"The blustering boreas did encroche and beat upon the solitane Brere," thus sang the poet of olden time, but yesterday there was more truth than poetry in this saying, for old Boreas got trolicsome and made Dalies real estate move faster than ever did The Dalles Real Estate Exchange. Old Dad Butts, however, was up with the pace set by old Boreas, and while Boreas only moved the surface Butts moved everything from the sky to the center of the earth on one or two pieces of property. Butte has the bargains that make property move, and he does not depend on Boreas or the co-operation of anyone else to assist him in making sales. A few more bargains left for those who come early. DEPOSIT OF DIAMONDS.

Valuable Gems Found Associated with Tin Ore in Australia.

An interesting occurrence of tin ore and diamonds, which is believed to be unique, is described in the recently-issued report of the department of mines and agriculatre of New South Wales for 1896. Gravel containing casseterite in workable quantities, together with diamonds, was discovered last year at Beggy camp, 15 miles west of Tingha, which has been for some time a productive tin field.

The pay streak at Boggy camp, which is from 30 to 50 feet deep, averages from two to seven feet in thickness, the width of the lead not yet having been ascertained. One load of gravel yielded 515 stones of 184 karats aggregate weight and 42 loads furnished 600 karate of diamonds and tinstone at the rate of 13 pounds per land. The pay streak is a quartz pebble drift underlying a large hill of basalt. E. F. Pliman, the government geologist who examined the occurrence, considers that the basalt filled what was originally an oval-shaped depression.

The gravel rests on granite, and granite can be traced entirely around the basalt. The diamends are white and of good quality, and it is thought that when the gravel is drained the district will make a considerable production.

The necessary capital for carrying out this scheme has been provided, work has been commenced, and it is hoped that some of the turbines and dynamos will be working by December, 1898. If no unforeseen diffi- TRANSACTAGENERALBANKING BUFINES culty occur, and if this scheme be completed by the date named, it will certainly form one of the most remarkable achievements of the century.
