder, and makes less attempt to conceal its iniquity; but the Platt regime is but little less disastrous to good government in its sly, insidious plan of making all offices but bribes in the hands of a daring and unscrupulous leader. If the people of New York want misrule, let them have it; only in such a case they should not claim sympathy for their misfortune.

Astoria and Tacoma are seeking to have the flour mills, recently burned at Perdition rebuilt at one of these points. Both are offering substantial inducements, while Pendleton is equally determined Mr. Byers shall not establish his plant away from there. This is the proper spirit for a city to show. When you want anything, get in and rustle for it. If The Dalles had started on such a plan ten years ago, by this time we would have a woolen mill, a scouring mill, the terminal shops, now located at Albina, the meat packing establishment now at Troutdale, a distillery, tannery, and several other industries which would have willingly come here if proper inducements had been given. Some cities have greatness thrust upon them; but they are few. Most of them get it by common effort and rustling.

The raising of the money by business men of The Dalles to repair the road leading from the foot of the Klickitat mountains to the river was a wise move, and if the work is done substantially so that the farmers may know a good highway is to continue, the investment will pay many times its original cost.

Let everyone that can, determine to attend fair next week and see that his neighbor does. In this way the meeting will be a grand success, and everyone have a part in the achievement.
