Lengthening the Eyes.

It is said that it is a common custom practiced among the Turks, who hold long eyes in such exalted esteem as to lengthen them by cutting the corners of the eyes. This is done very early—at the age of two or three years—the outer corner being deftly slit with a lancet about the twelfth part of an inch. While the wound is healing the lids are drawn outward every day, and when it is quite cured the eye is still submitted to the drawing process every day for a long time, with the eventual result that it becomes long and narrow, and satisfies the taste of the "unspeakable Turk."

SIMPLICITY ITSELF.

A SIMPLE, HARMLESS REMEDY.

Yet it cures the Worst Cases of Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

Dr. Jennison, who has made a life study of stomach trouble, says: All forms of indigestion really amount to the same thing, that is, failure to completely digest the food eaten; no matter whether the trouble is acid dyspepsia or sour stomach, belching of wind, nervous dyspepsia or loss of flesh and appetite; a person will not have any of them if the stomach can be induced by any natural, harmless way to thoroughly digest what is eaten, and this can be done by a simple remedy which I have tested in hundreds of aggravated cases with complete success. The remedy is a combination of fruit and vegetable essences, pure aseptic pepsin and golden seal put up in the form of pleasant tasting tablets and sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. One or two of these tablets should be taken after meals and allowed to dissolve in the mouth and mingling with the food in the stomach, digests it completely before it has time to ferment, decay and sour.

On actual experiment one grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest three thousand grains of meat, eggs and similar wholesome foods.

It is safe to say if this wholesome remedy was better known by people generally, it would be a national blessing, as we are a nation of dyspeptics and nine-tenths of all diseases owe their origin to imperfect digestion and nutrition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret patent medicine, but a fifty cent package will do more real good for a week stomach than fifty dollars worth of patent medicines and a person has the satisfaction of knowing just what he is putting into his stomach, which he does not know, when widely advertised patent medicines are used.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages, 50c.

THE DISAPPEARING TRAY.

Result of Putting a Japanese Metal Ash Receiver Upon a Hot Stove.

If you ever use one of those little fancy Japanese metal trays sold about the streets for ash receivers, don't put it on the stove, though that happens to be a handy place for a circle of smokers to reach. That was what the observant Jerseyman did the other night at his country home, says the New York Sun.

He and his sons were sitting about a big stove on a cold night, all smoking, and for convenience he put the ash receiver on a sort of shelf at the back of the stove against the smoke pipe. When he went to bed he left the ash receiver there. The following morning his wife discovered it. It was perfect in appearance and form, and still held the pile of ashes, burned match ends, and cigar butts which had been deposited in it the night before. She was about to pick it up, when she bethought herself that it might be hot. Taking something, therefore, to push it with, she attempted to slide it off upon a plate.

The moment she touched it the ash receiver lost its form, became liquid, and ran off the stove upon the floor in a shining stream of white metal. The heat of the stove had been sufficient to melt the pewter, of which it was composed, and it had probably stood there for hours, all in a liquid form, except the little crust of oxide and lacquer upon its outer surface. This crust had been coherent enough to keep the tray in form until a touch broke it, and then the whole had collapsed.

LIVING PROGENY OF FISH.

Viviparous Pisces Recorded in the Territory of Arizona.

A doubt that has troubled scientists for years—whether there exists a viviparous kind of fish, one that gives birth to its young in a living state—was definitely settled in the affirmative the other day, when the city hall fountain of the capital of Arizona territory was cleaned out. In turning the water out of the big cement basin, where a goldfish variety of the carp family has long resided itself for the edification of the Phoenix nurse girl and the Maricopa county hobo, it was found that many of the fish had given birth to progeny fully formed and ready to dart in search of food at the moment of coming into their watery world. Others had given birth to tiny creatures that were globular in shape, except for the protruding eyes and a nascent tail fin that could scarcely be seen without a strong glass. From all the evidences, it was clear that the clean-up had been made during the breeding season, yet there was no sign of fish roe or eggs. Many specimens of the strange young fish were collected, and will be shipped to different experts, one lot going to the Smithsonian Institution.

HIS DEATH FORETOLD.

Mow Chong Expires at the Hour He Had Named.

An astounding case of fatalism has just come under the attention of the British Columbia medical practitioners, who find in science no explanation and but few precedents for the extraordinary occurrence, reports the St. Louis Republic.

Ten months ago Mow Chong, a wealthy merchant and manufacturer of paper boxes, had a vision in which, he said, he received a supernatural communication informing him that he would die at six p. m. the 19th day of May, the 11th of January. Before the fateful day arrived he closed up his business, distributed bequests and on the day set for his death was banqueted by some 20 intimate friends at his residence here.

The feast was in progress when he quietly left the board and retired to his couch. Just as the clock struck six he died, without a word or struggle. Much against the wishes of his relatives, an autopsy was ordered, which, however, failed to disclose any cause of death. Now the authorities are in a quandary, as the body cannot be buried or sent home to China, as desired, without a death certificate, and no local practitioner can solve the riddle and issue one.

Sheep-marking paint; ready for use. Two colors, black and red. Why you should use our sheep paint. First, because the colors are ground thoroughly in pure linseed oil by fine machinery; second, because it is made of high grade color, with the proper amount of dryers added to give it binding and lasting qualities, which prevent it from washing or rubbing off; third, it is much more economical, because it is always ready for use. We guarantee our sheep marking paints to give satisfaction. Try it and be convinced. Clarke & Falk, agents, The Dalles, Or.
