EAGER TO FIGHT.

The striking peculiarity of this war is the general eagerness to fight, says the Inter Ocean. There have been wars in which there was much maneuvering and blustering, but no coming to blows. There have been campaigns on sea and land in which commanders exhausted the devices of strategy to keep out of each other's way. There is nothing of that kind now. The Americans in this war are straining strategy, evading rules, and seeking excuses to get at the Spaniards.

Given a Spanish fortified town and an American fleet, and there is a bombardment on short notice. Given a Spanish fort and a Yankee gunboat, and there is a fight. Given a Spanish fleet and an American squadron in the same waters, and broadside follows broadside until one or the other goes down. Given a battalion of Spaniards on shore and a company of Americans on a transport, and there is an immediate resort to powder and shot. Given two cruisers in midocean, and Spanish and one American, and there is a crash of battle. Nobody is shouting "Fight!" or

"On to Cuba!" or "Do your duty!" to the navy. Commodore Dewey needed no urging at Manila. Admiral Sampson asked for no modification of orders at San Juan. The Wilmington waited for no instructions at Cardenas. Neither Sampson nor Schley will debate questions of precedence or seniority if he meets the Spanish fleet.

There are no all-quiet-on-the-Potomac or nothing-new-before-Paris refrains in this war. The Americans who have done the fighting up to this time know they are right, and they are going right ahead. They remember the Maine, and strike fast and hard. The army is ready to move in the same spirit when the time comes. The men in camp are chafing over delay. They, too, remember the Maine, and want to end the war.

TRADE IMPROVEMENT.

We are in the midst of war, and yet there has been improvement in business every week since war was declared. Business in April was better than in March and better than in April a year ago. Business in the last week in April was better than in the week previous, and the first week in May showed an improvement over the last week in April. Dun's Review of Trade reports railroad earnings for April as nearly 6 per cent greater than last year, and nearly 10 per cent larger than in 1893. The average advance in railroad stocks since war was declared is $5.51 per share.

Wheat reached the highest point in twenty five years last week, with heavier exports from both Atlantic and Pacific ports. Our exports of corn for the two weeks were 10,687,146 bushels, against 5,586,855 for the same weeks last year. With higher prices for wheat and an increased demand for corn has come a greatly increased demand for agricultural implements.

The improvement in business extends to the farmers as well as to the manufacturers. Not for many years has there been so hopeful a feeling among the growers of wheat and corn as there is now. Business activity that is based on a foreign as well as a home demand, and that includes all branches of trade, from railroads to farms, is likely to continue. The uncertainty some weeks ago had a demoralizing effect on trade. War, however, has not interfered with business improvement, but has stimulated activity.

The eyes of the world are on Sampson at this writing, and the chances are ninety-nine out of a possible hundred that Sampson will give a very entertaining performance if the curtain is not screwed down by the Spaniards.
