The program tonight at the Halloween party is going to be extra good. Be sure and hear it. Admission 20 cents.

Tomorrow morning a new morning daily, Republican in politics, will be launched in Pendleton, known as the "Morning News."

We regret to learn that Mr. Wm. Floyd has been seriously ill since his arrival in Seattle, as it was hoped the change would benefit him.

Be sure and bring your purse, with something in it, to the Halloween party tonight at the Baldwin. You'll want to buy some of those extra fine candies from the young ladies. They have all kinds.

The premiums awarded exhibitors at the district fair are now ready at the office of T. A. Hudson, on Washington street. Secretary Mack may be found there, and exhibitors are requested to call for them.

A dispatch from Washington says: The secretary of the interior has approved for patent to The Dalles Military Road Company a list of lands selected under its grant, embracing 597 acres in The Dalles district."

Who said our streets are dirty? If any one did, they'd better take it back before the street sweeper makes them, for he's busy at work today on Second street. Don't let him pass your door without giving the street in front of it at least a passing rub.

The Oregon Bar Association will hold its annual meeting in the United States court room, in Portland, November 8th and 9th. This meeting will be an important one, inasmuch as action will be taken to raise and maintain a higher standard for the profession in Oregon.

Wheat is not coming in from the interior so lively as it has been, the bulk of Wasco county's crop being already stored and a small quantity sold. Klickitat wheat is still moving rapidly toward The Dalles, and there is much yet to come. The price still stands at 51 cents.

Mr. D. Goodstein, of the firm of Goodstein & Co., of Portland, is in the city today making arrangements to start a clothing and furnishing store in the building lately occupied by W. A. Johnston. We welcome this new firm to our city and trust they will find this a first class place for their line of business.

The writing school closed Saturday evening, when prizes were awarded to the following pupils by Prof. Garrison: Prize of $2.50 for greatest improvement, Nellie Davis; best writer among the boys, Seiche Fukunag, a silver napkin ring; best girl writer, Pearl Joles, who also received a napkin ring.

The funeral of Mrs. Mervin Rand, who died in this city Friday night, of consumption, took place from the family residence, at the head of Liberty street, this afternoon. Deceased was but 25 years old, and has been a great sufferer for months, keeping up as best she could on account of her two small children, Mr. Rand himself being unable to care for them. One will now be sent to the orphans' home, while the other will be taken in charge by kind friends.

At a meeting of the members of the Christian church last night after service, the work of the pastor, Rev. Boltz. was highly commended, and there is little doubt that he will be retained another year. During his ten-months' pastorate here the church has been built up wonderfully, seventy-eight accessions being made to the membership, and an interest being awakened which will tell in the future welfare of the society. He is not only a good worker, but an eloquent speaker.

Our library is steadily increasing its list of books, 130 volumes being received yesterday, and 200 more are expected in a few days. Nothing which has been started in our city for many years has given such satisfaction in literary circles as the library. Its books are the latest and very best to be procured being chosen by a committee well fitted to make selections. Those who do not improve the opportunity to get such good reading for so small a sum as twenty-five cents a month are missing much.

The steamer Sarah Dixon left this city Saturday night about 9 o'clock and made a through trip to Portland passing through the locks at 3 o'clock, when the moonlight made it almost as light as day. At 2:30 the Dalles City came through on its way to Lyle, where 3000 sacks of wheat were loaded and the steamer returned to Portland. The Dixon arrived at The Dalles about 8 o'clock last night. The amount of freight carried by this line during the past few months has been immense, compelling them to make extra trips. As soon as the rush caused by the shipment of wheat is over the steamers will leave the city at an earlier hour.

A very sad and fatal accident occurred at Cascades Saturday. Mrs J. J. Gibbons and her son were driving into town in a cart when the boy stopped to pick up a horse shoe in the road. The horse which they were driving became frightened and ran away, throwing Mrs. Gibbons out and breaking her neck. A horseman who saw the runaway team endeavored to catch up and stop them, but failed to do so, overtaking them only in time to raise the lifeless form of the unfortunate woman from the road where she had been thrown. The husband of the deceased was formerly employed in the shops at this place, where she has a number of friends.

Everybody reads THE CHRONICLE.

