Yesterday's Oregonian announces that the marriage of Miss Laura Knowles, of Portland and Mr. Frank Somerville, of Hay Creek, will be celebrated on Thursday, December 8th.

If the boys who found the horse-shoe scarf pin, advertised last week, will call at the CHRONICLE office and return it, they will receive a liberal reward. The owner values it much more highly than they can.

High bowling scores at the Umatilla last week were as follows: Monday, Nolan, 53; Tuesday, J. Flemming, 67; Wednesday, Maetz, 71; Thursday, Maetz, 71; Friday, Maetz, 70; Saturday, Maetz, 65; Sunday, S. Cathcart, 66.

At a meeting of the members of the Christian church last evening their pastor, Rev. Boltz, gave notice that it was his intention to enter the evangelistic field at the close of this year's work, as that has always been the work most preferable to him.

One dozen of those extra finish Platino Fotos, made by Gifford, will make you twelve fine presents for Christmas. Nothing would be appreciated more, and now is the time to sit for them. Don't put it off too long and then expect to have them finished in time. 1 lm

Yesterday morning the body of Charles Shanks was brought to this city and taken to the Crandall & Burget undertaking parlors. At 1:30 the funeral procession left for the cemetery, followed by members of the orders of Workmen and Foresters. The services were conducted at the grave by Rev. J. H. Wood.

A gypsy outfit was in the city yesterday and left on the boat this morning. They must have belonged to the gypsy "400" from their outfit, one wagon of which they claim was worth $550. Whether a gypsy's character may be known by the coat he wears we know not; but as far as we have learned they were very peacable.

The Sarah Dixon was delayed somewhat yesterday on account of the heavy wind, which is always more noticeable on the river. However, she arrived at the wharf last evening about 7:30 o'clock with the Dalles City and Regulator hulls. Work was commenced on the Regulator this morning and it is expected the house can be placed on her new hull in about ten days.

Residents awoke this morning to be greeted by a "cold frost," the coldest of the season, the thermometer being down to 29 degrees. At about 10 o'clock a few stray snow flakes were seen flitting in the air, reminding us that winter is at hand, while the Klickitat hills looked as if they were preparing to don their winter garb, for they are usually the leaders in the winter styles.

Yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents about five miles west of The Dalles, Oliver Bowers and Ida L. Ganger were united in marriage by Elder Wm. Michell. About twenty-five of the relatives of the young people were present, and after congratulations had been extended to them, a wedding dinner was served and the occasion proved a joyous one for all.

In spite of the many privations and homesickness which our soldiers seem to be passing through, they have not forgotten their Dalles friends and many souvenirs have been received here. In the window of Van Norden's jewelry store a collection is displayed which was received Saturday by Miss Bertie Glenn, and Mr. Garretson's window also contains many interesting souvenirs which Fred Granow brought with him from historical places which he visited.

For the past week the friends of Mrs. Joseph Erhart, who was taken to the hospital in Portland about a month ago to be treated for stomach trouble, have been hearing of the hopelessness of her case, and feared the worse, as her disease was pronounced cancer of the stomach. This morning a message was received telling of her death at that place last night and that her remains would be brought home this evening. Her husband and daughter, Miss Edna, were at her bedside and will accompany the remains. Mrs. Erhart has always been considered a very healthy woman till within the past few months, and her friends can scarcely realize she is to be brought home a corpse. Deep sympathy is expressed for the husband and daughter, the latter seeming to so fully rely upon her mother not only as a daughter always does, but for a close companionship, having no sisters nor brothers.

Padding' Head Wilson Says: "The fool saith, 'Put all thy eggs in different baskets,' which means scatter your money and your attention; but the wise man saith: 'Put all your eggs in one basket, and watch the basket.'"

We have only one basket, and we are watching it in optics. Having made a thorough study of the subject, graduating from three of the best colleges, we are enabled to give you a scientific examination. It doesn't matter whether you buy a $10 glass or a $1 glass, or and glasses at all, you get an examination, and a thorough one at that, which alone is worth your time to know your eyes. I fit all cases of eyes, and am permanently located in The Dalles. I am no traveling fake, and best of all I guarantee all work in optics to give you entire satisfaction. Yours to serve,

STABBED TO DEATH

PHILIP BROGAN MURDERED AT ANTELOPE SATURDAY.

