PROGRESS IN SANTIAGO.

Predictions were freely made when General Toral surrendered to the American forces at Santiago that other troops under his command, but not in Santiago, would refuse to abide by the terms of capitulation. The conduct of the considerable army at Guantanamo disposes of the fear that American troops will have more fighting to do in the already surrendered district. It appears that the Spanish troops in other towns are heartily weary of the siege and the consequent discomfort. The prospect of early transportation is another allurements which will act favorably in bringing the few remaining hostile troops to terms.

With Guantanamo in American possession and the enemy out of way Shafter reports that less than 5000 all told remain to give up their arms. Three thousand are at San Luis and over 2000 at Sagua and Baracoa. San Luis is inland a few miles north of Santiago and the surrender of the troops there will cause little inconvenience. More trouble will be experienced at Baracoa, however, for that point is almost the extreme northeastern town of the province and must be reached by steamer. It will probably necessitate the transfer of a battalion of United States troops to that point to receive the arms and arrange for the supplies and proper transportation when the transports are sent there.

But these are minor matters, when the moral effect is noted. It need not be difficult to quietly effect the surrender of little ports along the coast on the way to Havana to the north, and along the southern seashore to a point opposite the Cuban capital. This will be done in due time, with much less trouble and probably no loss of life. It is satisfying that the Spanish private can be brought to listen to reason, if it is impossible to inject sense into his superiors. It is just possible that the soldiers in provinces where the forces are stronger are waiting to see what happens to the soldiers who are sent home, but it is hardly within Spanish bounds of reason that many of them will be roughly handled for succumbing to the inevitable.

The placation of Cuba has begun on a large scale and has the proper authorities in charge. A continuance of the present policy will have great influence in quickly bringing the war to an end, if the Madrid authorities remain obdurate.—Spokesman-Review.

THE TWO ROADS TO PEACE.

Spain's only way to peace is to sue for it—to acknowledge defeat after a brave struggle and to ask the terms of a treaty that will be satisfactory to the United States. There is no dishonor in this. Dishonor will attach to a policy of futile and hopeless resistance, which will condemn more of her soldiers to death and suffering and increase the burden of taxation and misery now resting so heavily on her people. The way of peace for this country is to push the war so vigorously—carrying it at once to the very gates of Spain—that public sentiment there or the constraint of European powers shall compel the Spanish government to cease its madness and come to terms.

Meanwhile no parleying that shall delay Watson's departure by even sixty minutes!

Even the sympathetic Saturday Review of London advises Spain to give up a hopeless struggle. "Under the circumstances," it says, "it is as much the duty of Spain to arrange terms of peace as it was for Lee to surrender at Appomattox." "No one," it adds, "thought less of the southern general because he refused to continue a hopeless struggle when the main issue was decided." Every day's useless resistance will make the terms harder.

Fighting Joe Wheeler told General Toral that we are a generous people and that we cannot be beaten—which was directly to the point.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of W. M. Bush, clerk of the hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been almost a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrating me and rendering me unfit for my duty at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

Smoke Cigars.
 Why do we retail more Cigars than others?
 Why do smokers go out of their way and pass cigars of the same grade?
 Not because we have better cigars or better brands, or any greater variety; no, not that.
 Why, because we have the finest cigar case in the state and keep our cigars in better condition.
