Sheep marking paint; ready for use. Two colors, black and red. Why you should use our sheep paint. First, because the colors are ground thoroughly in pure linseed oil by fine machinery; second, because it is made of high grade color, with the proper amount of driers added to give it binding and lasting qualities, which prevent it from washing or rubbing off; third, it is much more economical, because it is always ready for use. We guarantee our sheep marking paints to give satisfaction. Try it and be convinced. Clarke & Falk, agents, The Dalles, Or.

RID A TOWN OF RATS.

The Ingenious Scheme of a Maine Seaman. Nobody has seen or heard of a rat about Castine, Me., since last summer, says the New York Sun. In July, when the whole town was overrun with rats and everybody was in a panic over their destructive work, a coasting schooner came there for wood, and the captain sold Ben Wardell a receipt for killing the animals. For a week or two Wardell went from house to house selling a yellowish gray powder, which he offered to give away if it failed to destroy the pests. Then the rats began to die. Their bodies were found in out-houses and cellars and in ditches by the roadside. The smell was bad for a time, but the rats were gone and not one has been seen since. The composition of the powder remained a secret until Wardell enlarged his business and began to sell it in other towns. The Castine druggist was naturally anxious to know what killed the rats, and made note of the articles which Wardell bought. He never asked for any kind of poison, but the drug vender believed that he purchased more caliche plaster than any ordinary man had need of using. He mentioned it to Wardell one day, and the secret was out. The rat-killing powder was composed of Indian meal and caliche plaster in equal parts. The rats ate the mixture for the meal it contained. Then they had a great thirst. The water caused the mass to harden in the stomachs of the rats, after which their digestive functions ceased to operate and the rats starved to death.

MILK, BEER AND SUGAR.

The Diet on Which a Russian Has Lived for Twenty Years. There is a Jew, a native of Litzk, Russia, living in the east end of London who has fasted for 20 years, his sole daily diet during that time consisting of six pints of milk, three pints of beer and half a pound of Demerara sugar. His name, says the New York Times, is Morris Fox. He is an excellent Talmudical scholar, and, in spite of his frugal meals, he is the most wealthy, intelligent and wide-awake person in his quarter. He is now about 40. At the age of 17, it appears, he caught some lingering fever which shattered his digestive organs. He took many kinds of treatment from many physicians until his stomach became injured to all medicine. At the Kieff hospital they vainly tried to cure him by sponging and electrolysis; at Vienna his physicians included the well-known Drs. Albert and Northagel. His treatment at farhad was a failure; then he traveled to Konigsberg, when the physicians decided that he must live on sugar, milk and beer. He adopted their prescription and soon regained normal health. For 20 years no solid food has passed his mouth.

Received Her Sailors. For the first time in history Queen Victoria has held a reception for some of her sailors. The affair took place at Osborne House after the return of the cruiser St. George from a three-years' stay in South Africa. The crew had had much fighting to do while there, and after the ship reached Portsmouth 24 officers and 284 men were presented to the queen personally.
