We pride ourselves on the fact that our customers are permanent ones, and that we have won their friendship and confidence by continual square dealing and fair treatment in every way. It is our aim and purpose to treat everyone who enters our establishment so well, and to give them such good values for every dollar they expend, that they will come back again and again. We believe that "merit in merchandise" pays, and we carry out our belief in our daily dealings.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Next Friday evening Chaplain Lozier, who is a renowned lecturer and one who is particularly pleasing, will appear at the M. E. church under the auspices of the League, and speak upon the subject of "Apron Strings."

You will regret it if you make extensive preparations for Christmas before attending the fair next month. The ladies will have on hand all sorts of fancy and substantial articles, and you will surely find what you want.

A band of 4000 sheep, which had been purchased by a Montana dealer named Harvey, were brought to the city yesterday and will be shipped tomorrow morning. They were bought from Messrs. Mays, Rooper, Grant, Don and others.

It was expected that the November term of circuit court would be an extra long one; but matters were dispatched so promptly that the session has already adjourned and the jurors and others interested have gone to their respective homes.

Word was received in this city yesterday that George Rice, eldest son of Wes Rice, was dying of typhoid pneumonia at the home of his parents in Ferris, Calif. He had been attending school in Sacramento and came home seriously ill. As it was requested that either his uncle, J. E. Barnett or D. W. Mann come down, the latter left this morning for that place.

Of course The Dalles will help the Canyon City sufferers, and this morning when a petition was presented to her citizens, they responded nobly. No sum, however small, is refused, and so everyone can come to the front in this good work. When the list is handed to you add your name to it, and what you will scarcely miss will go far toward lightening the burdens of those whose homes were so ruthlessly taken from them.

The recent heavy rains and the snow that has fallen came too late to start the grass, but will be of great benefit to the stock. Springs and streams had so nearly dried up that cattle and horses were suffering from want of water, especially so on account of almost uniformly cold nights that prevailed during the first part of the month, freezing up the little water that remained.—Crock County Journal.

Yesterday Constable E. S. Olinger brought up from Hood River John K. Stocking, who had been arrested for insanity. This morning he was examined before Judge Mays, when he was discharged, as his insanity could not be proven. Hood River is so accustomed to having cases of insanity in its midst that the residents must have concluded they were neglecting their duty and that it was time they were Stockin' up.

Mumps have been holding high carnval in our city, and are still quite numerous. Although they are very painful, no alarm is caused by their appearance. However, the slightest hint of a case of scarlet fever causes much anxiety, and so this morning when it was learned that Carmel Bolton was ill of this dreadful disease and a flag had been hung out at the home of Mr. J. W. French, where they reside, much concern was felt. It is hoped that it will prove to be a light case and spread no further through the city.

Ed. Warren, who was arrested at Sumpter on a warrant issued out of Judge Rulison's court on a charge of arson, had his hearing at Canyon City last Tuesday, the judge on convening his court Wednesday stated in substance that in his opinion he did not consider the testimony sufficient to convict the defendant, but in the name of justice he deemed it proper that the defendant be held to await a further investigation by the grand jury. His bond was placed at $1000, which was not given at last report from Canyon City.

Saturday evening Miss Margaretta Kinersly entertained a number of young friends in honor of Miss Jennie Beresford, who is her guest. Nothing which could add to the pleasure of the evening was overlooked, and as they sang, danced and played games it was evident that all were enjoying themselves to the fullest extent. Mrs. Kinersly had prepared a very inviting lunch, and each one vied with the other in showing their appreciation of the good things provided. The hours were small before the company could tear themselves away from so much enjoyment.

Saturday evening a party of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Murchie repaired to their home on the hill with the intent of offering their congratulations and enjoying a few hours with them. The gathering was a surprise to the recipients and proved to be a source of great pleasure to all, as they joined in conversation and music, at the same time not forgetting that the best of good will always prevail around a well-spread table. As an expression of their good wishes Mr. and Mrs. Murchie were presented with some very pretty silver pepper and salt shakers. The following young people composed the party: Mr. and Mrs. Teague, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hill, Misses Elythe Randall, Hilda Beck, Lola Ewbank, Messrs. Frank Wood, Freas Saunders and Chester Starr.

