WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Tennessee Students At the Baldwin Opera House Tonight and tomorrow night. Wake up and prepare for the fair. Only two weeks more remain.

A nicely furnished room for rent. For particulars apply at this office. 10 3 1w The patient at the city jail, who was injured Friday night on the railroad track, is getting along much better than was expected.

The voluntary reduction of passenger rates in Washington and Idaho by the Northern Pacific railway from five cents per mile to four cents makes the rate in these states the same as that of our own state.

The East End was fairly blocked with wheat teams today, although the market still looks discouraging. Today 50 cents is being paid; California somewhat lower; Chicago at a standstill, and English easier.

Yesterday Mr. C. L. Phillips picked up a pocketbook on the streets of our city, which he says the owner may have by proving property. We question, therefore, whether the purse contains anything worth mentioning. However the purse itself may be of value.

This morning Coroner Butts was called to the Cascade Locks, a man having been run over and killed by a train there yesterday. No particulars have as yet been received; but it is supposed to have been the same train from which the man jumped yesterday and got injured.

A number of gentlemen from this city recently visited Goldendale, and they inform us it is very likely that in the near future a railroad will be built between that place and Lyle. Nothing definite has been given out as yet as to the parties who are interested in the same; but so much is assured and that is the road will be built.

Mr. Chas. Stubling has placed a fine new bar in his saloon which is reported to be a "beauty." It is of oak, and its beauty lies in the fact that it is so neat, not being covered in tawdry decoration, but of rich polished wood. Back of it is a large mirror of plate glass, extending the full length of the bar. He has also added a patent refrigerator for draught beer, which contains four nickel-plated faucets.

Only a very few senators and representatives were to be seen in Salem yesterday, the majority having either gone home or to Portland to spend the recess. A large part of the lobbying contingent dissolved in like manner, so that so far as the state house was concerned a comparatively dead quiet prevailed all day, and politics and legislation took a rest. This quiet was, doubtless, counterbalanced by a corresponding activity among the hotels of the metropolis. It is reported that a caucus will be held this evening to make a nomination for senator.

Tonight at the Baldwin the Tennessee Students will sing some of the finest plantation melodies—old and new—Dalles people have ever heard: Robert and Susie Williams are the leading artists in this line; while Irene and Grant Stroter give a catchy pickaninny sketch. Somehow there is something about the singing of a company of darkies which pleases when others fail. They are the only singers of plantation songs.

A meeting of the city council will be held this evening, and the aforesaid body would confer a great favor upon the citizens of The Dalles if they would begin agitating the question of putting in arc lights before winter is upon us and we are compelled to wander in darkness. It was suggested at the Wizard Oil concert the other night that red-headed girls be placed on each street corner as a means of lighting the city. The entire community will be red-headed if we are compelled to walk in darkness much longer. Can't something be done to keep our citizens out of the gutter this winter? Temperance pledges cannot alone avail; the council must have a hand in the reform.

Saturday we were informed that Tom Purdy, who formerly was a resident of this city, and in the employ of J. T. Peters, passed through the city Friday evening on his way to Pendleton, and that when he returned Dalles girls could sit at the depot and see him go by, as Mrs. Purdy would accompany him. Loath to believe it, we made no mention of the report; but the Pendleton Tribune confirms our suspicions by publishing the fact that a marriage license was granted to Thomas A. Purdy and Agnes Lillian McNorris. No heartier congratulations will be received by Mr. Purdy than those extended by his friends in The Dalles, whose wishes for their future happiness and success are profuse and sincere.

HIS FOOT BADLY CRUSHED.

In Attempting to Display His Agility in Jumping on the Train He Gets the Worst of It.

Yesterday just after noon in front of the Columbia Hotel some harvest hands, who were about to return to their homes in the valley, were discussing agility in boarding a moving train, when one of them, a man named Parker, determined to give a representation of his particular talent in that line. As a freight train was just then passing he struck an attitude and mounted the ladder, only to be repulsed by the brakeman. Not to be thwarted in his exhibition he again boarded the train, but in attempting to strike ground again his left foot fell on the track and three small toes were so badly mashed that they had to be amputated, which will perhaps lame him for life.

To those who have occasion to be at the train as they come and go the wonder is that more accidents do not happen, for it is a common thing to see not only small boys, but men, jump on when the train has started, and sometimes going fast. Many lessons have been taught by the fate of others; but some are not willing to accept instructions except from a private tutor; and they will have sufficient turtorage sooner or later.