ONLY AIR AND NOTHING MORE

"Air Ship" Fell Flat, But Not Flattering—Shall We Have Good Shows?

The Air ship company, which was all that the name implies, very airy, succeeded in disgusting an unusually large audience Saturday night, and making them wish an air ship would transport them to any old place but where they were. People who, after reading the flattering notices given by the Oregonian, and foolishly copied by the papers here, went to the opera house expecting to see a passably good play, were compelled to listen to what would not be considered an excuse for a 15 cent variety show. There was not a plot to the play, not a singer, an actor, a dancer, nor even a pretty girl on the stage, the only redeeming feature being the beautiful scenery, and the tableau between the second and third acts. The play consisted of—well, we'll give it up, unless it was a conglomeration of skirts, which were built so as to display homely forms.

No blame can be attached to the manager of the opera house, who did all in his power to find out the true status of the company. It seems a good deal of money must have been put up in Portland as every report has been flattering. However, if such plays were the only ones brought to the city it would be no more than could be expected, for somehow it seems they are the style most appreciated. When such singers as Yaw, such actors as Ward, or even as the Noble company, which need no recommendation from any one, appear in our city, about a dozen gather at the opera house to greet them, while the rest of the theatre-going public have as an excuse for their absence that they were 'so bilked' when Si Perkins and the Air Ship company were here," that they were "afraid to attend." The next week when some snide minstrel or third-class "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show pastes up its glaring, heart-rendering bills, a rush is made for seats and the opera house will hardly contain the crowd.

What incentive is there for a manager to endeavor to get good companies to visit our city? None.

Fulton-Hurlbut Wedding.

The marriage of Mr. J. Frank Fulton and Miss Lillian Hurlbut occurred yesterday afternoon in the Vogt block, Rev. J. H. Wood conducting the ceremony. At 4 o'clock a sumptuous wedding dinner was served at Keller's parlors, at which fifteen guests were served. There were present at the ceremony and dinner Mrs. George Fulton, mother of the groom, Ada Fulton, Will and Mace Fulton, sister and brothers of the groom, Mrs. Frank Fulton, Dave Fulton and Alice Gilmore, of Wasco, Charlie Fulton, Lelah Foss, also relatives of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stubling and Miss Anna Stubling, of this city. The groom is a member of a family well known in Oregon and is highly respected. He is an industrous farmer and the young couple will make their home on his farm twelve miles from this city. The bride, whose parents live at Tillamook, has resided in The Dalles for the past two years and has made many friends who recognize her true worth of character.

Y. P. S. C. E. Service.

At the Congregational church last night the service was under the direction of the Y. P. S. C. E., the president, Miss Story, conducting the meeting. The singing was exceptionally good, (which means much) two anthems being rendered by the choir and a solo "Over the Stars There is Rest" was sung by Mr. Arvine Phelps, who several years ago was wont to delight Dalles people by the sweetness of his voice.

Rev. Poling gave a short address, taking as his text the words of the Lord to Elijah, "What doest thou here?" The speaker in enlarging on the theme said the text implies purpose, which must be the foundation of every successful life. Character is purpose focalized Achievement is the fruits of a well founded purpose. Circumstances do not make the man, but are secondary. Great opportunities without a worthy purpose produce the most disastrous results. Perhaps one out of every thousand makes a success in life because of circumstances, while it has been proven even in the life of the greatest of all examples, Christ himself, that the sublime purpose which characterized his stay on earth made his life worthy of imitation. In conclusion he urged the Endeavorers to take the words of Paul as their own when he said: "But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Says: "The fool saith, 'Put all thy eggs in different baskets;' which means, scatter your money and your attention; but the wise man saith: 'Put all your eggs in one basket, and watch the basket.'"

We have only one basket, and we are watching it in optics. Having made a thorough study of the subject, graduating from three of the best colleges, we are enabled to give you a scientific examination. It doesn't matter whether you buy a $10 glass or a $1 glass, or any glasses at all, you get an examination, and a thorough one at that, which alone is worth your time to know your eyes. I fit all cases of eyes, and am permanently located in The Dalles. I am no traveling fake, and best of all I guarantee all work in optics to give you entire satisfaction. Yours to serve,
