ONLY A CASE OF INDIGESTION

Something must have gone very much awry with the digestive organs of Dr. G. A. Wendlandt, editor of the Springfield Zeitung, for he is striking notes upon his organ at present which grate harshly upon the popular ear. It seems to be the belief of Dr. Wendlandt that Americans are a good deal as Weyer and Blanco have described them—a lot of nobodies, mere mongrels, utterly devoid of national spirit or military instinct. Weyer and Blanco held this opinion before the recent incidents at Matanzas and Manila, but it is doubtful if they entertain it now. Said Dr. Wendlandt in the last issue of his Zeitung:

We have committed the folly of wantonly plunging our country into a war; now it is our duty to prepare for it in an adequate manner. In case of war we must figure on some reverses. Supposing our navy would be defeated and the Spaniards would land an army of invasion of 50,000 or 100,000 men under competent generals; where is the army we could oppose them with? In such case it would actually and solely devolve upon the much-hated foreigners, the German Americans who learned the science of war under Emperor William of Germany, to rally around our flag and call a halt to the intruders. The dyspeptic doctor is, of course, talking for himself. He does not express the views of any considerable number of German-Americans anywhere. The German-American veteran, whether he learned the science of war under Emperor William or Crown Prince Frederick or Von Moltke of Germany, or under Giant, Sherman or Sheridan of the United States, knows that there are no better soldiers or sailors born or bred than the men born on this soil.

This statement can be made without detracting in the least from the skill or the bravery of the American soldier or sailor of foreign birth. On the contrary, it may be accepted in the light of a testimonial to the manhood which our American soldiers and sailors have inherited from foreign sires, of all nationalities. While the German-American, Irish-American, Swedish-American, and European-American generally in the civil war displayed a valor that won for them the admiration and the gratitude of this country, the native soldiers—the sons of Yankee sires—were to be found at the front and in the thick of every struggle, and, whether as commanding officers or private soldiers, proved themselves equal, intellectually, morally and physically, to their companions of foreign birth or foreign training. Americans have in time gone by stood face to face in battle array with the flower of European soldiery. They fought Germans as well as Englishmen in the revolutionary war. The results of their conflicts with the Hessians under Cornwallis and Burgoyne may be unknown to the dyspeptic doctor of Springfield, but they are familiar to every American schoolboy. So that when the editor of the Springfield Zeitung says that "if one company of Prussian soldiers would attack these 10,000 men (at Camp Tanner) they would scatter in all directions like a flock of sheep attacked by a dog" he is simply talking nonsense.

Nowhere on earth are the Prussian soldiers regarded with more admiration than in the United States. But we are not prepared to admit that a company of Prussian soldiers would more than hold its own against a company of well-drilled Yankees. Men of Dr. Wendlandt's caliber, no matter what their nativity may be, are not qualified to speak for any class in this country, and least of all for the German-Americans, who are not only an enlightened, but a broad-minded people.

Notice to Water Consumers.

On and after May 1, 1898, those below the bluff will be allowed to irrigate on the even days in the month, and those on the bluff on the odd days, from 6 to 8 o'clock a. m. and 6 to 8 p. m., and at no other time. These rules will be strictly enforced. The rate for irrigation will be $1.50 per month for each lot 50x100 feet, and a proportionate amount for less space.

Sheep marking paint; ready for use. Two colors, black and red. Why you should use our sheep paint. First, because the colors are ground thoroughly in pure linseed oil by fine machinery; second, because it is made of high grade color, with the proper amount of dryers added to give it binding and lasting qualities, which prevent it from washing or rubbing off; third, it is much more economical, because it is always ready for use. We guarantee our sheep marking paints to give satisfaction. Try it and be convinced. Clarke & Falk, agents, The Dalles, Or.
