PERSONAL MENTION

J. L. Langille is up from Hood River. M. D. Nelson is over from Goldendale today.

Justice A. J. Brigham is in the city from Dufur today.

Mr. W. H. Biggs went to Portland on a business trip today.

Charles Sison is in the city from his home near White Salmon.

A. J. Douglass, an enterprising Dufur farmer, is in the city today.

F. N. Jones returned to his home near Sherar's Bridge this morning.

James E. Hackett, a prominent Pendleton sheep-raiser and buyer, is in the city today.

D. C. O'Riley is down from Wasco today on business connected with the Columbia Southern.

Mr. Ed Hill, who has spent some time in the vicinity of Boyd, is visiting his parents on Dry Hollow, near this city.

Thomas Purdy, who for several months has been in the employ of Jos. T. Peters & Co., in this city, left for Portland this morning to accept a position with Studebaker & Co., at that place. While here Mr. Purdy made many friends, who sincerely regret his departure.

Sheep marking paint; ready for use. Two colors, black and red. Why you should use our sheep paint. First, because the colors are ground thoroughly in pure linseed oil by fine machinery; second, because it is made of high grade color, with the proper amount of driers added to give it binding and lasting qualities, which prevent it from washing or rubbing off; third, it is much more economical, because it is always ready for use. We guarantee our sheep marking paints to give satisfaction. Try it and be convinced. Clarke & Falk, agents, The Dalles, Or.

ARMY DISCIPLINE.

Where Officers Often Find Themselves.

Officers often find themselves between the devil and the deep sea. They must maintain discipline, they must secure prompt and unquestioning obedience to orders, or otherwise we shall have no army. How are they to do it? By reporting the case to headquarters and asking for instructions? In such case a self-respecting and efficient officer would feel called upon to accompany his request for help with a letter of resignation. He must deal with the difficulty promptly and in such a way as to convince the insubordinate that in the proper discharge of his duty his will is law and his orders not open to discussion. He must never lose his temper, of course, and in the calm seclusion of a bureau office, with nothing more exciting before him than an indorsed paper, he might escape the temptation to do so. That he is wrong when he does yield to personal feeling no one will question. What is in doubt is the measure of his offense when nothing worse results from the rough handling of an intractable subject.

It is natural that there should be a difference of opinion on this subject between the war department and those whose sympathy with a brother officer. Each should consider the difficulties of the other. The officer on his part should not forget that those who legislate for the army and those who ask for legislation must consider public opinion, and the necessity of finding some way to reconcile the demands of discipline with American conceptions of the dignity of the individual man. The methods of peremptory punishment for minor offenses, said to prevail in the German army, cannot be permitted here, or any approach to them. Officers must reckon with public opinion, whether they will or not, and now that the army is under the searchlight of yellow journalism they may be sure that the slightest departure from the straight and narrow path of regulation and restricted authority will raise a tempest about their ears. The situation is one that can be met only by the wise and prudent management which tests the quality of an officer.—Army and Navy Journal.

A THRIFTY INDIAN GIRL.

She Secured an Education and Saved Enough to Purchase a Home.

In 1892 the "Seeger" school was built in Oklahoma territory, among a colony of Cheyennes and Arapahoes, considered among the wildest, most backward and nonprogressive of all the Indians. Fortunately the superintendent of the new school, Mr. John Homer Seeger, had already gained their confidence in another capacity, so that when they were asked to put their children in school they were waned. And they carried this out literally.

Many incidents are told illustrating the splendid work which has already been accomplished directly and indirectly by the school, for often the influence in the community is equal to the actual amount of education within the school walls.

One of the girl pupils who entered the school when it opened has had quite a remarkable record. Having no previous education and leaving her really savage home for the first time, she has demonstrated what education is doing and will do for the red man. There is a system in nearly all the government Indian schools by which those pupils who are both industrious and frugal may earn money in the sewing-room, or on the farm or in some one of the school's other industrial departments. Of course, this must be outside of their regular work. This young girl, after taking a regular course as a scholar, was judged capable of filling a salaried position. In the course of a short time she filled not one, but several, and worked in the sewing-room besides. Out of her savings she bought a wagon, harness, team, organ, bedroom set and a sewing machine, all in view of her prospective marriage to a young Indian to whom she was engaged, and when they were married she took enough savings with her to build a neat home! All this was accomplished in three years' time.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

BABIES WITH SKINS ON FIRE

From itching and burning eczema and other skin and scalp troubles. None but parents realize how these little ones suffer. To know that a warm bath with CURICURA SOAP, and a single application of CURICURA (ointment), the great skin cure, will in the majority of cases afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure, and not to use them without a moment's delay is to fail in our duty.

Sold throughout the world. Price, CURICURA Soap, 25c; CURICURA Ointment, 50c. Sold by all druggists.

Modern Treatment of Consumption

The latest work on the treatment of diseases, written by forty eminent American physicians, says: "Cod-liver oil has done more for the consumptive than all other remedies put together." It also says: "The hypophosphites of lime and soda are regarded by many English observers as specifics for consumption."

Scott's Emulsion

contains the best cod-liver oil in a partially digested form, combined with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. This remedy, a standard for a quarter of a century, is in exact accord with the latest views of the medical profession. Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion.
