THE LESSON OF MANILA.

The advantages of a naval-reserve system have had practical demonstration within the last few weeks. Illinois alone sent on short notice over a thousand trained, or partially trained, men to the navy. Some of the eastern states did as well, and so far as seamen were concerned there was little delay in putting the navy on a war footing.

At the beginning of the war the naval militia was organized in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Illinois, Michigan, New Jersey, Louisiana, Ohio, Florida, Virginia and California. There were on the peace footing in these seventeen states 3,871 officers and men. After the declaration of war the force was rapidly increased. In some of the states the members of the naval reserve hesitated to take active service unless they could be accepted as organized. In Illinois the men made no conditions, and in two weeks they were on the Oregon, Indiana, and other war vessels and were in very active service. In the eastern states the naval militia were thrown mainly to the coast and harbor defenses, but those from states with no harbors to defend went at once into Cuban waters.

In an article in the Fortnightly Review for June H. W. Wilson, the English naval expert, contends that the weakness of the British navy is in its reserve and in its old vessels counted on paper as equal to more modern vessels. The lesson of Manila, he argues, is against dependence on old vessels or untrained seamen and gunners. Germany, France and Russia are giving more attention to their naval reserves than is England, and are more alive to the demand for trained men and for improved warships.

In the last ten years Russia and Germany have given special attention to their naval reserves, and it would not be difficult for other nations to put its navy on a war footing. England, Mr. Wilson claims, has been induced by a board of amateurs to neglect the reserves and would find it difficult to find trained men for her fleets on a war footing. She is losing ground while other powers are gaining in naval strength. The lesson of Manila points to the importance of trained men, to the superiority of the newer warships, to the importance of having ships and fleets well officered. The lesson is for the United States as well as England, Russia, Germany, and France.

"Our navy will never lower the Spanish flag!" yelled an excited individual in the Spanish Cortes last Friday. And if such a thing as a repartee were known in Spanish debate some member on the opposite side might have answered, "No; it isn't necessary so long as Dewey is willing to Dew-it."

It is said that the Spanish fleet which is ostensibly moving toward the Philippines is composed of mock warships. Very likely. The last Spanish fleet that appeared in Philippine waters was built that way.

The American soldier has received his baptism of blood, and it will from this on cease to be a matter of much importance how he creases his pants or wears his epaulets. Glory awaits only the man who fights.

How to Look Good.

Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a bilious look; if your kidneys be affected, you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alternative and Tonic. Acts directly on the stomach liver and kidneys. Purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils, and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store. 50 cents per bottle. 5

The Modern Beauty

Thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. If her system needs the cleansing action of a laxative remedy, she uses the gentle and pleasant Syrup of Figs, made by the California Fig Syrup Co., only.

Mrs. A. C. Stubling & Son will soon begin on the erection of a new hot house especially for the culture of carnations and violets. The increasing trade makes this necessary and Mrs. Stubling feels that her efforts will be appreciated by her patrons. jel7
