PEACE OR WAR?

Today marks the crisis in the Spanish trouble. The latest reports received indicate that the answer of Spain to President McKinley's ultimatum has been received at Washington and that the contents will soon be made public. Upon the answer depends peace or war. We cannot help believing that a peaceful solution of the problem is probable, and that Spain will accede to the demands of this nation and of humanity. Not to do so would be national suicide. Without the support of a single European nation of first-rate power, Spain can expect nothing but defeat, and defeat means utter bankruptcy and annihilation of the present Spanish regime. It were better for Spain now to acknowledge the superiority of strength which America possesses and bow to the inevitable.
 Yet by the desperate straits in which the Spanish government finds itself, that government may be drawn to war, preferring to suffer what it would call honorable defeat than surrender at the command of another nation its hold upon Cuba. Death and devastation may be preferable to the proud Castilian blood than to acknowledge non-success after the boastful claims put forth regarding Cuba.
 This incident in history is thrilling. No communication was ever fraught with weightier results than the one now supposed to be in the president's hand. The country awaits the promised information with feverish anxiety.

YOUNG MEN FOR ACTION.

In ordinary times the American people pay very little attention to the navy, especially to the personnel of its officers. There are no fewer than fifty-seven of the high-grade officers of our navy who saw service in the war of the rebellion, yet there is not one of them all whose name was at all familiar to the general public prior to the blowing up of the Maine, except that Captain Mahan had achieved fame as a writer. During the war Farragut, Foote and Porter achieved special prominence, Farragut ranking with Sherman and Sheridan as a popular hero. Should war with Spain come, undoubtedly the navy would have the brunt of it. It would seem from a Washington dispatch that steps are being taken to retire Rear Admiral Seward from command of the North Atlantic station on account of the infirmities of age. Evidently the situation is somewhat embarrassing. The rear admiral has done the country good service. He was with Farragut when he ran the Mississippi and Mobile gantlet. He went through a dozen bombardments, and in each case combined bravery, coolness and skill. He was one of those dauntless heroes who sailed up to a line of torpedoes and, without slacking speed, passed on. But it is a long time now, measured by the length of human life, since those days.

It will be remembered that when the civil war came on the loyal people of the country relied much upon General Scott. The period between the close of the Mexican war and 1861 was less than half as long as the period between the close of our last war and 1898. But the command of the army soon passed to younger men, men who, if they were with Scott and Taylor in Mexico, were too young and too low in rank to attract the attention of the public. No doubt if war comes at all now it will develop from the younger men of the service, those who are to win renown.—Inter-Ocean.

Time and time again the necessity has been shown of securing some manufacturing enterprise for The Dalles which will provide a pay roll for laboring men and create a local demand for our raw products. It will be a matter of everlasting regret if something is not done during the present season looking towards the accomplishment of this object. The local conditions around us are changing, and we cannot expect that trade will continue coming to this city unless we take some measure to secure it. A woolen mill established here will not only bring a good return on the money invested, but will also aid greatly in securing permanently for this city the wool trade which now we enjoy. The men who can bring this thing about will long be remembered as public benefactors.

The hand of Providence was certainly present in the last election which placed McKinley in the presidential chair. Although he has been criticised by those who desired more precipitous action, we are convinced that when all the details are made known the wisdom of his conduct in the negotiations with Spain will be made apparent. None the less deservng of credit is Speaker Reed, who has lent to the president invaluable support.
