License to wed were issued today by County Clerk Kelsay to George R. Stephens and Miss Anna M. Roberts, the latter being a well known young lady of this city while Mr. Stephens is a resident of the Willamette valley.

Prompt action Sunday saved Moro from another ruinous fire from spontaneous combustion of refuse in the bank scrap basket. A blaze three feet high had started on its destructive course which was detected by smoke issuing through the front.

Wheat teams are pouring in from all parts of the interior and Klickitat county by the dozens from early in the morning until after dark. Although the warehouse companies have as many hands employed as can work to an advantage, still there is always a long string of wagons waiting their turns to unload. The price today is the same as yesterday, 53 cents per bushels for first-class wheat.

Hamlin's Wizard Oil Company still continue to draw large crowds at the Baldwin opera house, and the audience all have a good word to speak of each individual member of the company. Every part of the program is clean and up-to-date, and any one number on the program is worth more than the price of admission. Tonight they will introduce several novelties, new songs, and several features that go to make up an evening of first-class amusement. Go and see them. You can secure reserved seats any time by seeing the manager, Mr. Gallagher.

A meeting of the ladies of the Catholic church was held this morning for the purpose of considering the question of raising funds to pay off the light indebtedness on the new church building and purchase the necessary furniture for the same. They decided to organize what will be known as a church fund society. Mrs. T. Baldwin was elected president, Miss Annie Flynn, secretary, and Mrs. Theo. Seufert, treasurer of the society, while Mrs. Judd Fish, Mrs. Mark Long, Miss Alma Schanno and Miss Lizzie Farmer were appointed as a soliciting committee to secure members and assist in the organization of the society. Socials and entertainments will be given occasionally to assist in raising the necessary funds, and a membership fee will be charged each member of the society.

After many weeks of work, faithful and tireless, by public-spirited citizen committees of Portland, the Oregon Industrial Exposition will tonight open its doors to the public, celebrating the event in an appropriate manner by the rendering of a program appropriate for the occasion. The people will pour into the great building, and they will find there many features to amuse, please and instruct them. A vast undertaking it is to put such an enterprise on its feet, and get such numbers of exhibits into a presentable shape, but the gigantic task has been accomplished.

After a thorough overhauling of its machinery and the making of several changes in the same, the little steamer Inland Flyer, of the D. P. & A. N. line, left Portland at 10 o'clock today to ply between that place and The Dalles. Although the Flyer was run under a light head of steam the Cascade Locks was reached in a trifle over four hours, and left that place at 2:30 for The Dalles. As there is but one boat, the Dalles City, on the route at present, the Flyer will make but three trips a week until such time as another boat is put on, when it will make daily trips between here and Portland.

The activity, which no bystander can help but note, around the Mays & Crowe property, demonstrates plainly the efforts these gentlemen are making to reconstruct their store buildings as quickly as possible. Work on the cellar of the store building is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and although the excavating is very difficult it is almost finished. The excavating for the drainage pipes which lead from the cellar to the sewer across Second street is progressing fast and will be finished in a short time. A large amount of rock for the foundation is already on the ground while about five carloads of lumber arrived yesterday and is being unloaded today.

Interviews with several prominent shepherds of Long Creek valley show that there is a determination on the part of a great many to hold both sheep and wool for higher prices next year, and reports from railroad points of occasional sales of wool at 15 or 15 1/2 cents per pound strengthen that determination. One shepherd, when asked if he did not believe the "high-water" mark had been reached already, said "that such might be the case, but a careful survey of the world's mutton might not be any higher next spring, he had no fear of a fall. There is money in running sheep at the present prices. A ewe worth $2.85 or $3 now will net her owner that amount next spring in wool and a lamb. No I do not look for any noticeable decline in the price of sheep or wool for at least three years, and as long as droughts continue to harass the industry in Australia and Great Britain, our present greatest market will be retained."

THE SALEM MURDER CASE.

Body Found in the River Probably That of Ray Sink.

The body found in the Willamette river near Salem Tuesday is probably that of Ray Sink, of Wasco. Circumstances indicate that he was murdered for money. No reward has been offered for the perpetrator of the crime. A man living in Marion county is being watched.

C. S. Tate, a traveling razor-hone vendor, today identified the remains as those of the man he met at the Anderson hotel, in Silverton, a short time ago. Sheriff Durbin went to Silverton today and found that the man described by Tate was Ray Sink. He had been in Silverton several days, but was missed about a week ago. He came from his home four miles from Wasco to the valley for the purpose of engaging in business or investing in real estate. He made inquiries as to the price of a livery stable and confectionary store at Silverton, and he had been shown farms by Matt Brown. He exhibited a roll of greenbacks and was warned not to show his money to everybody.

Ray Sink and his brother, E. Sink, were the owners of a large tract of land in Sherman Co. The latter, accompanied by Harry Littlefield, was in Salem last Thursday looking for the missing man. Sheriff Durbin Tuesday night telegraphed to E. Sink. A hat has been found on the bank near where the body was found.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor.

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says when a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery-risings, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition and a general run down nervous condition I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth, and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest food anyway whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increase flesh in thin nervous patients, whose real trouble was dyspepsia and as soon as the stomach was put to rights they did not know what sickness was.

A fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree; on the contrary, anyone whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. Full size package at druggists 50c or $1.00 or by mail from Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.
