A Hot Time in the Old Town.

There's been a hot time in the old town while the wool-growers have been with us; but, gentle people, the hot time is not over yet, for there's going to be a hot time in real estate and insurance in the old town in the future. When you hear old, Dad Butts go by, don't forget he's got business in his eye, a sample of which might be briefly mentioned in this way: A corner lot; good house; well improved; city water; streets all graded; within ten minutes' walk from the postoffice—for $300. And this isn't all he has. See him and be convinced.

THE LANGUAGE OF EDEN.
Said by Highlanders to Have Been Gaelic.

The Scottish Highlanders have always been firmly convinced that Adam and Eve used "Gaelic," and it is gratifying to find that philologists, as they grow wiser, are coming round to the same opinion, says the Scottish American. It is true that they have made no express admission to this effect as yet, but there is evidence that we are on the eve of an acknowledgment that Gaelic was the original language of the human race.

The latest deliverance on the subject, if it does not altogether silence these skeptics and scoffers who derided this article of Highland faith, ought to at least make them give pause. Dr. Leitner, a distinguished German orientalist and philologist, has declared Gaelic to be a "contemporary or derivative of the Prakrit, closely allied to the spoken language and out of which Sanskrit became a written language." He even goes so far as to assert that there seem to be in the Gaelic "certain survivals of a prehistoric language."

Clearly this point in the direction of the Highland contention, and the present acknowledgment, therefore, although tardy, and not, perhaps, quite so full as might be desired, will no doubt be welcome.

But Gaelic has another distinction. It is, as even the Sassenach knows, the language to swear in. The distinction, however, is that one does not quite harmonize with the theory of its Paraisaical origin.

TWO BROTHERS.

A Touching Instance of True Brotherly Love.

Here is the story of two brothers who stuck to one another through life, and in death were not divided, says Leslie's Weekly. They were past 60 years of age, and being reported ill and destitute in the old house where they lived alone, were removed to Bellevue hospital. Each, though helpless, was anxious to take care of the other. When asked if they had any friends, both gave the same reply: "The best friend I have in the world is my brother here."

On their cots side by side they lay dying, yet neither appeared to have any thought of his own suffering, but asked continually that something be done for his brother. The elder one died first, saying: "Good-by, John, dear. God bless you!" Less than four hours after this farewell John breathed his last. The next day—it was the day after Christmas—the two brothers lay side by side in the morgue, where an aged woman, who had been their friend, came and identified the bodies, promising to notify relatives who would see that they were buried together.

Such is a real incident from the great epic of daily life in the metropolis, and it points its moral better than some fiction.

EXIT THE ARCTIC WHALE.

Pursuit by Man Has Virtually Extinguished the Deep-Sea Monster.

Whalers, and especially the man with the harpoon, have always been popular characters, and, indeed, the perils and exploits of their trade form not the least stirring chapter in the romance of commerce, says the London Graphic. It will, therefore, touch most of us with some slight sense of loss to learn—as a correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette assures us—that, as far as the arctic seas are concerned, that chapter is closed. This is a prosaic age, and the results of that famous corporation of whalers, the Dundee Arctic Fisheries company, limited, for the last two years have, it is said, not only not satisfied the shareholders, but have resulted in a heavy loss. The right whale, which provides the famous bone, has become so scarce that a ship is nowadays lucky if it be rewarded by even one small one as the reward of a whole season's struggle with arctic fog and ice. A parallel might be drawn between the pursuit of the arctic leviathan and the African behemoth, the elephant. Modern improvements in weapons of destruction have so thinned both their tribes that, as objects of profit, they have almost ceased to be worth the seeking.

Solved the Mystery.

A man in Paris has been making a good deal of money exhibiting a curious animal in the cafes and such places. It was a very queer little animal, and the alert Parisians were willing enough to drop the petit sou for a sight of it. Still, look as they would, none could determine the creature's species. It was interesting, but it was baffling, and the exhibitor coined money. One day, however, a dog chance to follow a curious beholder into the cafe chautant. Immediately the wondrous animal humped its back like a diminutive camel, and began to hiss and spit! The mystery was solved! It was a shaved cat!

Aerial Trolleys.

Chilkat's aerial trolley road, eight miles long, is not an experiment, as the system has been tested in other parts of the world. The cars, holding two passengers and a gripman, travel under two ropes suspended in the air, with another cable underneath to conduct the power, the capacity of the line will be 120 tons daily, equivalent to 200 miners and their outfits. The construction of the road is simple, and it will probably be running by April.

"Just as Good" as Scott's and we sell it much cheaper," is a statement sometimes made by the druggist when Scott's Emulsion is called for. This shows that the druggists themselves regard of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as the standard, and the purchaser who desires to procure the "standard" because he knows it has been of untold benefit, should not for one instant think of taking the risk of using some untried preparation. The substitution of something said to be "just as good" for a standard preparation twenty-five years on the market, should not be permitted by the intelligent purchaser.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the man and fish are on the wrapper and $1.00, all druggists.

THE PRIZE KANSAS CITY BABY OF CUTICURA NO.

Cared of Disfiguring ECZEMA By the CUTICURA REMEDIES
Our baby when three weeks old was badly affected with Eczema. Her head, arms, neck, limbs, and nearly every joint in her body was raw and bleeding when we concluded to try CUTICURA REMEDIES. We began with CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA SOAP, and after the first application we could see a change. After we had used them one week some of the sores had healed entirely, and ceased to spread. In less than a month, she was free from scales and blisters, and today has as glossy skin and hair as any child. She was shown at the Grand Fair, and took a premium as the prettiest baby, over sixteen others. Dr. & Mrs. PARK, 109 Bellevue Ave., Kan. City. Sold every where. FORTEZ DRUG & CHEM.