Frank Forester, His Camp Packer, Commits the Dreadful Deed and Escapes—Officers Sent in Pursuit of the Fugitive From Justice.

This seems to be a season of accidents and fatalities and The Dalles has not for years been so afflicted in the loss of citizens as during the past year or more. Yesterday morning residents were shocked to learn of the murder of one of its highly respected and prominent men, Philip Brogan, at Antelope. A telephone message received from Grass Valley first conveyed the news to friends here, and it was not many minutes until the subject was uppermost in the conversation of all.

Many conflicting reports may be heard in regard to the manner in which the dreadful affair took place, but as nearly as can be determined the facts are as follows: A man by the name of Frank Forester who has been working for Mr. Brogan for some time as camp packer owed Brogan $100, which he was to work out, and there was some misunderstanding as to its settlement. Friday Brogan was thrown from his horse and hurt very badly, so that when Forester wished a settlement Saturday his employer asked that it be left until Sunday, when he would be feeling better, and it was so decided.

Saturday night Mr. Brogan was in Silvertooth's saloon in Antelope, when a man nicknamed "Slim," another man, a Mexican, and Forester entered. As they stepped to the bar, Brogan was invited to take a drink, but he refused, saying he did not feel well. In a short time a man named Frank Gumm and Forester began quarreling, when the former knocked the latter down. "Slim" then took a hand and pulled Gumm off of Forester. McRae, who was in the saloon at the same time, in turn separated "Slim" and Gumm. At this juncture Brogan, who had previously stayed in the back part of the room, walked to the front, and "Slim" thinking he meant to leave, picked up a chair and was about to knock him down, when McRae interfered, Forester then made a dash at Brogan with a knife stabbing him in the heart. He lived but about two minutes after.

The murderer then dashed out of the saloon and escaped. Sheriff Brown at once sent a posse in pursuit, but no word has been received as to the result of their search.

"Phil" Brogan is a man of about 56 years, and was perhaps as widely known as any man in the county, having been in the sheep business near Antelope for years. That he should have met such a violent death is greatly to be regretted. About eight years ago he moved to this city, built a home on Third street where his family now resides. A short time previous to that his wife died and was brought here for burial, so that the six children, five daughters and one son, are now left motherless and fatherless.

Reports as to Forester's character are conflicting, some saying he was not of a quarrelsome disposition, but that his deed must have been caused from a brain fired by liquor. Others say he was always hot-headed and ready for a fight, having the reputation of being decidedly "tough."

This morning Brogan's remains were brought to this city, accompanied by a number of friends of the deceased.

The funeral will take place from the Catholic church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

LATER—Reports received here late this afternoon are to the effect that two persons have been arrested as suspects. Rewards have been offered, and the sheriff is now contemplating sending out a posse from here in pursuit of the fleeing fugitive from justice.

events and selected miscellany and anecdotes fill its columns from week to week and from year to year. A handsome illustrated announcement and sample copies will be sent free to any one addressing THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 211 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass. The Lafayette Entertainment.

The interest taken in anything given by our public schools was shown Saturday night when the Vogt opera house was crowded with an audience eager to hear the Lafayette entertainment. We will defy any city in Oregon to excel The Dalles in the standard of school programs rendered. Whether we have unusual talent or whether the interest and energy manifested by our proficient teachers, assisted by parents who encourage the children, is accountable for the successes achieved, we know not; but certain it is that they can't be beat. Saturday evening was not an exception to the rule, and choruses, solos, essays, tableaux and recitations showed that talent and training were both predominant.

To mention any particular numbers would not be justice to the rest, but we cannot refrain from noticing the two tableaux, "France Consoling the Goddess" and "Unveiling the Lafayette Monument." In the former Miss Anna Haslam represented the Goddess of Liberty and Carrie Zeigler, France. In the latter George Ruch, mounted on a pedestal, represented the statue of Lafayette, which Clarence Gilbert unveiled, and the little children dropping their tribute of flowers, made a beautiful scene as the red light was thrown on it. The choruses "Marseilles Hymn" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic," which were sung by several children dressed in costume, was particularly pleasing, the march being executed perfectly and the singing good.

But we must refrain, for each number is deserving of mention, but space forbids.

The receipts of the evening, which will be forwarded to the Lafayette fund, were over $50.
