Mr. J. J. Collins, advance agent of the Clay Clement Co., was in the city last evening. Owing to some misunderstanding he left without making arrangements to play an engagement in this city. This will be a disappointment to the theatre going people of The Dalles as the company is first-class in every regard.

Last night all the electric lights in the city were turned on once more, which gave the town quite a different appearance than on the previous nights, when there were no lights whatever. Considering the amount of damage sustained the Electric Light Company has done splendid work in getting their line in order so rapidly.

Since August 1st Sheriff Kelly has turned over $10,919.31, taxes collected after July 25th, when the tax rolls were delivered to him, $3,032.26 on August 1, $5,137.79 on August 13, and $2,749.26 on August 15. Mr. Kelly is making splendid collections of taxes considering that so little produce has been sold, and that taxpayers are not every flash with money.

Died—At Grass Valley, Or., Tuesday, Aug. 16, Claude Marquis, son of J. H. and Mrs. Marquis, aged about 13 years. He had been sick only a short time, and death was unexpected. The news came shortly before going to press, and we have not learned particulars more than above stated. Mrs. Wm. Holder, his aunt, left immediately for Grass Valley. —Moro Leader.

Wednesday evening Mrs. L. A. Bunch of this city received a telegram from Oregon City, stating that her brother, J. H. Mulvey, was quite ill, and requesting her to come as soon as possible. Mr. Mulvey formerly held a position in the city as baggage-master for the O. R. & N., and was well-known here. His many friends will be grieved to learn of his serious illness, and hope to hear of a speedy improvement in his condition.

Two carloads of hogs from Schuyler, Nebraska, passed through the city recently en route to Seattle. It looks that if the farmers of the northwest would turn their attention to this profitable industry it would not be necessary to ship hogs all this distance to supply the Seattle market. If there is money to be made by the people of Nebraska in raising hogs and shipping them this far our farmers of Oregon and Washington should certainly be able to make the business pay.

Yesterday when J. H. Cross entered his grocery store in the Vogt block he found that the side door which opens on Federal street had been forced during the night. After entering the burglars tore open the money tills but were disappointed by finding but a small amount of money as nearly all the change had been removed on the previous night before the store was closed. After finding no money in the tills they walked out without taking anything in the way of goods. They were evidently not professional safe crackers or else they were scared away before they got a chance to make an attempt to force the strong safe.

The funeral of Miss Percy Wing, who was drowned at Seaside Monday, took place from the residence of her widowed mother, Mrs. Lorinda Wing, at Washougal Wednesday. Fully 300 relatives, neighbors and friends attended the brief funeral services at the residence and cemetery. The funeral procession was a half mile long. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Baker, pastor of the Congregational church at Washougal, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hosford, of Portland, and Rev. T. W. Butler, of Oregon City. In accordance with an oft-expressed wish of the deceased, the public was not permitted to view her features after death, only members of the family and the children of the neighborhood, who were her pupils, being accorded that privilege. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Each of Miss Wing's pupils deposited a bunch of flowers upon the grave. Miss Wing was for years prominent in church and social circles in her neighborhood, and was a universal favorite.

Serious Accident.

Last Thursday evening, near Bigelow, E. W. Elrod had the misfortune to get his left hand entangled in a belt that flew off the pulley on a threshing machine, and actually torn off. About 2 o'clock the next morning Dr. Smith, assisted by Dr. Olive Hartley, amputated the arm below the elbow, and at last report the patient was resting as easy as could be expected. Strong hopes are entertained of his recovery, unless blood poisoning should set in. Mr. Elrod is the father of the leading lumber dealer of Moro, J. O. Elrod, and is well and favorably known. He is a member of the A. O. U. W. lodge at Moro.

WILL DREDGE FOR GOLD.

Barges to Be Built to Work the Snake River Bars.

E. S. McComas, a well-known mining man of Baker City, was in Portland Thursday on an important mission. He came for the purpose of contracting for the shipment to Palmer on the Snake river, of about 500,000 feet of red fir lumber, to be used in the construction of seven mining dredges. These dredges are to work mining bars in the Snake river, about five miles above the Boise crossing. Red fir is the best material for the purpose, and Mr. McComas expects to ship the lumber from Portland, if he can secure favorable terms.

The mining enterprise which Mr. McComas represents seems to be one of the most extensive character. He states the barges will cost $18,000 each, and the building of one will require 70,000 feet of lumber. It is proposed to ship the lumber direct to Palmer.

For the past four years Mr. McComas has been engaged in prospecting the bars in the Snake, and he is confident he has secured very valuable possessions. He has disposed of a considerable portion of his claims to some moneyed men, and now the intention is to dredge the bars he has secured.

"Mining experts examined bars on the Snake river," he said, "and reported forty to fifty cents to the yard, which is more than I expected could be secured. I think the gravel will yield twenty-five cents a yard. Now a dredge can be operated on these bars at a profit as the yield is only ten cents to the yard, as it has been done. With the fine prospect before us we anticipate a good income.

"These dredges will be constructed with an eddies chain and bucket in front, which will scoop up the material and carry it to the sluices on the barge. A dredge of this kind will cut right through a gravel bar, making a channel for itself. The front end may be shifted around and everything scooped up and washed out. I regard this scheme as highly important and one of the most extensive in the Northwest. I have given four years to a most careful and searching investigation, and I base my conclusions on what I have found myself. The Yukon country is not to be compared with the Snake river district.

"At Baker City things have been very quiet, owing to the closing down of the Virtue mine, but the recent transfer of the property to some other parties, who have a rich collateral vein, which means a general revival. The tunnel will be extended to this vein, which is very rich, and the plant will put into operation. There is some apprehension at La Grande over the effect the annexation of Hawaii will have on the beet sugar factory. On the whole country east of the mountains is prosperous."

Mr. McComas is an interesting character himself. He has been in Eastern Oregon since about 1860, first living in La Grande, where, in company with J. Jeffries, he started the La Grande Sentinel. For the past few years he has been engaged extensively in mining. Although the frosts of many years have whitened his locks and grizzled his mustache, he seems as full of energy as he was when he edited the first Democratic paper published in Eastern Oregon.

Murderer Arrested.

Sherriff Davidson, of Helena, Mont., was in Portland yesterday on his way to Oakland, Or., to take into custody Joe Allen, who is wanted in Montana for the murder of J. S. Reynolds on July 24th.

Allen was arrested at Oakland several days ago by Constable Ruth, and is now in jail at that place. The circumstances attending the crime go to show that it was committed for the purpose of robbery, and it was a most cold blooded affair.

Reynolds was a shepherd, and he and Allen traveled together as partners. Allen, who was not an adept at shearing, putting in his time billing sacks and loading wool, and acting generally as helper. The two men came to Montana together from Shoupe, Idaho, and worked during the spring clip.

They last worked about twenty-five miles from Helena, and on getting through spoke of trapping for the rest of the summer. They were last camped near Mr. Martin's place, where Reynolds and Allen were seen Sunday night, July 24th, lying down, both apparently asleep. The following morning Steve Arnold found a hat near the camp which had been worn by Reynolds, and also observed some blood on the ground. He at once instituted a search, and discovered the body of Reynolds in the bushes wrapped in a blanket. Reynolds had been shot in the top of the head with a Winchester, and judging from the location of the wound, the shooting was done while he was asleep.
