A SUPPOSED DROWNING.

Two More Victims Probably Added to the Long List.

About a week ago Mat Nydquist and a partner in the fishing business named Swan Swanson left The Dalles for their fishing grounds below Lyle, and since that time nothing has been seen or heard of the two. Yesterday Mr. Jacobson, of White Salmon, found their boat near that place, and the supposition at present is that they were drowned.

The boat contained a number of articles they had purchased while here, and among the other things was a quantity of whiskey. It is the supposition that they became intoxicated, and falling overboard, were both drowned. Otherwise they would have been heard of before this.

Swanson was section boss at the company men. Both fifteen this place and Ceililo, for a long time. Nydquist was for a number of years in the employ of Seufert Bros., near this place. Both were honest, hard-working men, and it is hoped by their friends and acquaintances that they will turn up all right, in spite of the fact that chances are against them.

A Lonely Childhood.

It would be hard to parallel the peculiar circumstances surrounding the infancy and childhood of Henry Spalding, whose life was so sadly closed this week while defending his home and household goods from destruction. An only son has always a special position. But this boy, when, fifty-seven years ago, he began his earthly existence, was more especially placed. No group of loving relatives to welcome his birth; no grandmother's caresses; no sympathetic neighbors to share in the care of the tender infant. At no time does the terrible isolation of the early missionary show more vividly than on the occasions when the care of mortal life begins or when it ends. Happily for the little man, the good Dr. Whitman's services were within reach. Waiilatpu to Lypwai was not too long a ride for the medical man's pony in time of need.

We can imagine the joy of the lonely little girl, now Mrs. Warren, of Waterville, Wash., at the advent of the baby brother. But to the growing years of the boy there was no marked epoch of kindergarten or public school. His kindergarten was at his mother's knee, a very good place, too; his lessons were learned there. Boy playmates he had none. Myron and Edwin Eells and the Walker boys were at Tshimakain, near the Colville region. There must have been visits, when, of course, the whole family went along, the little fellows strung around the parents on the well-broken saddle horse, and we can imagine the delight and joy with which they were participated. But for the most part Eliza and little Henry made their own plays and amusements, bows and arrows, pony riding, work with their most industrious parents, perhaps helping to plant the seeds of that primeval and historical orchard; work that

The Dalles Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY - MARCH 25, 1898

A special received today says:

The Spaniards are not endeavoring to settle the existing trouble peaceably but on the contrary are looking for a fight. The Spanish flotilla has started west from the Canary islands and our government says it must stop. At no time since the beginning of the trouble has the situation looked so critical as it does at the present time, and the dogs of war may be turned loose at any moment.

Latest advices state that Gladstone is rapidly nearing the end. The "Grand Old Man's" physicians say that his hours are numbered.

A drunk was brought before the recorder this morning, and as he did not have the price to pay his fine he is laboring on the city's woodpile today.

All that could be learned from the state convention today was that an organization had been effected of the three parties, and a platform adopted. No nominations had been made when the last telegram was received and as yet we cannot give the names of any of the candidates.

A telegram was received by the friends of Rev. O. D. Taylor this morning, stating that the supreme court of Michigan had interfered in the case and he would not be imprisoned as stated a few days ago.

On exhibition in A. M. Williams & Co.'s mammoth show windows may be seen some of the leading popular styles and cloths in spring and summer suits for men's wear. The firm extends a cordial invitation to all to inspect their stock. Seeing is free.

Yesterday Daniel Kelly, of Antelope, passed through the city on his way to the hospital in Portland. He has for some time been suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism and goes there for treatment. He was accompanied by P. J. Welch, of Antelope.

Word was received yesterday that Guy McLavy, who formerly drove stage between this place and Goldendale, and who is at present at Wapinitia, was in a critical condition and not expected to live. His brother, Roy McLavy, and Charles Alvord left for Wapinitia this morning.

A telegram was received last night by Albert Bettingen informing him that his father, A. Bettingen, who is at present visiting in Frisco, is suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia. As the old gentleman is advanced in years, much concern is felt about him by his friends. Albert Bettingen left for San Francisco this morning to visit him.

Services at the Christian church Sunday as usual. Elder Boltz' subject at 11 a. m. will be "The Two Masters"; text, Rom. vi:23, "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ, our Lord." Subject at 7:30 in the evening, "Semi-Parasitism"; text, Phil. ii:12, "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling."

Mrs. Phillips will on tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon and evening have her regular Easter opening and display of pattern hats and bonnets, to which all are cordially invited. Having made a personal selection of the same in San Francisco, except such as came from Chicago and St. Louis, they are of the very best procurable, and a large stock to select from.

Rev. Wood, of this city, has received a letter from the well-known evangelist, E. F. Miller, in which he states that he will be in this city about April 2d, and will begin revival services on the evening of the 2d or 3d at the latest at the M. E. church. Mr. Miller has almost a national reputation, and his coming is looked forward to with pleasure by all interested in the work.

It seems that some of the petty thieves with whom other towns have been infested, have reached The Dalles, and it would be well for our citizens to bar the doors and windows more tightly. This morning when Mr. Wm. Michell got up and started to dress, he found that his pants, which he had hung over a chair near his bedside, had been stolen. Fortunately there was but $1.75 in the pockets, and no doubt the burglar was disappointed. Evidently they made no attempt to burglarize further, as no traces were found, while several small articles of value were within easy access.

Major W. S. Bowan arrived in this city this morning. Major Bowan was detailed by Gov. Lord, as inspector of troops, and has been through Eastern Oregon inspecting the different companies. Tonight Company G, of this place, will undergo an inspection. This will end the major's duties on this side of the mountains, as all of the other companies have already been inspected and are ready to lend a hand in case the expected trouble comes.

John Fitzgerald received a telegram last night stating that his sister-in-law, Mrs. D. H. Seaver, formerly of this place, had been drowned at Sprague yesterday afternoon, but no particulars were learned of the accident. Mrs. Seaver was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Snyder, who, for a number of years, were in the restaurant business in this city, and was 31 years old. Several years ago she married D. H. Seaver, a conductor on the O. R. & N., and since that time has lived at Sprague. She leaves a husband, three small children and three sisters to mourn her loss. As yet it has not been decided where the funeral will be held, but in all probability it will be at Sprague, Saturday.

Smoke Cigars.

Why do we retail more Cigars than others?

Why do smokers go out of their way and pass cigars of the same grade?

Not because we have better cigars or better brands, or any greater variety; no, not that.

Why, because we have the finest cigar case in the state and keep our cigars in better condition.
