PROF. BRYCE ON EXPANSION.

Professor James Bryce discusses in Harper's Monthly for September the expansion policy of the United States. The advance of this country from its own continent in North America to the position of an oceanic power, Professor Bryce declares, cannot but profoundly affect England, Russia, France and Germany.

He admits that American control of the Philippines, of Cuba, and of Porto Rico will be better for the people of those islands and better for civilization than Spanish control. To retain the islands he holds will involve doubling the strength of our navy, a heavy increase in our army, and the creation of a new class of experts in colonial government.

It is possible for the United States, having up to this time gained strength while inviting colonists and settlers from European countries, to become now a great colonizing power? And will her people, encouraged to build homes in the great temperate zone of the United States and inspired with loyalty to republican institutions, be inclined to emigrate to the warmer zone of Cuba, Porto Rico, or the Philippines in sufficient numbers to Americanize those islands?

These are the objections presented by an Englishman who has made a close study of our institutions. But he has failed to comprehend some of the most important questions in their relation to the situation brought about by war. We have already increased our regular army to 61,000. Already steps have been taken to double the navy's fighting strength.

Before the war with Spain nearly all European writers doubted the ability of a republic to mobilize an army and strengthen a navy as would a European government under the same urgent circumstances. It was assumed that there was danger always in a republic of such division of sentiment as would prevent the exercise of that undisputed authority necessary to military success.

The United States is pledged to give good government to the territory it occupied. When it will have done this it will have given encouragement to the natives and invited emigration from all the European countries as well as from its own dominions. The climate in Cuba and Porto Rico is not inhospitable. It is sought by a great many residents of the United States and Europe. There already in Cuba and Porto Rico representatives of all the races that have contributed to the growth of the United States. Under good government they may become as good citizens in Cuba and Porto Rico as in California or in Maine.

Professor Bryce loses sight of the obligations of the United States to the people of the conquered territory. We cannot return the islands to Spain, and we would be doing less than our duty to give them to any other European power. In our own interest and the interests of civilization we must protect and govern them.

The argument that the possession of colonies will weaken the United States has no force. Professor Bryce knows that were it not for her colonies Great Britain would be today, as Joseph Chamberlain said, only two small overpopulated islands on the outskirts of Europe. He knows also that in most things the republic has administered better than any monarchy.

Notice to Delinquent Taxpayers.

The delinquent taxes of Wasco county, as shown on the rolls now in the hands of the sheriff are $60,000, an amount almost equal to the indebtedness of the county. Every citizen will doubtless admit that this state of affairs should not exist, and that all taxes should be collected. On account of hard times in the past the county court has shown leniency to taxpayers, but that leniency has reached the limit, and the court cannot wait longer on delinquents to make settlements.

ROBERT KELLY, Sheriff and Tax Collector for Wasco County. Dated, August 4, 1898.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of W. M. Bush, clerk of the hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been almost a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrating me and rendering me unfit for my duty at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. Boggs, Stumptown, Gilmer Co., W. Va. It's a good thing to remember that there are many kinds of drugs; good, bad and indifferent. Drugs are important. Inferior drugs may not only fail to cure, but may prove worse than the original trouble. Purity of drugs is our hobby. They're the only kind fit to use.
