TOMORROW'S CONVENTION.

The Republicans of Wasco county hold their convention tomorrow. The session will be one of the most important of its kind held in recent years. The circumstances surrounding the political parties at this time make it necessary that unusual good judgment guide in the deliberations of the Republican party. The believers in free silver have united under one standard and present an even front in the political battle. The unfortunate dissensions in the Republican party in Multnomah county hamper the organization throughout the state, and render what should be a certain victory a matter of doubt.

THE CHRONICLE has no particular suggestions to make to the body of men who will meet and deliberate tomorrow. The personnel of the convention is excellent; representative men have been elected from the various precincts, and their actions will be guided by what seems best for the party's welfare.

At this time, however, we cannot but urge the importance of putting forward the very best material the party affords. In this county the nominees of the Republican convention may be sure of election at the polls in June, and it is but right that the nominations should be made with regard to the fitness of the men nominated for the offices to which they aspire.

The selection of delegates to the state convention is of paramount importance this year. The situation in state politics differs from what it is in this county. The fusion ticket throughout Oregon will poll a large vote, and it is essential that no man be nominated by the Republican state convention unless he be of recognized ability and clean character. In this way we can win, and in no other.

Let the delegates chosen to the state convention be representative Republicans, who can be trusted to manage wisely for the party's interest and the good of the state.

President McKinley is receiving undeserved criticism from many quarters. Do his critics remember that it is no small task to prepare a message covering all the history of the present trouble with Spain? The coming message will be the most notable because of the circumstances existing, ever promulgated since the war, and the president is staking his reputation as a statesman upon its strength and force. When viewed dispassionately, the course of President McKinley cannot but be commended. We are not advocating unnecessary delay, but the fact remains that every day this government is getting in better shape for the conflict when it comes. By Saturday we shall be in better fighting condition than we are today, and it is possible such a consideration makes the administration think at this time that "delays are not dangerous."

If Governor Lord will not call an extra session to give to Oregon the additional United States senator rightly her's, perhaps he may be induced to call the legislature together and place Oregon upon a war footing. Other states are showing their patriotism by voting money to properly equip the volunteers who will offer their services to the government if the time come when they are needed. Oregon should not allow General Compson, who fought with Meade et al., to be the only supporter President McKinley has in this far-off corner of the country.

"A word to the wise is sufficient" and a word from the wise should be sufficient, but you ask, who are the wise? Those who know. The oft repeated experience of trustworthy persons may be taken for knowledge. Mr. W. M. Terry says Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other in the market. He has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for twelve years; has sold hundreds of bottles of this remedy and nearly all other cough medicines manufactured, which shows conclusively that Chamberlain's is the most satisfactory to the people, and is the best.
