THE TROUBLE AT ST. GRACE'S.

A True Account of the Cause of the Dis banding of the "Quire."

The trouble in St. Grace's choir was not due to the soprano or the contralto, but to a man. St. Grace's was a country church, and so high that the congrega tion preferred to consider their singers as composing a "quire," rather than a "choir;" and every churchman-no, every churchwomaa-knows that from "quire" to "Rome" is but a step, and feels a delicious thrill at the idea of danger. The quire at St. Grace's, before the trouble began, was composed of men and boys, and was vested; and it same very well. It sang very well except for one man

He was a tall man, with a clean-shaven known to the quire lantern-p boys as "Ham-and-Eggs." Why he received this title, no one knew; but he had it, and as no one ever called him by it to his face, it served quite well as a name for him. Ham-and-Eggs was rated as a basso, and sometimes be same as a basso. But quite often, in the mid die of a hymn or a chant, it would occuto him to sing falsetto, and he would sing falsetto. Once, even, in the middl€ of a solo, the spirit moved him to sing falsetto-"and he done so."

Now that sort of thing would raise hob, even in an evangelical choir; in a high church vested quire it raised much more than hob. The rector himself tried to persuade Ham-and-Eggs to settle on one voice or another; but without avail. Then he tried diplomacy and compro-

"We've too many bassos now," he urged. "They overpower the rest of the quire. Now-what-do-you-say -to-singing-tenor? Hey?" and he looked inquiringly yet encouragingly at Mr. and Mrs. Ham-and-Eggs.

Mr. H. and E. spoke first, in his deepest bass.

"I will sing only with the voice God gave me," was what he said; and his stout better half remarked angelly:

"The mere suggestion is an insult." Now Ham-and-Eggs had three sons, known as "Bacon-and-Eggses" (Bacon isn't so big as Ham), and to avenge the insult he and they absented themselves from the final rehearsal of the Easter earols. The poor purson was in a pheese. Were they coming on Easter to sing or were they not? He could learn nothing from the Skillet, as the boys had named Ham-and-Eggs' house, because the family was our. So he decided on a bold plan; he would ask some ladies to sing the soprano parts, and let the bass get along without Hamand-Eggs.

"We'll put a screen in the chancel." he explained, "and the three Miss Blossoms can sit behind it." The three Miss Blossoms were willing, and at midnight the parson gave them their parts of the carols and chants, and they sat up the rest of the night learning them. On Easter Sunday the quire was very weak; most of the boys had gone home for the vacation. But Ham and Bacon and Eggs were there, after all. The three Miss Biossoms were smuggled into the chancel and tucked away behind the screen without any of the quire knowing; and everything was prepared for the 11 o'clock service. In time the processional began and the quire entered. The quire consisted of two bassos. Ham-and-Eggs one of them, one tenor, the three Bacon-and-Eggs, and no altos. But the three Miss Blossoms hadn't been warned not to sing until the male quire was seated; so at the first notes of the processional they began. The quire, prepared to sing, found some one out of sight singing away bravely, and was astonished and stopped-or most of it did; for Hans-and-Eggs kept on, first in bass, hen in falsetto, trying to carry the song ilrough.

After that, though, everything went contrly: and having been warned by rectar during the service, the three die : Passeurs did not sing all of the rees bound, but executed a vocal tour de one to continue with less until less voice as the quire departed, and succeeded in rooms, her an effect quite like the Turksh reveille, as one of them explained mort, the rector, Mr. Partridge. But the next day Ham-and-Eggs re-

"I don't mind what you said." he "I will sing only with the voice had gave me, and that voice I will take are of. These was too much echo yes ender in church: It injured my voice approximate. So I beg to resign.

The Euconomid-Eggses went with their father, and so St. Grace's quire same to grief. - N. Y. Sun.

MEDITERRANEAN HOUSE RENTS. Highest at Gibrahar and Lowest on the Island of Malta.

In no place on the surface of the globe is rent so high as at Gibraltar, the reason being, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, that the geographical position of the town precludes the possibility of its being extended in any direction. A long, narrow strip of what was once sea beach is alone available for building purposes. All the rest is precipitous

Upon this narrow parapet, in some cases less than 100 yards in width, are crowded the homes of 25,000 people. As much as ten dollars a week is asked and obtained for the use of one small room, and this, too, in a place where the normal rate of wages is quite ten per cent. less than in America. Naturally, the overcrowding is fearful, and, the water supply being scarce and intermittent, cleanliness of living, as we understand it, is almost impossible.

No wonder that in the old days the plague and the cholera ravaged the "rock" with a virulence unknown in the filthy and pestilential cities of the far

In Malta, on the other hand, house is composed, and which is so soft that it can be cut with a saw into blocks or slabs of any desired size or shape. So. while the Maltese builder is digging up his foundation, he is at the same time getting out the material for his walls, his flooring and his roof.

WORKED AN OLD TRICK. The Deaf and Dumb Man Had to

"In my time," said a broker to his friends at Delmonico's the other day according to the New York Times, "I have observed many sad and touching scenes, but never one which affected me as much as the one I witnessed last week.

"Passing along a busy thoroughfare, I paused for an instant in order to read and reflect upon the miseries of a man who bere the legend 'Deaf and Dumlo,' picturing to myself my own condition under like circumstances, when the following remark somewhat startied me:

" 'Say, Jimmie, here's a poor deaf and dumb man. Father gave me five cents to spend, but I think I'd rather give it to him. He needs it more than I do.' "This was followed by the chink of a coin in the tin cup: "Instinctively I turned to the boy who had made this remark to his companion and said. "'Noble boy, I overheard your generous words. You shall not want for the money. Here is a dime.' "With a curtsey and 'Thank you, sir,' he fled.

"I turned to the deaf and dumb man, The muscles of his face seemed to be working to a degree rarely seen on a man bereft of those important senses. Unable to contain himself longer, he blurted out:

"'Say, you're dopey. That kid has worked that racket before. That fi-pence is made of lead!

"I went home and communed with myself."

At one time a delicate question as to the construction of a statute was discussed before the venerable chief justice of the New York court of commen pleas, Charles P. Daly, and after claborate arguments on each side the chief justice decided the question in open court, giving his reasons in a few well timed remarks which caused a full in the courtroom. The silence was speedily broken by the successful attorney, who stood up and said with an air of patronizing approval: "May it please your honor, I, for one, agree with you entirely." The chief justice, with a twinkle in his eye which betoken d his enjoyment of the joke, but a perfectly grave face, quietly removed his glasses, and, amid a broudletes silence, said: "I have, counselor, renerally found in my experience that the successful party agrees with the count.
