

ARCHBISHOP GROSS HAS PASSED AWAY

His Death Was Entirely Unexpected.

HIS CAREER AN INTERESTING ONE

Was Appointed a Bishop When Only 36 Years of Age—Under His Administration the Pacific Coast Has Made Great Strides.

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.—Archbishop William Hickley Gross, of the Oregon Roman Catholic church, died at St. Joseph's hospital, Baltimore, Md., this morning. His grace had been in ill health for some time, and during the first week of last September, he decided to visit his old home in Baltimore.

Then he did not expect his ailments would terminate fatally. But almost a week ago he took to his bed, from which he never arose, passing into a tranquil, eternal sleep, from general debility. His death was an unexpected one, as up to within a few hours of his grace's demise he gave evidence of recuperation.

The Catholic clergy of this city were startled upon receiving the mournful news, as they hoped for something better. On the late archbishop's personal request, he will be laid to rest in his native city Thursday, and there will be no time for any prelate from the Pacific coast to reach Baltimore for the funeral. On Thursday there will be a grand requiem mass (Corcaro Absent).

The Most Reverend William H. Gross, D. D., C. S. S. R., third archbishop of Oregon, was born in the city of Baltimore, Md., on June 12, 1837. The Gross family came originally from Alsace, and its American founder, Jacob Gross, and his son, John J. Gross, took part in the defense of Baltimore in 1812.

The archbishop received his early education at the parochial school, attached to St. Vincent's church, Baltimore. In this church he also made his first communion.

In 1857 he was invested with the religious habit and formally began his career as a Redemptorist novice. On April 3, 1858, he made his first vows, when his aim was centered upon becoming a perfect Redemptorist. In March, 1863, the deceased prelate was ordained a prelate at Annapolis, Md., by Archbishop Kenrick, of Baltimore.

He remained a part of the time as army chaplain at Annapolis. His experiences during the civil war were of a trying order. He was almost incessantly in the hospital, the field of battle, the skirmish line or the lonely outpost.

When Archbishop Gross was promoted to the archiepiscopal see of Oregon in 1885, he could point to a splendid cathedral erected by his exertions among a people of scanty means, the number of priests increased to twenty-seven, churches and chapels to thirty, institutions and orphan asylums to fourteen. And all this was done in a Catholic population not exceeding 25,000.

When Archbishop Seghers resigned in 1884, in order to devote his life more particularly to the Indian missions of the extreme Northwest the holy see selected Bishop Gross to succeed him.

It was at his instance that the Benedictine Fathers at Mount Angel opened a college for the higher education of the young, which is advancing yearly in the number of its pupils and the efficiency of its training. Later on, at his request, a lesser and a greater seminary have been added, so that young Oregonians are now provided right at home with all the facilities needed for attaining the education, required by the church in candidates, for the priesthood.

The Christian Brothers have also been introduced into Oregon to take charge of St. Michael's college and the parochial school attached to the cathedral. Academies for the education of young ladies have increased from eight to twenty. In addition to the religious orders of women already in the diocese, six additional orders have been introduced. In other works of charity his zeal has been no less manifested.

On the 26th, 27th and 28th of last April the silver jubilate of Archbishop Gross was celebrated here. On this occasion, which was the greatest church event in the history of Oregon, a beautiful residence was presented to him.

MURDER IN SCHOOLHOUSE

Fatal Wind-up of a Debate in Coos County—Ray Hollenbeck Stabbed to Death by Guy Beckford.

EMPIRE CITY, Or., Nov. 13.—Saturday evening, about midnight, a fatal stabbing affray occurred near Fairview in what was known as the North Fork school house. From what can be learned of the occurrence, the particulars are as follows:

A debate had been held in the school house that evening, and after it a dispute arose between Ray Hollenbeck and Guy Beckford, two young men. The cause of the dispute was the moving of the blackboard and the desks. One word brought on another, until Hollenbeck, who seemed to be the aggressor, wanted Beckford to fight. They were separated once by Frank Pierce, and left alone in the school house for a few moments. On Pierce's return he found that they had renewed the quarrel, Hollenbeck again pressing Beckford to fight. He was told to stand back, but still kept coming. Beckford told him that if he came any closer that he would stab him. Hollenbeck said if there was any stabbing that he could stab, too. And as he reached for his knife, Beckford struck him a fatal blow. On receiving the blow Hollenbeck called out, "I am killed," bent over and began to vomit, and died almost instantly.

Beckford made no attempt to escape, but went to his father and mother, who were staying close by in the house of a neighbor. He told them what he had done. He is almost heartbroken over the awful consequences of his rash act. The body of Hollenbeck is still in the school house where he was killed.

Dawson Visited by a Fire.

SEAGWAY, Alaska, Nov. 7, via Victoria, B. C., Nov. 14.—Returning Klondikers today bring news that the city of Dawson has been visited with a $500,000 fire, in which forty buildings were burned. The blaze was started as the result of a row between two women of the town, in which one of them, Belle Mitchell, threw a lighted lamp at the other. The lamp broke, the oil spread, and in a few seconds the building was on fire. The fire of a year ago was caused by this same woman, who threw a lamp at a man with whom she had a quarrel.

SPANIARDS MAKE A FINAL STAND

Hangs on Nature of Their Next Proposal.

JOINT SESSION POSTPONED

Dons Will Probably Refuse to Sign a Treaty Which Yields No More to Spain for the Philippines Than Has Thus Far Been Offered, and When The Americans Refuse to Concede More, Announce Their Withdrawal From the Negotiations.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Owing to the inability of the Spaniards to prepare a memorandum for presentation as expected, there will be no joint session of the peace commission today. The next meeting will be held Wednesday.

Importance is attached to the delay, it being indicative that the Spaniards are preparing for a final stand, and it may be definitely stated that they will not sign a treaty of peace which yields no more to Spain for the Philippines than has thus far been offered or indicated by the Americans.

Should the latter announce that the United States is only willing to reimburse Spain for her pacific expenditures in the Philippine islands, the Spanish commissioners will reply that their mission is finished. Should this occur, it is possible the Spaniards will suggest the suspension of negotiations through the commission and the resumption of negotiations between Washington and Madrid.

At the next meeting, the Americans will learn the definite attitude of Spain on any proposition thus far made. The Spaniards, however, in this presentation will not declare all negotiations closed. They will insist that the sovereignty of Spain over the Philippines is beyond question, but will announce Spain's readiness to yield that sovereignty for adequate equivalent, and will invite negotiations under the Spanish construction of the protocol. Thus Spain will be able to say to her creditors that she has done her utmost, and the issue must rest between them and the United States.

From New Zealand.

REFTON, New Zealand, Nov. 23, 1896. I am very pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicine the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children.

Spanish Troops Have Mutinied.

KEY WEST, Nov. 14.—Private reports from Porto Principe and Neuvitas, Cuba, state that 7000 regular Spanish soldiers mutinied, demanding their pay before embarking for Spain. Four thousand of them, fully armed, surrounded the military governor, General Emilio March, who finally induced them to return to their quarters. The cruiser Alfonso XII and two gunboats are on their way to Neuvitas to compel the soldiers to embark.
