OBSERVATIONS FROM SALEM.

A strenuous effort has been made to make effective the appeal that a caucus of Republican legislators should be held, and its decision should be binding upon the Republican members.

The Corbett push is in full force now in the corridors of Hotel Willamette, on the streets and around the capitol, and every member and every public man who is not controlled by one means or other in the interest of Corbett is watched and hounded like a criminal.

CORBETT NO MORE.

The first vote at Salem, the attempt at holding a caucus in Corbett's interests, all point to Mr. Corbett's defeat. THE CHRONICLE regrets that an old man of his years should have been made the tool of by designing politicians.

These political highbinders made representations to Mr. Corbett that induced him to furnish the money to hold up the last session of the legislature, and to carry on the Simon campaign, previous to the primaries and conventions, last spring.

Now that Mr. Corbett is out of the way, and Mr. Mitchell has retired from the political arena, let the Oregon solons select some good Republican who will please all the factions. Let that man be a broad-minded Republican who can arise above party rows in his desire to serve all.

Wasco's Republican representatives seem to be alert in trying to represent their constituents in the matter of legislation, but we fear that the people of this county will not support them in their efforts to elect Corbett. But they are fair-minded men and when the "break" comes, which will occur soon, we believe that they will rally around some good Republican like Hon. M. C. George.

sure that he stands shoulder to shoulder with his colleagues. THE CHRONICLE has confidence in him.

Our neighbor, Hon. A. S. Bennett, received a flattering vote yesterday of twenty-four. This is the entire fusion vote in the legislature. He is deserving of the compliment. No better representative of those principles can be found in Oregon.
