INDIAN POLYGAMISTS.

Efforts to be made to stop the practice in the Indian Territory.
The officials of Perry, O. T., together with those of the Indian territory, will, it is reported, make an earnest effort to stop polygamy among the Indians. Polygamy is practiced among nearly all of the tribes, and especially among the Cheyennes and Arapahoes. Maj. A. E. Woodson, agent for these tribes, says there are Indians among them who have from two to half a dozen wives. Maj. Woodson says the Indians refuse to give up their extra wives, and say they will not obey the territorial laws in this respect.
The major says there are only about 45 cases of polygamy among his Indians. They are opposed to a change. They come to him saying that they have heard nothing from Washington about it, and are inclined to question the territorial law. They imagine everything must come from Washington.
Most Indians who were living in villages six years ago are now on their allotments. The only unruly ones are 300 Cheyennes at Red Moon and Cantonment. They are practically as uncivilized as they were years ago, and refuse to take their allotments of land. They are hopeful that they will again be placed under civilian instead of military agents. Their refusal to adopt civilized ways is due mostly to the chiefs, who know that their power will be gone the moment the Indians are separated on their allotments.

Electric Light in the Arctic.

Electricity played an important part in the Arctic voyage of the Fram, Dr. Nansen's stanch vessel. The electric lights were daily used on board, according to the Elektrotechnisch Technische Christiania, until May, 1895, when the wearing out of the gearing and the fact that portions of the apparatus were needed for making snowshoes made it necessary to dispense with the use of the dynamo, which was worked by a windmill. Though at times the accumulators froze solidly, yet the acid blended ice proved a fine electrolyte. Electricity, too, fired the mine shots which freed the Fram from the ice floes.

"Just as Good" as Scott's and we sell it much cheaper," is a statement sometimes made by the druggist when Scott's Emulsion is called for. This shows that the druggists themselves regard of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as the standard, and the purchaser who desires to procure the "standard" because he knows it has been of untold benefit, should not for one instant think of taking the risk of using some untried preparation. The substitution of something said to be "just as good" for a standard preparation twenty-five years on the market, should not be permitted by the intelligent purchaser.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the man and fish are on the wrapper and $1.00, all druggists. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.
