A heavy thunder shower occurred in the wheat section surrounding Wasco Thursday night, but the damage will be light.

Lost—A pair of spectacles with silver frame. They were probably dropped somewhere on Second street. Finder will please leave at this office or Parkin's

The new North Pacific flouring mill at Wasco made its first flour Thursday.
The machinery was all tested and found to be in good order. The mill will run slowly for a couple of days, when a double crew will be put on and flour will be made night and day.

One of the largest sturgeon brought into market for some time was caught by Mr. Townsley yesterday. It weighed about 250 pounds dressed and measured over eight feet in length after its head and tail had been removed. At present but few sturgeon are being caught, and it is something unusual to see such large ones coming into market.

A. R. Thompson returned last evening from a few weeks outing a Clatsop beach. Mrs. Thompson and the children remained at Clatsop, where they will stay until the warm weather is a thing of the past. Mr. Thompson informs us that the weather at Clatsop has been perfect during the week, they not having been any rain whatever while we were having showers here.

A telegram was received by Mr. Fouts yesterday from his son, Seneca, who is among the volunteers at San Francisco.
He reports all the boys well, and states that they will sail for Manila next Tuesday. Although the boys will have the trip across the Pacific, there is little chance for them engaging in any active service on their arrival there, as the war will, in all probability be fully settled before that time.

Yesterday a passenger coach, which was standing on the side track in Wasco, started down an incline and ran at a terrible rate for over two miles, when it was derailed and almost demolished.
Fortunately there were no engines nor cars on the track at the time, and what might have been a terrible accident, terminated with no other loss than that of the car itself. This is the first accident of the kind that has occurred since the building of the road.

T. Allen McQuary, the modern Don Quixote who is on his strange ride for a bride, left this place Thursday on horseback for Missouri, which trip he will be forced to make by Oct. 19, or lose the wager of $5000 and an Arkansas girl. He has no doubts as to his being able to make the trip in the time stated, and says that while he would not make the trip again for the $5000, still he would not give the experience he had during the last year for that amount.

Tomorrow another opportunity will be given the people of The Dalles to spend the day in the Cascades, as well as enjoy the beautiful scenery between here and Multnomah Falls for the extremely low price of 50 cents. This offer on the part of the O. R. & N. gives the people a choice of such resorts as Hood River, Cascade Locks, Bonneville and Multnomah, at which they can spend the day, and as a special car will be run for the convenience of the excusionists, no one need fear that they will be uncomfortable going or coming on account of lack of accommodations.

Mrs. David Steel has presented the Portland museum with a collection of photographs of all the Modoc Indians who took a prominent part in the massacre of General Canby and Dr. Thomas, one of the tragic incidents of the Modoc war of 1872-73. Also a number of stereoscopic views of the lava beds and caves where the savages had their strongholds. Such photographs were common twenty-five years ago, but it is doubtful if many sets of them are in existence now, and the collection presented by Mrs. Steel is worthy of being framed and preserved as a relic of bygone days.

Yesterday Victor Sampson, who works in Donnell's drug store, was printing pictures and left a frame in which he was printing in the sun at the rear of the drug. On returning the frame was gone, and a diligent search led to the belief that some one had stolen it.
One of the men who were working near the light house noticed a squaw hiding some articles near the building, and upon investigation found the frame among her belongings, returned it to Victor. The bolder contained a negative of L. D. Cates and Dr. Levans, of Cascade, and which of the two gentlemen she desired a picture of is a question to be decided.

In a short time the burned buildings will be replaced by large and more magnificent structures than those destroyed.
Mr. Gunning is already making preparations to build a new blacksmith shop on the lot formerly occupied by the second-hand store. The building will be of wood, covered with corrugated iron. It is also expected that Mays & Crowe will soon follow with a splendid brick store on the corner where their old one was located. It is safe to say that it will not be long before fine fireproof structures will be under course of construction on the lots where the other buildings were situated.

The announcement is made at Vancouver on what is considered the best authority that the Portland, Vancouver & Yakima Railway Company is completing arrangements for commencing work on a 15 mile extension at an early date. It is expected to have the line completed to Yacolt prairie, 15 miles from the present terminus at Brush prairie, by January 1, and to Amboy, five miles further on, within a short time thereafter. This road will pass through the best portion of Clark county and open up an immense body of excellent farm land, besides tapping one of the finest bodies of timber in the northwest.

