JUST LIKE WINGS.

A Frenchman Who is Endeavoring to Fly Against the Wind.

Louis Pierre Mouillard, a French resident of Gairo, has, says the Philadelphia Record, invented a flying machine, comprising an aeroplane of concrete surface, attached to the body of the aviator and arranged to permit movement of the planes in a horizontal direction only with reference to the body of the aviator, the apparatus depending solely for support upon wind pressure, and not upon any downward thrust upon the air, either by flapping wings or revolving propeller wheels. To a biplane, provided with an artificial sternum, are hinged wings, each on a vertical axis, so as to be capable of forward or backward motion; the wing frames of aluminum tubing being covered with silk or other suitable fabric. When the planes are thrust forward the aerodynamic rises; when they are pulled back it descends. The wings are controlled by a spring, upon which the inventor says, "the life of the aviator depends," and which must be strong enough to hold the two wings with their edges on a straight line at a speed of 32 miles an hour. The aeroplane can glide upon the air by a fall from a height sufficient to procure a speed which shall cause the air to support the apparatus, or by a skillful utilization of the force of the wind, which must blow at least ten miles an hour. The weight of the apparatus should not exceed 55 pounds, and it is intended to sail with winds varying between ten and twenty-five miles an hour.

"Just as Good" as Scott's and we sell it much cheaper," is a statement sometimes made by the druggist when Scott's Emulsion is called for. This shows that the druggists themselves regard of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as the standard, and the purchaser who desires to procure the "standard" because he knows it has been of untold benefit, should not for one instant think of taking the risk of using some untried preparation. The substitution of something said to be "just as good" for a standard preparation twenty-five years on the market, should not be permitted by the intelligent purchaser.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the man and fish are on the wrapper and $1.00, all druggists.

German Settlement in Indiana.

Four towns in two counties in Indiana make up a German settlement where German customs prevail exclusively in the home habits of the people, although all the inhabitants speak English and the children learn English as well as German. The towns are Ferdinand and St. Henry, in Dubois county, and St. Meinrad and Maria Hill, in Spencer county. Ferdinand, the oldest of the towns, was founded by a missionary priest, Father Kerdick, in 1840, and was named in honor of Ferdinand I. of Austria. There are no Americans in it, and there are only two families of Americans at St. Meinrad, which is the seat of a Benedictine monastery.

Need for Health.

A nervous young lady called a physician for a slight ailment, but one which she magnified, in her own estimation, into a serious one. "Run," said the doctor to a servant, giving him a prescription, "to the nearest drug store and bring back the medicine as quickly as you can." "Is there much danger?" replied the young lady, in alarm. "Yes," said the doctor; "if your servant is not quick it will be useless." "Oh, doctor, shall I die?" gasped the patient. "There is no danger of that," said the doctor, "but you may get well before John returns."

Insanity in Ireland.

Insanity is increasing in Ireland. English statisticians say that one serious cause of insanity is the abuse of tea, another an over-indulgence in alcohol, a third the disappointment of having tried emigration and failed.
