We learn that J. C. McKee, who has been head miller in the Gordon mill at Tygh Valley, has taken charge of the mill at Cove, Or.

The first colored man to be favored with an office at the hands of the Oregon legislature is A. D. Griffin, editor of the New Age, Portland, who is sergeant-at-arms of the house.

The city authorities are today having the county surveyor locate the corners of the lots in the burnt district before the buildings are put up, that future difficulty may be avoided.

Today the Dalles National bank foreclosed its mortgage on the Columbia stock yards, and they were sold at auction to the highest bidder, being bought in by the Laughlin estate.

A band of 250 cattle were in the stock yards today, being purchased from Howard & Stearns, of Prineville, for the Union Meat Co. Hon. John Fulton also left for Sherman county this morning with twenty-seven head of cattle.

Yesterday in mentioning the days when the library will be open we inadvertently left out Friday. The days are Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in the evening and Saturday afternoon.

A telegram received from Hon. Leasure and others, who were to be present this evening and organize the Native Sons of America, announces their failure to connect, and therefore the organization will be deferred until some time next week.

Among the eight members of the Tennessee Students, who will be here on Monday and Tuesday of next week, are four of the original Jubilee Singers. Every member of the company is a soloist of merit, and Dalles people will regret if they do not hear them.

It is expected that Rev. Polling, the new pastor of the Congregational church, will arrive in the city tomorrow, and begin his duties on next Sunday. This will be welcome news to the membership and congregation, who have been so many months without a pastor.

The light showers of rain last night and this morning were very welcome as they are much needed to settle the dust, which travelers say is very bad in the country. A gentleman who made the trip to Dufur yesterday says it is difficult to determine whether one is on foot or horseback, so blinding is the dust, caused mostly by the wheat teams which one encounters. Let the wheat teams kick up all the dust they want to; the more the merrier, when we consider every load contains wealth for our farmers, and therefore for us.

Passenger train No. 1 was twelve hours late today, pulling in at the depot at 3 o'clock. The delay was caused by a wreck twenty-three miles this side of Montpelier, Idaho. Two freight trains collided causing a serious wreck, in which several persons were killed. No particulars could be obtained.

In the window of Harry Liebe's jewelry store may be seen a number of most interesting Spanish souvenirs which were sent by Ben Ullrich, of Co. L, to his father in this city. Among them we noticed a deck of Spanish cards, coat of arms, an old manuscript of 1776, a cartridge taken from a Spanish ship, voucher which their soldiers receive for salaries, a lottery ticket, a rosary, picture of a Spanish soldier, buttons from uniforms, sea shells from Manila bay, ivory key of an organ in Manila cathedral, also a prism from a chandelier in the same cathedral, and some articles which, not being versed in the Spanish language, we will not mention. Mr. Ullrich values these very highly, and well he may for their association with events of such moment.

This morning, while Mr. C. L. Phillips' horse, which was hitched to his delivery cart, and had been driven to the boat, was standing waiting for the driver to return, he took offense at the shrillness of the first whistle, and determined to make a kick. So gathering up his courage, he started on a run up the hill. Half way up he encountered a wagon, and jumping over the wagon, got himself into trouble, for he awoke to find himself entangled in the shafts, one above and the other beneath him, while the cart was standing on its head. As he stopped for a moment to consider the situation and wonder if he hadn't better join a circus as a contortionist, Mr. Phillips arrived and checked his ambitions by straightening him out and driving him home, where he will be taught a little horse sense.

Many who attended the Wizard Oil entertainment last night were heard to remark that they had listened to a fifty-cent program for fifteen cents. Somehow the shows given by this company never grow old, for every member is an artist. Gallagher is a comedian hard to beat, and no matter how often he sings "He Grows More Like his Dad Every Day", he is always greeted with applause. Every feature of the entertainment deserves mention, but perhaps the most pleasing was the musical specialties by George Melville and his wife. It seems that the commonest article of every day use contains music when touched by them. His rendition of "Kentucky Home" on the sleigh-bells seemed to captivate the audience, while "Sweet Marie", from the throats of a few cow-bells was very nearly as taking. Many of the audience went home carrying useful presents, which were given away with medicine, and a very pretty ring was drawn by a lady, from numbers given at the door.