From what we can learn the attempt of Mr. Christman, of Silver Lake, Lake county, to use a steam engine in hauling freight from this place into the interior will prove the flattest kind of a failure. He figured on making two or three miles per hour with a string of loaded wagons, but so far has not averaged more than that per day, and it is next to impossible for his engine to climb the steep hills south of here with anything like a full load. On the level prairies his scheme might work, but on the steep hills of Eastern Oregon the attempt must certainly end in a flat failure. Another objection raised is that it is very dangerous for teamsters, since nothing frightens horses more than a traction engine, and if they chance to meet on a narrow grade someone will meet with more or less loss.

THE NEW FIRE LIMIT.

The City Council Makes a New Ordinance Reaching From Taylor and Liberty Streets.

A special meeting of the council was held Thursday night to consider an ordinance extending the fire limit. Ordinance No. 237 was amended and the fire limit extended to the following boundaries:

"Commencing at a point where the north line of the alley in block B, Tre-vitt's addition, intersects the east line of Liberty street, thence running easterly and along the north line of said alley to a point where the north line of said alley intersects the west line of Union street, thence southerly along the west line of Union street to a point where the same intersects the north line of Third street, thence easterly along the north line of Third street to a point where the north line of said street intersects the west line of Taylor street, thence northerly along the west line of Taylor street to a point where said street intersects the south line of Main street, thence westerly along the south line of Main street to the northwest corner of block A, Trevitt's addition, thence southerly along the west line of block B to the southwest corner of block A, thence southerly and in a straight line to the northwest corner of block B, thence southerly along the west line of block B to the place of beginning.

An additional clause to the ordinance provides that residences may be built on a strip reaching sixty feet back from the north line of Third street from Federal to Taylor, but on all the other ground in the above limits nothing but business houses shall be erected.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

Written by One of Our Volunteers at Manila.

Max J. Bartell writes the following description of their arrival at the Philippines:

CAVITE, July 18, 1898.

Having landed and taken in the sights I now find considerable news to write.
We entered Manila bay June 30th and steamed silently to our moorings among the great grey monsters of Dewey's fleet.

After a peaceful slumber on the silent bay we proceeded to embark for the shore July 1st. The Oregon regiment was the first to go ashore, and we were comfortably lodged in our quarters before the Californians started to land.

Ah! but it is a sight for your life to look about and see the bristling masts and smokestacks of the sunken Spanish fleet. It seems strange to see ten sunken warships and Dewey's small fleet floating uninjured in the bay.

Cavite fort is a small peninsula about one mile by one-half and is connected to the mainland by a narrow paved roadway about 80 feet wide. It is surrounded by a stone wall from 20 to 30 feet thick and about 30 feet high. When Dewey captured the fort it contained about 150 cannon and 500 modern rifles which he gave to the natives.

At Dewey's arrival the natives took new courage and began fighting with vim, and step by step they drove the Spaniards back until now they are all in Manila. During the fighting the Span-

REGAINED HIS SPEECH.

Remarkable Experience of a La Grande Man Who Was Dumb.

People read of wonderful recoveries from loss of senses in novels and romances, and become accustomed to regard them as products of the imagination. But here, almost at home, is an instance that equals, in surprising qualities, any we have ever read in the most exciting work of romance. It occurred in La Grande, and is told by the La Grande Chronicle:

Harry Raymond has been as dumb as an oyster for over two years, but today he can talk like a Dutch uncle.
Raymond is employed as chief at the East Side restaurant on Fir street, and for a long time has abandoned all hope of ever hearing again. He was in St.
Louis two years ago last May, when the terrible tornado wrought such destruction in that city. He was buried with terrible force along with a mass of flying debris against the wall of a building.
The last thing he remembers he was stretching out his hands in the vain effort to rescue a dying girl. Then came a blank. For five weeks he hovered between life and death with brain fever.
When he recovered he was speechless.
Not only was he unable to articulate, but he couldn't produce the slightest sound with his mouth.

Raymond was a regular pharmacist but he lost his job. Drugstores did not want men, however skillful they might be in preparing prescriptions, unless they could talk enough to sell tooth brushes and perfume.
Monday night, however, at a time when he had abandoned all hope, he suddenly spoke. He don't know himself how it happened and he was as much surprised as anybody. At any rate he was annoyed at some of the help in the restaurant and his first words would not have been appropriate in a Sunday school. After he had congratulated himself in audible tones, he went into the saloon next door and called up the boys to take something.
They had known him for months as a mute and were frightened.