Mrs. Walter Reed, the Contralto, to Visit The Dalles.

Mrs. Walter Reed, the well-known vocal teacher of Portland, has been engaged to sing at the opera house for the District Fair in this city, the evenings of October 20 and 21. This will necessitate a visit of two or three days in this city, and the many singers of The Dalles will be glad to hear that Mrs. Reed intends giving vocal lessons while here. Mrs. Reed is gifted with a beautiful voice, and through her earnest efforts it is most thoroughly trained, as she has enjoyed studying under some of the most famous teachers. Among her teachers have been Monsieur Trabadelo, of Paris; Madame Emma Eames, teacher for the past two or three years; Signor Belari, of New York; Francis Stewart, the well-known teacher of San Francisco; Mr. Victor Harris, the composer, etc. Mrs. Reed has had many years experience in teaching hundreds of voices, and vocal students will find her advice valuable and her criticisms absolutely frank, especially those who are in doubt as to their abilities, or possibilities, or those who have faults and are in doubt as to how to go to work and correct them. Vocal students in other cities where Mrs. Reed has visited have profited much by taking a few lessons from her, many pupils taking two lessons a day, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Mrs. Reed will teach in The Dalles October 20 and 21, (terms $2.50, same rates as in Portland) and all students desiring lessons may write to her at 394 Yamhill Street, and she will arrange a limited number of lessons. No hours will be saved for those who do not correspond.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Last Meeting of the Convention—Union Service at the M. E. Church.

The attendance at the convention of Christian Endeavorers, which has been held in this city the past two days, was somewhat of a disappointment to those most deeply interested, only about sixteen delegates from abroad being present. However, some very profitable meetings were held, one of the most interesting being the rally of Junior Endeavorers at the Congregational church yesterday afternoon. Their superintendent, Mrs. Hershner, of Hood River, being unable to attend, the meeting was led by a member from each of the Junior societies of our city. During the session a recitation was given by Helen Stevens, of Hood River, and at the close of the afternoon's program Mrs. Boltz read a very well-written paper on "The History of the Junior Work."

At 6:30 in the evening the convention joined with the Epworth League in a meeting at the Methodist church, and at 7:30 a union service was held in the auditorium of the same church. A large number was present, and it was a fitting climax to their fifth annual convention. The Congregational choir furnished music for the occasion, and the meeting opened with the hymn "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," followed by prayer by Rev. Wood. The anthem, "Praise the Lord," by the choir was beautiful, containing a soprano obligato, sung by Mrs. Huntington, which is sufficient proof of its excellence. After a scripture lesson the congregation joined in singing the hymn "In The Cross of Christ I Glory."

In introducing Rev. Poling, who delivered the sermon of the evening, Rev. Wood's remarks were well chosen, and seemed to create a feeling of unity in the congregation during the entire service. He first spoke of the satisfaction it gave him to know that the churches of the city were so united in their work, and of the pleasant fellowship which had existed between the former pastor of the Congregational church, W. O. Curtis, and himself. He then said that it afforded him great pleasure to introduce the new pastor of that church and that he hoped the Christian fellowship would be strengthened as the work of the year progressed.

Mr. Poling, as an introduction to his remarks, said that he did not intend to "Savory food causes the digestive juices to be freely secreted"—reason enough why Schilling's Best preach a sermon, but merely give a few suggestions which he hoped would be of benefit to the workers of the Christian Endeavor, choosing as a topic "Consecration," and as a basis for his remarks the words of Christ, "Father, for Their Sakes I Consecrate Myself," and urging upon his hearers the necessity of consecration, not from a selfish motive, but for the sake of others. The speaker won his congregation upon this, his first appearance before a union meeting in our city, and if future impressions are as productive of good as those first made, he will be a power in the community. At the close of the sermon, resolutions thanking the people of The Dalles for their efforts in behalf of delegates, and the D. P. & A. N. Co. for reduction in rates from Hood River, were introduced. The officers for the coming year are as follows: President, H. C. Bateham, Hood River; first vice, O. B. Hartley, Hood River; second vice, Jos. O'Brien, Dufur; secretary, Edward Davenport, The Dalles; treasurer, Maie Cushing, The Dalles; Supt. Junior Endeavor, Mrs. Armor, Hood River.

The convention closed with a consecration meeting led by Jas. Powell, of Dufur.
