

SYRUP OF FIGS

NEVER IMITATED IN QUALITY.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

PERSONAL MENTION.

I. H. Taffe was in town today.

M. G. Chase, of Spokane, is in the city.

James Whitten is an Antelope visitor to the city.

H. B. Hendricks and family are registered at the Umatilla from Portland.

E. Jacobsen arrived home this morning after an extended business trip into the interior.

Mrs. Grace Larymore came up on last evening's train and is the guest of Miss Clara Davis.

Mrs. W. Goulton arrived on the morning train and left shortly after for her home at Centerville.

Miss Maude Clark accompanied her aunt, Mrs. Hadley, to Moro, where she will visit for a short time.

G. C. Blakeley returned this morning from Pendleton, where he went to attend the reunion of the Blakeley family.

Mrs. John Wood, who has been in Portland for some time past, returned last night much improved in health.

J. D. McDermid was in the city yesterday from Wasco, and during the day made the Chronicle office a pleasant call.

Mrs. W. O. Hadley, who has spent the past few weeks with her mother in this city, returned to her home at Wasco last evening.

G. H. Tyson, general agent of the German American Insurance company, and J. Grant, special agent, are in the city in the interest of the company.

W. E. Gilhouse and family, of Des Chutes, left on last night's train for Missouri, where they will visit his uncle, who was formerly a resident of The Dalles.

H. R. Camp, C. A. Post and H. F. Fisher, tourists from Louisville, Kentucky, were in the city today. They expect to make a trip through the Prineville country.

Fred Grunow, our soldier boy, left this morning for Vancouver, where he will report, going to Chicago, and from there to Huntsville, Alabama, where the troops are to be stationed for the winter.

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has lame back and weak kidneys, malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by taking Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to the Liver and Kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures constipation, headache, fainting spells, sleeplessness and melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c a bottle at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store. 3

Noble Conduct of Our Men at the Defeat of Cervera.

Their Humane Acts Stand Out as Gleams of Light Among the Shadows of a Bloody Battle—Some Notable Instances.

Nothing could speak more impressively of the type of men who are fighting our battles on land and sea than the scenes depicted in the defeat of Admiral Cervera. They furnish another confirmation of the saying that "the bravest are the tenderest." The vanquished Spaniards that day before Santiago, naked, wounded and dying in the wreckage of their burning and battered ships, found our men no less prompt and ready in every gentle courtesy and kindly ministry, when the time and the opportunity came for such action, than they had been in giving them battle when that stern duty had been theirs.

Nothing more chivalrous is conceivable than the act of Capt. Evans in refusing to receive the proffered sword of Capt. Eulate, of the Vizcaya, when that officer stepped on board the Iowa, wounded and a prisoner. The Spaniard's cup of humiliation was already full to overflowing, and Capt. Evans was not the man to needlessly add another drop. And so, the account runs, "he waved aside the sword with a friendly gesture and grasped the hand of the Spaniard and welcomed his brother officer to the hospitality of the ship." It is not surprising that Capt. Eulate, brave man that he is, was deeply touched by this magnanimous action, and responded to it by asking to meet the Iowa's officers, to each of whom he gave a word of gratitude before he was carried below. Afterwards Capt. Eulate told Admiral Cervera that it was the proudest moment of his life when the gallant American commander allowed him to retain his treasured blade.

Another striking scene was enacted on the deck of the Iowa when Admiral Cervera came on board after being rescued in the surf by a boat from the Gloucester. The reception given to the veteran Spanish warrior could hardly have been heartier had he been one of our victorious leaders instead of a captive foe. The full marine guard was paraded, the bugles flourished a salute, and many hands were extended in cordial greeting.

The conduct and bearing of Cervera throughout all the sad and trying scenes since his downfall have been in perfect keeping with his chivalrous action in sending prompt assurance to our fleet of the safety of Lieut. Hobson and his comrades, after the sinking of the Merrimac. He has borne himself like a true soldier and an honorable gentleman being appreciative and quickly responsive to every act of kindness on the part of those around him. He is said to have been specially affected by the humanity and zeal displayed by our surgeons toward his wounded, and, in token of his appreciation, he gave to one of them, Dr. Crandall, his autograph, saying simply that he had no other souvenir to offer, having lost "all but his honor."

He showed the same appreciative sense when he thanked Lieutenant Commander Wainwright and Lieut. Huse, of the Gloucester, for the manner in which they had stood by the Maria Teresa, whose heated guns made a fearful danger zone, and whose magazine threatened to dash the life from everyone near by. Cervera begged Lieut. Huse to shove off from the flaming vessel, but that officer replied: "Not until we have taken all the wounded from the decks." It is not strange that Cervera's men were moved to tears when they were finally separated from their old commander at Portsmouth.

Another solemn and impressive scene was that on board the Texas just after the battle, when Capt. Philip called upon his officers and men to uncover their heads and offer up "silent thanks to the Almighty," who had granted them the victory. In the same spirit were his words when he asked his men to refrain from cheering, because, he said, "men are dying all around us." This was the spirit, too, that animated all our gallant marines when, after the fighting ceased and victory had been achieved, they put forth every effort to rescue the wounded on the enemy's ships and those struggling in the waves. Others were saved from a cruel fate at the hands of the Cubans who lined the shore. The wounded were taken on board our ships and given every attention possible. The naked were clothed and the hungry fed.—Leslie's Weekly.

AMERICAN SILVER TRUSS.

It can be altered by the wearer to the shape of the body, not being made of hardened steel and can, with a little judicious and careful bending, be made stronger or weaker in pressure, as desired.

M. Z. Donnell, Druggist.

Is Used by Many

Leading institutions throughout the United States and Canada, and have been adopted by Guy's and Westminster Hospitals, London, England. In this Truss the principle hitherto so greatly desired has at last been achieved, that of firmly and constantly holding the rupture with a gentle hand-like pressure.

It does not pass around the hip like other trusses, but over the hip; the silver wire lying in the hollow of side, thereby allowing the free movement of the hips and limbs, allowing the wearer to stride out freely, and delug away with the fear and dread that something will go wrong that usually attends the wearing of other trusses.

Its lightness is featherweight in comparison with other trusses. It is so light the wearer scarcely knows he has anything on, and this is a great comfort, enabling the wearer to forget his ailments.
