LOST FOR I,CUO YEARS.

A Great Find of the flighly Prized Theunalian Marble.

The quarries from which the ancients obtained their highly-prized Thessalian or verd marble have been discovered and are again being worked by an English company, says the Philadelphia Record. The quarries, which have been lost for more than 1,000 years, are in the neighborhood of Larissa, in Thessaly, Greece. The ancient workings are very extensive, there being no fewer than ten quarries, each producing a somewhat different description of marble, proving without a doubt that every variety of this marble found in the ruined palaces and churches of Rome and Constantinople and likewise in all the mosques and museums of the world came originally from these quarries. In fact, the very quarry from which the famous monoliths of St. Sophia, Constantinople, were obtained can be identified with absolute certainty by the matrices from which they were extracted.

In modern times verd antico marble has only been obtainable by the destruction of some ancient work, and it has, naturally, commanded extraordinarily high prices. As a consequence, a number of ordinary modern greens of Greek, French, Italian and American origin have been described and sold as verd antique marble. No one, however, who is really acquainted with the distinctive character of the genuine material could be deceived by these inferior marbles. Thessalian green is easily distinguished from any other green marble by the following characteristics: It is a "breecia" of angular fragments of light and dark green, with pure statuary white, the whole being cemented together with a brighter green, while the snow-white patches usually have their edges tinted off with a delicate fibrous green, radiating to the center of the white. The cementing material is also of the same fibrous character.

QUEEN'S JUBILEE PENANCE. Subjects Who Will Send Her Majesty

Their Photographs. Some weeks ago we protested strongly against the proposal that cards of congratulation should be showered upon the queen from subjects personally unknown to her majesty during the approaching celebration, says the London Times. We pointed out that the fatigues of this period for all members of the court will be quite trying enough without any addition to them in the shape of thousands, possibly millions of extra letters being delivered at the royal residences and requiring attention. Since then it has been announced that all communications intended for her majesty in connection with the diamond jubilee must be forwarded through the secretary of state, but in spite of this a firm of photographers, showing more enterprise than good sense, revived the unfortunate suggestion mentioned above. They have sent us a specimen of a card they are issuing, bearing the words: "With heartfelt wishes for your most gracious majesty's royal subject," and with a space for the sender's photograph, which, of course, is to be taken by the firm. Perhaps the surest means of dissuading any who might be inclined to make use of so unseasonable a form of felicitating her majesty on an event of which she knows all her subjects are proud is to point out that their cards are not at all likely to get any nearer the queen than the home office in Whitehall.

Names of Cities. Old Paris was formerly called by its Roman inhabitants Lutetia, meaning "Mudtown." London derives its name from the old fortified hill of the Britons, standing where St. Paul's cathedral now is. Dublin means the "black pool," and Liverpool "the pool of the living creatures." Rome is said to mean "the cross roads," and Berlin is variously translated as meaning "the short lake," "the free and open place," "the river island" and "the marshy spot." Pernambueo means "the mouth of hell," Bombay "good boy," while Cairo is a corruption of "El Kahirah, the victorious." Ispahan is

"the half of the world," Askrahan "the city of the star," Bagdad "the garden of justice," and Copenhagen "the merchants' harbor."

Utility of Mosquitoes. The utility of the mosquito has been fully demonstrated by entomologists, Born and reared in pestilential swamps, this insect does valuable work by consuming animal and vegetable matter which, if allowed to decompose, would still further poison the air.

LESSENING STATURE IN EUROPE

One of the Chief Contributing Causes

Is the Military Service Exacted This relation between stature and health is brought to concrete expression in the armies of Europe through a rejection of all recruits for service who fall below a certain minimum standard of height, generally about five feet, says Popular Science Monthly. The result of this is to preclude the possibility of marriage for all the fully developed men during their three years in the barracks, while the undersized individuals, exempted from service on this account, are left free to propagate the species meanwhile. Is it not apparent that the effect of this artificial selection is to put a distinct premium upon inferiority of stature in so far as future generations are concerned? This enforced postponement of marriage for the normal man implies not merely that the children of normal families are born later in life-that would not be of great moment in itself-it means far more than this. The majority of children are more often born in the earlier half of married life, before the age of 35. Hence a postponement of matrimony means not only later children, but fewer children. Herein lies the great significance of the phenomenon for us. Standing armies tend in this respect to overload succeeding generations with inferior types of men.

His Little Mistake. An exchange tells of a clerk who was showing a lady some parasols. He had a good command of language, and knew how to commend his goods. As he picked up a parasol from the lot on the counter and opened it, he struck an attitude of admiration, and holding it up, said: "Now, there, isn't it lovely? Look at that silk. Particularly observe the quality, the finish, the general effect. Pass your hand over it," he said, as he handed it to the lady; "isn't it a beauty?" "Yes," said the lady; "that's my old one. I just laid it down there.
