In Ostrich Times.

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects, and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently overcome habitual constipations, well informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system. Buy the genuine made by the California Fig Syrup Co.

OSTRICH WANTED A SMOKE.

He Swallows the Lighted Cigar, to the Consternation of His Keeper.

There was a performance in the ostrich department of the syndicate shows the other day, says the Tucson (A. T.) Star, which had not been advertised. It took the place of the strong-man feature which was advertised but didn't come off. Sammie Hughes was standing near the ostrich conservatory making a scientific study of the birds and smoking a freshly-lighted ten-cent cigar. An ostrich suddenly lengthened his neck about a foot and removed the cigar from Mr. Hughes' mouth and swallowed it, fire and all. The length of an ostrich's neck furnishes a wonderful opportunity for a lighted cigar, and it burned every inch of the way to the prompting of his indiscriminate appetite. A gentleman connected with the show in the capacity of chambermaid for the ostriches saw the cigar disappear within the bird's bill. He accused Mr. Hughes of having made a voluntary contribution and uttered language which was neither moral nor polite, showing that the spiritual training of this great educational menagerie is not what it is cracked up to be. He threatened to eject Mr. Hughes from the premises. Mr. Hughes tried to explain that he was the chief loser by the transaction and that the whole thing was an affair between himself and the ostrich. Deputy United States Marshal Ezekiel also began to say that the ostrich had brought the trouble on himself. The showman pushed Mr. Ezekiel aside, and the officer was compelled to exhibit his gun as his badge of authority. In the meantime the cigar had been extinguished in the bird's gizzard, and he seemed to have forgotten the episode of the cigar and was looking longingly at an empty soda-water bottle which lay on the ground just out of reach.

TRICKS IN HIGH DIVING.

Experts Do Not Run as Many Risks as Most People Suppose.

"What bothers most people who think anything about the subject," said Kearney P. Speedy, a high diver, who, according to the New York Herald, began his public career by jumping head first from the St. Louis bridge four or five years ago, "is how a dive of fifty or sixty feet can be made into a tank of thirty-six inches of water. You see they confuse diving with bridge jumping—quite a different thing. Bridge jumpers are neither jumpers nor divers—they're droppers; that is, they reach the lower rods of the bridge truss and drop feet foremost into the water. The trick is to maintain the perpendicular. They must have plenty of water under them, too. The high diver, as you have seen, makes a clear dive, head first, just a boy does from a springboard in swimming. I do it in very shallow water. I weigh, stripped, one hundred and eighty pounds, and never do any training. I have been diving from the top of a circus tent all summer into a tank but seven feet wide and into water but three feet deep. The shallow water dive is possible from the same principle that a cannon or rifle shot meets the most resistance the more powerful the impact. You see, I give my body and head a slight inclination upward at the instant I strike the water, which causes me to pop out as a board would or an oar on the feather. I learned this trick in the St. Louis natatorium when a boy practicing in shallow water and from a greater height. Then there is a certain elasticity in the water known to the high diver, but the trick is in the strike and turn, for water will break bones and crush chests, as many a man knows."

BOYS ARE CRITICAL.

In Writing Stories for Their Authors Must Be Sure of Facts.

In an interesting article on "How to Write Stories for Boys," in the Writer, James Otis, the popular juvenile writer, gives an amusing illustration of the necessity of accuracy in stating facts in boy's stories.

"Carelessness in stating alleged facts," he says, "is a serious offense in the eyes of the boy. He will forgive a glaring improbability when it is boldly labeled fiction; but you deliberately insult him when you state that which he can ascertain from books of reference is absolutely incorrect. This is best illustrated by an experience of mine in connection with one of my books.

"The incorrect statement made was regarding the depth of water at a certain point on Tampa bay, and I gained my information from an old chart of the Florida coast, carelessly giving no heed to the fact that there might be a later publication bearing on the subject. In less than thirty days from the issuance of the book four letters were received from as many readers, in which the mistake was pointed out, with more or less sarcasm as to the wisdom of the author.

"The latest coast survey had discovered that this particular portion of the bay was dry at low water, and at least four boys had made themselves acquainted with that fact.

"It was an error such as an older reader would have passed by unnoticed, or with a smile of pity because of the author's ignorance; but a boy does not allow anything of the kind to go without rebuke, and always remembers it to the disparagement of the writer."

Weak Lungs

If you have coughed and coughed until the lining membrane of your throat and lungs is inflamed,

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil will soothe, strengthen and probably cure. The cod-liver oil feeds and strengthens the weakened tissues. The glycerine soothes and heals them. The hypophosphites of lime and soda impart tone and vigor. Don't neglect these coughs. One bottle of the Emulsion may do more for you now than ten can do later on. Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion.

Ordinations in Old Times.

It cost more to ordain a minister in 1750 than it does now. There was Rev. Solomon Lombard, the first settled minister at Gorham, Me. His annual salary was less than $450, yet $120 was raised to defray the expenses of his ordination, December 26, 1750. The supplies considered necessary on that occasion included two barrels of cider, two gallons of brandy, a barrel of flour, three bushels of apples, 54½ pounds of pork, six candles (not to burn on the altar, though), one teapot and one pound of tea, four gallons of rum, one ounce of nutmegs, and the same quantity of pepper, a pound of ginger and one bottle of vinegar.

The Poor Love Art.

Those persons who profess to believe that among the poorer and more ignorant classes art is not appreciated should note the fact that when some years ago Toybee hall, London, held an exhibition of paintings for the dwellers in Whitechapel no less than 50,000 visited in five weeks. The experiment was tried in New York in 1890, and in forty-one days the exhibition was visited by over 100,000 persons. The next year 50,000 came in six weeks, and this year the attendance for thirty-three days was 105,696.

Sir Walter Scott, Lawyer.

An old man in Glasgow told James T. Fields that he had once carried a law case to Sir Walter Scott for adjustment. "How did he manage it?" asked Mr. Fields. "Oh, beautifully," returned the old client, "he told me a bonny story about a cow and a calf in Dundee, and then he sent me over the way to a brither lawyer, who, he told me, had a larger head for such affairs than himself. But it was a braw story that he told me about the cattle of Dundee, and it makes me laugh to this day when I think on't."

Mr. Elisha Berry, of this place says he never had anything do him so much good and give such quick relief from rheumatism as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He was bothered greatly with shooting pains from hip to knee until he used this liniment, which affords prompt relief. B. F. Baker, druggist, St. Paul, Ohio. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
