WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Eighteen in. air tight heaters, $2.50. Twenty-one in. air tight heaters, $3.00. Twenty-four in. air tight heaters, $3.50. Also a full line of the celebrated "Wilson" heaters at Mays & Crowe's.

The new Baptist church at Hartland is about completed, and next Sunday dedicatory services will be held. A number from The Dalles will be in attendance to join in the exercises.

The steam heating plant for the Umatilla House arrived this morning, and workmen will be easily engaged placing it in position. This will be a great addition to the comforts of the hotel.

High bowling scores at the Umatilla alleys last week were as follows: Monday, H. Esping, 72; Tuesday, McArthur 53; Wednesday, Prof. Birgfeld 61; Thursday, H. Esping 64; Friday, J. Unger 51; Saturday, H. Maetz 56; Sunday, Prof. Birgfeld 68.

A dispatch from Astoria says: "The boiler formerly used on the schooner C. W. Rich will be shipped this morning to The Dalles, where it will be placed in the new ferryboat to run on the Upper Columbia. At the Astoria iron works a new engine is also being constructed for the same craft."

F. M. Chrisman, of Silver Lake, was in the city yesterday. Being questioned as to the immense traction engine and freight train which he shipped to Silver Lake on his last visit, he was somewhat reticent and from what could be inferred from his conversation, it has not proven as successful as was anticipated by him.

The fatal accident on the torpedo boat Davis Thursday between Portland and Astoria was caused by the loss of the water in the forward boiler. The tubes in the forward end became dry and overheated, and nine of them blew out of the steam drum—eight on the port and one on the starboard side. The after boiler appears to be uninjured.

The ball Saturday night, although not being patronized as extensively as was expected, was a success as far as enjoyment was concerned. Who could fail to enjoy dancing to such perfect music as that furnished by our orchestra? It is to be hoped many parties will be given during the winter months when dancers shall have the opportunity to keep time to the strains of such inspiring music.

The new engines to be put on between The Dalles and Umatilla have been built in the East, and are expected to arrive here in a few days. The new engines will be heavier than any now in use even on the mountain division. At the present time, the heaviest engines are rather high pieces of mechanism, weighing no less than 110 to 112 tons, or 220,000 to 224,000 pounds. The new ones will be heavier, and will be powerful enough to pull from Umatilla westward no less than eighty loaded freight cars. Some idea of what such a train will be may be gained from a computation. Giving thirty-three feet to each car, with the engine, the train would be over half a mile long, with from 1200 to 1500 tons of freight. On the road between The Dalles and Umatilla has been put down sixty to seventy-pound steel rails, in preparation for the heavier engines.

Samuel E. Wells, the Shakespearean reader, will arrive by the 5:30 train this evening and will give his first reading tonight at the Baldwin, commencing at 8:30 prompt. Chancey Depew says of him: "He seizes at once the very soul of Shakespeare; giving to every word and line its exact meaning and full power. His readings are veritable translations; each character standing out clear cut and with creative brilliancy."

It is the intention of the management of THE CHRONICLE that every subscriber should receive the paper each evening, and at as early an hour as possible. Many times it is unavoidably late, but we will endeavor to publish at a reasonable hour. The carriers at present are the very best to be obtained, and no neglect is anticipated. However, if from any avoidable reason the paper fails to reach its destination, it will be considered a favor if a report is made.

Those who attended the evening service at the Methodist church yesterday listened to one of the best sermons which a Dalles audience has heard for some time. Rev. Wood took for his topic "Personal Influence," and the manner in which he treated the subject was such as to impress upon his hearers the responsibility of each as regards the everyday actions, which to us seem trivial; but are in their results weighty and far reaching.

Geo. Barrows, who is the envied owner of Del Norte, left this morning for his home in Independence. He expects soon to make a tour of the East exhibiting this wonderful horse, which when seen at the fair grounds fairly captivated all by his human-like actions, and as he walked up to the grand stand after the race the ladies were heard to remark "Isn't he sweet?" "Oh how cute!" while every man on the grounds simultaneously said "By Jove! I'd like to own that piece of horse flesh."

