Yesterday morning a man was found lying on the O. R. & N. track near Viento evidently in a dying condition. The section foreman telephoned to The Dalles for medical assistance, but before a doctor could reach the man he was dead. Coroner Butte left on the 3:30 train today to hold an inquest over the remains.

The steamer D. S. Baker yesterday morning took up from Portland a crew of 12 men and a number of heavy timbers to the wreck of the Regulator, for the purpose of attempting to raise the steamer off the rocks. A scow was also towed up to be used in repairing the wrecked craft. The boilers and other heavy machinery will be removed, after which it will be a comparatively easy matter to raise the boat and take it to Portland for repairs.

The Umatilla Indians have concluded their Fourth-of-July celebration. It began on the 3rd and ended on the 12th. About 700 Indians, including visitors from other agencies in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, participated. The principal amusements of the Indians were dancing, horse racing, parades, gambling and loitering in the shade. The gambling game was "stick," and money, blankets, hats and saddles were won and lost. This game is one purely of chance, and becomes exciting to the Indian, but he is always fair in his dealings. Whenever he loses he gives up his goods as freely as he takes them when he wins.

Yesterday her friends gave a pleasant coaching party and picnic up Mill creek in honor of Miss Annie Wentz, who is visiting in the city. Taking the wagonette and driver by storm, the young ladies found the coolest spot that Mill creek affords and there spent the day, returning when the evening was cool. Those who had the pleasure of being the participants were Misses Anna Wentz, Lena and Tillie Liebe, Eda Fisher, Nettie Fadden, Effie and Vesta Bolton, Julia Nickelsen, Grace Hobson, Annie Thompson and Miss Jacoby.

The O. R. & N. has let to Hale & Smith a contract for improving the railroad track for a distance of eight miles westward from Viento station, which is about thirty miles from here. The contract includes the taking out of curvature, filling in where trestles now are, and completing a new grade, all of which will cost $190,000. This is a continuation of the system of track improvement begun early in the year, by which the condition of the road along the Columbia river is being vastly improved. Up on the new grade new 75-pound rails will be laid by the company, as has been done along the other stretches of the line. The contract with Hale & Smith has nothing to do with tracklaying however. This firm has been at work on the O. R. & N. contracts all the year. Work on the new contract will begin at once, and it is to be completed before January 1st.

A man answering the description given by Lane county authorities of Claude Branton, wanted for murder, has been seen at different points in Grant county. E. L. Robbins, who arrived in Long Creek the other day from Canyon City, said the supposed murderer was seen by different persons in or near that city who had ample opportunity to converse with him and thoroughly scrutinize him. He said there seemed no doubt that it was Branton. He was driving a horse attached to a cart and was making very fast time when on the road away from the more thickly settled parts. Some time after his departure from Canyon City, officers started in pursuit and traced him for twenty miles to the Allen store in Fox valley, six miles south of Long Creek. It was ascertained there that the fugitive had been seen at that place Monday morning. Nothing more has been seen or heard of him since, although the entire country, which is thickly settled, has been scoured by searchers.

Salvation Army.

Brigadier Marshall, commander of the Northern Pacific division of the Salvation Army, accompanied by Staff Capt. Willis, Ensigns Park and Wilson, will visit The Dalles on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, July 16th, 17th and 18th. The two ensigns are very sweet singers. On Saturday night the principal feature will be an international march, each different nation being represented. All day Sunday will be great spiritual feasts. You can't afford to miss them. Monday evening will be the fourth anniversary of the Salvation Army in The Dalles. A big time is expected. Some local officers will be commissioned. All meetings will be held in the army hall, on Washington street, led by the brigadier.

A collection will be taken at the door Saturday and Sunday evenings to help with the expenses. Everybody come.

LAUNCH THAT FAILED.

The Dalles City Shows a Disinclination for Water.

The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Co. is having a run of bad luck just at present, and have one of their steamers hard and fast on the rocks near the Cascades, and another stuck on the ways just across the Morrison-street bridge. Joseph Supple has just completed a fine hull for the Dalles City and has also made a number of improvements in her house and upper works. He had not intended to launch the new craft for a few days, but when the Regulator was sunk last Tuesday, leaving the company very much in need of a boat, he hurried the work along and had everything ready for the launching at 6:30 Thursday evening. All the blocks were removed, and the steamer rested prettily on the ways, waiting for the men to cut the ropes which held her. There were five of these, and the three in the middle were cut first, leaving those at the ends to be severed by Mr. Supple, who stood at the stern, and one of his workmen, at the bow.

At the word, both axes fell, and the steamer made a beautiful start. In nearly all launches where the machinery is in the boat, the bow gets started first, but the heavier weight in the stern comes to the rescue as the craft gains headway, and both move evenly. In the case of the Dalles City, the bow moved very slowly, while the stern started off with a rush, gaining such headway that the weight of the boat was too much for the ways, which slewed around to one side, dumping the stern of the boat down near the water's edge and leaving the bow well up on the bank. The craft went around so easily that but little damage was done, the hull showing no signs of a strain, but catching and resting too heavily on the keel near the stern on a timber that was under the ways. This damage will not amount to much, and Mr. Supple expects to straighten her up, and have all damages repaired and the craft in the water soon.—Oregonian.
