EUROPEAN INTERFERENCE.

From Washington comes the semi-official assurance that Germany will not be a troublesome neighbor when the time comes to settle with Spain on terms of peace. Our government has this assurance from the highest quarters—probably from the American minister at Berlin, who had it from the emperor or his ministers! or from the German ambassador at Washington. The presence of five German warships at Manila may therefore be dismissed as not a hostile demonstration, but rather a sincere and proper step for the protection of German interests in the Philippines.

European interference from any source has now become a remote possibility. The European powers, though inclined at times to regard the United States somewhat contemptuously, have long shown a disinclination to arouse the sleeping lion. Not that the lion has stirred himself to warlike action, we shall see increasing respect for the flag of this nation.

None of the European powers is in a position to court war with this country. All have troubles of their own, and the thrones of most of them are a little shaky. Their great standing armies are little more than well drilled militia, having seen no actual service, and their navies are untried, and therefore of unknown effectiveness. Size considered, in ships, ordnance and men, the United States has now the best navy afloat. It has been tried. Our officers and seamen have had the training which can only come from actual warfare. Dewey's squadron is flushed with one of the great naval victories of the ages, and many of the ships in Cuban waters have been under sustained fire. In gunnery, in navigation, and in the dangerous maneuvering incidental to blockade service and bombardment of modern batteries, our navy has had training in which every navy in Europe is deficient.

Before the war is ended, the same will be true of our land forces. Wherever they have been tried thus far in the struggle, they have borne themselves like veterans. The spirit which carried our marines through the fierce fighting at Guantanamo, and our regulars and rough riders through the galling fire near Santiago, runs through every brigade of the new army.

European naval and military authorities have not overlooked the conduct of our army and navy. They will have little inclination to stir up strife with a country capable of such valor and such achievements.

It is said that Cervera is a skillful guitar player, so he has probably had more or less experience in dodging projectiles—such as water pitchers and old shoes—hurled from upper windows.

Madrid newspaper dispatches regarding the war in Cuba read something like this: "We were victorious, but managed to escape with our lives."
