WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The city council meets tonight.

County commissioners' court met today, and has considerable business to attend to.

WANTED—An experienced cook and housekeeper. Middle-aged lady preferred. Call at 282, Third St. 2-4t

This has been collection day, and from the way the collectors smiled and everybody pungled, times are evidently good.

Anyone wishing to dispose of a good blooded pup, communicate with H. E. Ramsaur, Warm Springs Agency, giving description and price. 2-2t

Mrs. D. S. Crapper died at the family residence, near Hood River, Sunday night. The funeral took place yesterday, interment being in Idlewild cemetery at Hood River.

The A. O. U. W. and Degree of Honor of Hood River celebrate the anniversary of the order tonight. A feast of something to eat and a flow of something to say fills the program.

The score at the Umatilla House alays for the week ending Sunday was as follows: Monday, Maetz 65; Tuesday, W. Birgfeld 63; Wednesday, Brown 56; Thursday, Maetz 54; Friday, Lowe 53; Saturday, Maetz 62; Sunday, Mortensen 55.

On account of an unusual amount of work coming in, which could not be delayed, the CHRONICLE collector did not make his customary "pleasant" calls upon his friends today. However, those who were disappointed today can make him thrice welcome Saturday.

As we go to press we learn of the death of John Grant, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Antelope, who died at his home last night about 10 o'clock. His remains will be brought to this city and buried from Crandall's undertaking parlors Saturday morning.

The $14,000 package sent by registered mail to the State Savings bank, Butte, Montana, by the National Bank of the Republic, of Chicago, has been given up for lost. The Union Marine Insurance of New York, with which the package was insured, has notified the bank that it will pay the loss.

The club rooms are nearing completion, and are things of beauty. When the last artistic touch of painter and decorator has been put on we will give the new caravansary a write-up that only our ingenious Faber can accomplish. In the meanwhile those who desire to see handsome work can be accommodated by stepping into the club rooms.

Clarence Johnson, of the firm of W. H. Johnson & Sons, sheep commission merchants of John Day, says the firm has delivered to Dan Murphy, for Smythe of Arlington 3400 head of lambs, and to Slight Bros. and F. M. Templeton 2500 head, which were brought out of the mountains this fall, with 7900 head of lambs. Mr. Johnson says their sheep are healthy and in fine condition.

We understand that among other things to be considered by the city council tonight is a proposition from the Parrott Lighting Company to illuminate the city of The Dalles. It is claimed that a light superior to the electric light can be furnished, and at less than half the cost of electric lights. This remains to be seen; but we hope that the proposed lights are all that is claimed for them.

Albert and Wallace Johnson were accidentally shot while duck hunting near Shelton Saturday morning. Albert was in the act of drawing his gun, with the muzzle toward him, when it was discharged, he receiving the charge in his left forearm, shattering the under part, while Wallace, who was behind him, was struck by part of the charge in the thigh and abdomen. Neither case is serious.

Catherine Welsh, who lived in a little house in Seattle, died Sunday of paralysis. Mrs. Welsh did washing for a living, and, according to the talk in the neighborhood, did not hesitate to apply to the county for assistance. Under these circumstances the people who took charge of things after her death were surprised to find $600 in cash in her bed. Her only known relative and heir is Mrs. Mollie Dwyne of Mendocino, Calif.

Teachers' Examination.

Notice is hereby given that for the purpose of making an examination of all persons who may offer themselves as candidates for teachers of the schools of this county, the county school superintendent thereof will hold a public examination in The Dalles, Oregon, beginning Wednesday, November 10, at 1 o'clock p. m.

C. L. GILBERT,
Wasco County School Supt.
A Joker Joked.

A Rhode Island jeweler gilded a chunk of coal and labelled it "Klondike Gold—$8000." It was an object of special wonder for a time. One night last week a man threw a stone through the window valued at $2300 and stole the coal. No doubt the thief is sorry of it now and of course the jeweler is not laughing himself to death.

Lawrence S. Coe Dead.

Lawrence S. Coe, brother of Captain Henry Coe of Hood River, died at San Francisco yesterday. He was a pioneer steamboat man on the Columbia, and one of the originators of the O. R. & N. The Oregonian gives the following brief resume of his history:

"Lawrence Coe came to Oregon from New York in the early '50s with his father, Nathaniel Coe, who was the first government official of the postal service in the Northwest. Those were the days of the rugged history of Oregon, and there are now comparatively few left who lived in the territory when the sturdy pioneer and his sons came from the distant East to the wilds of Oregon to found new homes.

"For a number of years Captain Lawrence Coe made his home on the old homestead at Hood River, and engaged in the transportation business on the Columbia river. He first started in business with the running of sailboats between the cascades and the dalles, and afterward built the little steamers Mary and Wasco to ply the water of the middle Columbia river.