The ladies' societies of the various churches are again taking up their winter's work, and yesterday afternoon the Good Intent Society held a meeting at the home of Mrs. C. W. Dietzel. There was any amount of business to transact in connection with their coming fair, and so busy were they that even their nostrils did not detect a faint aroma of coffee from the dining room until their hostess stepped in and invited them to the most unique, as well as palatable lunches they had ever partaken of. It was termed a "German coffee", and if any one present had ever doubted the superiority of the Germans over other cooks, they changed their minds yesterday, for every lady yielded the palm on that occasion. The society expects to renew their efforts this winter in the interest of their church's finances.

Poster Party.

In connection with the regular meetings of the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church, it has been the custom to frequently have an afternoon devoted principally to social converse, games, etc. Yesterday afternoon such a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. C. Pease, which was called a poster party. From the different magazines and newspapers she had culled a number of cuts used in advertising and familiar to everyone, that is, supposed to be so, until we attempt to tell what particular article they advertise, and then comes the tug of war. These had been tacked on the wall and the ladies spent part of the afternoon in guessing just what they call our attention to. Mrs. Geisendorfer has evidently been reading THE CHRONICLE for she succeeded in carrying away the two very pretty chocolate cups and saucers as a proof of her observing faculty. Mrs. Grey, who has not quite such good eyesight, but reads just the same, won the consolation prize.

The hostess had decorated her parlors as only one of her good taste can, and served a lunch which was in keeping with the success of the afternoon's pleasures. These afternoons are calculated to awaken interest in the work of the society, as well as create good feeling and sociability between its members.

TRIP THROUGH COLORADO.

A Few of Its Magnificent Sights Mentioned in a Crude Manner by One Who Viewed Them.

At the close of the meeting of the National Editorial Association at Denver, which adjourned on Friday, September 9th, the newspaper people boarded a special train, composed of eleven coaches, and started for a tour of the wonderful sight-seeing state, Colorado. The first day was spent at Loveland, a place of about 2,000 inhabitants, situated fifty miles from Denver, on the Union Pacific, Denver & Gulf railroad. It is lively as a cricket and energetic as a flea. It has fruit-growing and farming interests all around, and every farm shows industry and thrift. Here the annual corn-roast was taking place. Not a regular feet-toasting spree, but a time when the fresh, green ears of corn are roasted in open trenches and served piping hot. Added to this "delicacy" was a genuine banquet served in a large tent, for the benefit of hungry editors, and in the words of the immortal poet, the aforesaid editors fairly "groaned" beneath the load, and had to be conveyed in carriages over the country.

Many on the second day took in the trip over the Loop, which was not so pleasant on account of the frigidness of the atmosphere as it would have been on a clearer day. On reaching the lunch station or half-way house, a snow storm was encountered, but it was fleeting, and by the time Silver Plume, at the end of the journey, was reached, the winding path of the snake-like road could be distinguished clearly for miles, and the wonderful meanderings of the famous Loop, were plain to be seen, crossing and re-crossing itself, until, like a crazy quilt, it gives up and quits the job when it finds a place large enough to deposit tourists, who by this time have no idea "where they are at" in trying to trace the road over which they came.

The loop trip was formerly considered the greatest one-day attraction the state affords; but within the past six months a formidable rival has made its appearance in the shape of the journey over the Colorado and Northwestern to Ward. This route is often termed the "Switzerland Trail of America", and even that appellation, with all its comprises, does not hint at its grandeur. The road is narrow gauge and leaving the growing little city of Boulder, the traveler is carried through the canyon by the same name which is one of the deepest and narrowest gorges in the world, climbing at first at the rate of 200 feet to the mile, and passing nine after nine con-