When the fire bell rang yesterday morning about 5 o'clock, naturally every one who was energetic enough to start out, turned their steps to the East End, where fire is won't to originate. This time, however, the West End seemed to have its innings, as it was soon discovered to be in Truman Butler's woodshed. Quite a blaze had started when one of the railroad men, on his way to work, discovered it and gave the alarm. The Columbia hose company was the first to arrive, and in a very few minutes what bid fair to be a veritable Dalles fire, was soon under control. The origin of the fire is still a mystery. It seems to have started from the ash barrel; but Mr. Butler claims that no ashes had been deposited there since last Tuesday. It is hardly probable that it was incendiary, the unseemliness of the hour doing away with that theory. So the question as to how it originated has not been solved as yet.

MORE ABOUT FIELD'S DEATH.

A Letter From a Dalles Boy Gives a More Accurate Account.

The following extract is from a letter written by J. O. Elton, one of our boys at Manila, to D. H. Roberts, and feeling that his friends cannot hear too much concerning the sad death of Will Fields, we asked permission to publish it:

Many things have happened since I dropped this pencil. We have lost a faithful nurse, friend and comrade, in William Field. He enlisted with us at The Dalles and faithfully filled the position of commissary store keeper. When we reached Cavite, he was transferred to the hospital corps. It was he who nursed Walter Dickey, and to whom Walter owes his recovery. All who have been sick at the brigade hospital are anxious to express their regard for Field. The doctors say that he persisted in waiting on others when he should have been in bed. After he went to bed his fever ran up to 115, then he was placed on ice. While on the ice his fever would go down, but as soon as removed it would go up. This lasted till about noon on the 3d, when he expired.

We received the tidings in the evening and prepared to attend the funeral. The firing-party and the bugler were chosen, the firing party being as follows: Corporal Smiley and privates Earl Saunders, Guy Sanders, Lowe, Walter Reavis, Fred Kennedy, John Cooper. Brown and Friedly. The bugler was Parley. The procession started from the brigade hospital, the South Dakota band taking the lead, the firing party next, the hearse drawn by the following men from company L, G. S. Ballard, C. W. Smith, W. E. Smith, D. J. Bonner, Allard, O'Flarity, Lukenbeal and J. O. Elton. After the hearse followed the escort, composed of the remainder of company L, officers and friends of the deceased. The pall-bearers were Bodley, Crawford, Dukes, Ralfe, Gallagher, Jones, Newfield and Howard from the hospital corps. The Oregon chaplain read the service and the South Dakota chaplain led in prayer. Then the firing party advanced and fired three volleys over the grave; next the bugler blew "taps" and the ceremony was finished.

We returned to Cavite and took the 4 o'clock boat for Manila, feeling that we had paid the last tribute to a dear and faithful comrade. He received a Christian burial.

Samuel E. Wells.

Some uncertainty as to the date of the Shakespearean readings by Samuel Wells has prevented his appearance in this city being very extensively advertised, consequently Dalles people may fail to improve what is certainly a rare opportunity to hear a good reader.

The entertainment will begin this evening at the Baldwin, when "The Merchant of Venice" and "Gems of Laughable Humor" will be presented. Tomorrow night Mr. Wells will be heard in "Hamlet." Wednesday the program will be somewhat varied, and the "Humor and

Brigadier Marshall Speaks Tonight.

Brigadier Marshall, who has been conducting a series of meetings at the Salvation Army hall, has decided to remain and hold another meeting tonight. His meetings have been well attended and great interest has been shown.

Sunday afternoon one man found the Savior the brigadier has been tending of, and Sunday night three young men knelt at the altar and found the saving grace of God sufficient for them.

God is wonderfully using the Brigadier to bring souls into the light of Gods love. Come and hear him speak tonight. We cordially invite you to come.

Mrs. Marshall, the sweet singer will also be in the meeting.

It's Human Nature.

This readiness to accept the wonderful and miraculous in preference to commonplace truth. A plausible and glib-tongued doctor can go from town to town curing, or trying to cure, people, and have a great influx of shakels, while every community in which the so-called doctor goes is supplied with quiet, learned practitioners, who have forgotten more than the fakir ever learned, and they can give you the best treatment within the reach of human knowledge. While your home doctors carry you from year to year, get up at all times of the night and are your servants during the day, and you pay them when you are well or able, the fakir gets the cash, and is gone forever. If your eyes are troubling you in any way, call on Prof. P. G. Daut, the only graduated optician or doctor of refraction in The Dalles, two doors west of Keller's bakery. I am here to stay, and guarantee all eye work. Prof. P. G. DAUT.