"Later with R. R. Thompson he built the steamer Venture at Cascades. It was intended to steam the vessel up to the dalles and then take it overland to Celilo for the purpose of running on the Upper Columbia and Snake rivers. The trial trip was to be made under the management of Captain Coe, but through some misunderstanding the lines were cast off before the engineer was ready, and the Venture went over the cascades. Afterward she was sold, her name was changed to Umatilla, taken to Fraser river during the mining excitement of 1858 and earned a large amount of money for her owners. The loss of the Venture in no way discouraged Captain Coe or R. R. Thompson. They immediately built the steamer Colonel Wright, after receiving the contract to transport army supplies to Fort Walla Walla and other interior posts. Previously such supplies were carried from the mouth of the Deschutes to old Fort Walla Walla, now Wallula, in Hudson's Bay Company batteaux, and other craft, propelled by sail and oar.

"The Colonel Wright was the first steamer to navigate the waters of the Columbia and its tributaries above the dalles, and after she had gone into such service her owners joined the combined companies, and on December 29, 1860, formed the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, more familiar under the abbreviated name O. S. N. Co.

A Suggestive Gift.

This office has received a contribution partly literary, but principally saponaceous, the combination consisting of five pounds of soft soap and a small dodger extolling its merits.

As we arrived home from the mountainous regions of Baker county Sunday, with plenty of grime and mineral stains on our hands, the presentation of a wash house supply of soft soap was offensively suggestive; but when we read how it would cure dyspepsia, stop coughs, relieve rheumatism and furnish not only clean hands, but a contrite spirit, we felt that no offense was intended, but that the owner of the soap desired simply to place his goods where they would do the most good.

The soap is made by Mr. Way of Portland, and he states in his circular that it will clean glassware as clear as crystal. This, we think, he can easily demonstrate. When we get a day off, we intend trying what he gave us, on our hands. If it succeeds in restoring them to their soft and snowy whiteness, and making our touch as heretofore, as the brushing of a humming bird's wing against the downy epistrophe of an angel's feather, we will write him up an indorsement that "will wash."

Cole's Air Tight and Hot Blast

HEATERS

ARE THE BEST

- B They heat a room in five minutes.
- E They save enough fuel the first year to pay for the stove.
- C 4 cents a day is the average cost of heating a large room with our stoves.
- A They burn anything and everything combustible.
- U A cord of wood equals a ton of hard coal in any of our wood heaters.
- S It is only necessary to remove ashes once in six weeks from our wood stoves.
- E They are safe and have a catch to hold the cover while putting in fuel.
- B You have a fire every morning.
- E Our hot blast draft furnishes a hot air feed, not cold air, and saves fuel.
- E They are easily moved and set up.
- E Our wood stoves are made with either sheet iron or cast iron tops in all sizes, for all purposes.
- E They are jointless the connections being so made that the greater expansion of the lining don't affect the body.
- E There are no bolts exposed to the fire to burn off or draw or open up a joint.
- E Our coal stove will burn slack and makes a ton of soft coal equal to a ton of hard coal.

BEWARE of infringers and inferior imitations, they never equal the original and cost as much.

NOT WHITMAN'S BONES.

A Survivor of the Massacre Says the Missionary Was Tomahawked.

Mrs. Catherine Sager Pringle, a survivor of the Whitman massacre, near Walla Walla, and a member of the Whitman household at the time, is convinced that the remains of the martyred missionary were not in the grave recently opened, from which the bones were removed and exhibited at Walla Walla. Mrs. Pringle lost her parents on the long journey to Oregon, and was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Whitman. Although a child when the awful massacre took place, she has a vivid recollection of its horrors. She writes to the Spokesman-Review under date of October 25, as follows:

"There is an old proverb that says 'Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise.' I was forcibly reminded of this when I read the description of the skulls taken from the grave of Dr. Whitman. Had the grave remained undisturbed, the public would never have known but that all the remains of the victims repose there. I have always had my doubts on the matter, knowing all the circumstances, and so expressing myself when applied to years ago for my consent to moving the remains to the campus of Whitman college.

"I am thoroughly convinced now that none of the skulls found belonged to Dr. Whitman, for none of the wound marks answer to those he received—a tomahawk wound on the back of the head and a gunshot wound in the throat.

"I should sooner think that skull No. 1 belongs to Crockett Bewly or Amos Sales, who were murdered in their beds on the 13th day of December, 1847, as they were thrown out to the floor and dragged by the feet to the door, where they were thrown out. I saw the Indians strike them repeatedly with their tomahawks.

"The skull of the man who appeared to be about 60 years old is probably Mr. Marsh, the miller. One probably is Hoffman, and one Gillian, the tailor.

"As there was only one woman killed, it must be, as the learned doctor says, that of Mrs. Whitman—if it is that of a woman. I have my doubts. It may be that of one or the other of the Sager boys."

Lutheran Bazaar.

The Lutheran bazaar opened this afternoon at the Vogt, and will continue until tomorrow night. No admission is charged during the afternoon, but a small fee will be collected in the evenings. A very large crowd attended this afternoon, and the array of pretty and valuable things displayed in the booths was well worth going to see. The program for this evening is as follows:

- March.....Orchestra
- Overture.....Orchestra
- Vocal Solo.....Dr. Lannerberg
- Cornet Solo.....J. P. Benton
- Selection.....Orchestra
- Recitation.....Walter Reavis
- Clarinet Solo.....M. Long
- March.....Orchestra
