News was brought to North Yakima Sunday morning of the death of Patrick Coll, at Foppenish, about twenty miles south of that place, Friday. It was caused by his falling from a moving train. Coll went to North Yakima from Oregon.

Work is almost finished on bridge 144, near Hood River, and it is rumored that in a short time the pile-driver will be brought to this place to drive piles for the O. R. & N. dock here. This indicates that the O. R. & N. will put on a line of boats between this place and Portland in the spring.

A special meeting of the city council was held Saturday night, with Mayor Nolan presiding. The following councilmen were present: Stephens, Kuck, Johnston, Johns, Clough, Wood. The matter of a city tax was considered, and a five-mill levy was made. As this was the only matter under consideration, the council adjourned until the next regular meeting.

Saturday night a meeting of the directors of the D. C. & A. Club and the G. A. R. committee was held in the club rooms and committees appointed to make arrangements for the G. A. Last evening when the 5:15 train was coming through the yard, a half-grown lad attempted to swing on to one of the coaches, and it was only by the rarest chance that he was not thrown under the wheels and cut to pieces. This should be a warning to lads who are in the habit of swinging on trains in motion. Besides, if the city marshal catches them indulging in this dangerous practice, he will place them under arrest.

About 1 o'clock Sunday morning an individual who had drunk too deeply of the flowing bowl, made the rounds of a number of residences and demanded to stay all night. When sent from one place he would proceed to another and so on until he had gone to three or four places. The authorities were informed by telephone of his action and succeeded in finding him, and it was only by force that he was persuaded to partake of the lodgings they offered him in the city jail. He was quite a rugged individual, and gave Sheriff Driver and Mr. Wiley a considerable amount of trouble. This morning he was brought before the recorder and fined $10.

In Oiden Times. People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects, and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently overcome habitual constipations, well informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system. Buy the genuine made by the California Fig Syrup Co.

RESULT OF A FEUD.

One Yamhill County Farmer Kills Another.

Paul Ducleos, a farmer living in the Webfoot neighborhood, about ten miles south of McMinnville, was shot and instantly killed at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by Fred Clemmens, 20 years old. The trouble was the result of an old feud that has existed between the two families for a long time. Coroner Benton, of Dayton, and Sheriff Henry, of McMinnville, were hastily summoned to the scene. The coroner's inquest disclosed facts as to the cause of the killing which are corroborated by the residents of the neighborhood.

Young Clemmens was summoned, and in reply to questions told his story in substance as follows:

"I had known Paul Ducleos in life. I saw him alive this morning about 10 o'clock, and know the cause of his death. I started to go hunting this morning, going through the field to the line between our place and that of Mr. Mackey. I then went down the hill by L. Baker's place. Here I saw Ducleos approaching from the same direction that I had come. When he was within about 50 yards he began to abuse me, and still came nearer, swearing and threatening to kill me. When he was close to me he pulled out his mittens, or gloves, and began to draw his gun. When he had raised it to about the range of my head I fired."

Trouble had existed between the Ducleos and Clemmens families for a long time, and it nearly reached a climax last fall during harvest, when Clemmens and his father and the two Ducleos boys came near fighting. Since then the bitterness has been more intense, and the Ducleos boys have prominently threatened the lives of the two Clemmens men. Ducleos' gun was found by his side in full readiness for shooting.

A Successful Revival Closed.

The revival meetings, which have been in progress at the Christian church during the past four weeks, terminated last night. The pastor, Elder Boltz, has proven himself to be an untiring worker in behalf of the claims of holy writ; likewise a forceful and logical expounder of Christian principles. The commodious church building has been crowded at each service by deeply interested auditors, and the visible results of the meeting were forty additions to the membership of the church—twenty-two by confession and baptism. At the close of the service last evening each of the new converts were presented with a neat copy of the discipline of the Christian church, which proved to be nothing more nor less than the New Testament.

This church, which has been without a pastor for the past eight months, has seemingly taken on new life and vigor, and, it is believed, will in future be an important factor in the effort to eliminate error and sin from this community.

Mr. Seufert's Testimony.

The suit of the United States vs. Seufert Bros. was resumed in the United States circuit court Saturday.

Frank A. Seufert, one of the owners of the property involved, was the principal witness examined.

According to his testimony the property, as it now stands, is worth at least $300,000, from which is realized an annual income of from $30,000 to $40,000. He said his company "handles and ships over the O. & N. road from 160 to 180 carloads of freight each year. As the property now stands freight is loaded and unloaded directly from the cars on the Seufert property, but on construction of the boat railway all the freight would have to be transported across its track, and it would be impossible for the proposed railway to be constructed without causing the owners of the property great inconvenience and additional expense.

Mr. Seufert stated also that naturally there would be a great deal of damage arise through the interruption of business while the work of construction is going on. It is impossible to specifically outline such damages, but if the work was carried on during the run of salmon it would necessarily be great. The evidence so far introduced for the government fixes the damage at $12,000 to $15,000.

The testimony will probably all be submitted and the case given to the jury today (Monday).