A correspondent writing to a Golden-dale paper says: "Never has the writer seen The Dalles road in a better condition for travel than this fall. Some work was put on the road on the Columbia side of the mountain, soon after the first rains this fall, which put the grade in very good shape." And this very fact has been telling on the trade which has come to this city from our neighbors across the way. It requires a great deal of work and constant attention to keep this road in any kind of a condition, the sand dunes causing much trouble, but it pays in the long run, and, with the inducement of free ferriage given to wheat producers this fall, has been a source of profit to all concerned. Not only have Dalles people felt its effects, but Klickitat farmers have been benefited thereby.

"When she will she will and you depend on it," and so the goat which has so long held undisputed right of way through the streets of our city, must go, for so say the ladies whose rose-bushes and garden shrubs have furnished food for his aesthetic taste. "The flowers that bloom in the fall have something to do with his case." Long has he roamed about with his nose in the air and his right there was none to dispute, but the tables have turned and the place that once knew him shall know him no more forever, for "they've got him on their list." He will not be raffled, neither will he be re-tailed, nor sold for butter (nor worse); but when that weapon that is mightier than the sword (the broomstick) is wielded in vengeance over his offensive hide, there'll not be enough of him left to tell the tail. His days are certainly numbered, and no more will he be seen gracefully scaling the fence, for he has committed his last offense, either in public or sub rosa.

An Important Difference.
To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. ### FREIGHT SLIGHTLY WRECKED.

Train Broke in Two and Three Wheat-Laden Cars Thrown From the Track.

One of those fortunate accidents, wherein but for the if, which means so much, a serious and fatal catastrophe must have taken place, occurred Saturday night just after the west-bound freight from Umatilla had passed the Summit. The train had just twenty-five minutes in which to reach The Dalles before the passenger arrived, when a journal-box broke, letting the truck down and causing the train to break in two and three cars loaded with wheat to leave the track, piling up in a heap. Engineer Ferguson, seeing that nothing else could be done, sent a flagman back toward the Summit and started on to The Dalles with the forward part of the train. Just as they reached Seufert's, three miles from town, the east-bound passenger made its appearance and was flagged, when it backed down to the city and was compelled to wait until 8 o'clock yesterday morning. In the meantime the 3:30 and 7 o'clock west-bound trains were flagged, and were also compelled to wait until the track was cleared.

A large force of men from here, and in fact all the workmen to be obtained, were sent to the scene of the wreck, and the work of clearing progressed rapidly.

Fortunately no lives were lost and the loss to the company is slight, being about $300, barring the delay.

Trainmen, however, say that had the accident occurred half a mile further west, one of the worst wrecks ever known on the road would have taken place, as the steep down grade would necessarily have added to the disaster.

Married at Monkland.

At the residence of the bride's parents, near Monkland, Or., Sunday, Nov., 20th, J. S. Hady, of Wasco county, and Anna Elcock, of Sherman county, were united in marriage by Rev. C. D. Nickelsen, Miss Cordie Ragsdale and Mr. R. D. Butler acting as best man and lady.

At about the hour of 11 o'clock guests began to arrive and soon the spacious and elegantly decorated parlor was filled to the utmost, while in the center of the room stood a table laden with many and valuable presents, which had been brought by admiring friends and relatives. Soon eager eyes were looking for the appearance of the bride and groom.

Shortly after the guests had all arrived, the minister entered the parlor followed by the bride and groom, the bridesmaid and best man. The ceremony was followed by a short prayer. Next came congratulations, followed by as fine a wedding dinner as one could wish to see.

The bride was dressed in cream satin finished and trimmed in white silk, white slippers and a beautiful wreath of orange blossoms, while the groom was dressed in the latest fashion.

The happy couple left the same even-

A Sure Sign of Croup.

Hoarseness in a child that is subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
